This is Heart Month, or to be more specific, THIS is Heart Week. We hope the volunteer solicitors will find the latch string out. They probably do not relish the community job they are doing, but they are doing it.

Hundreds of new residents in this area will lose the right to vote at the coming primary and at general elections if they are not properly registered through the offices of village and township clerks who are holding special office hours three days next week, for that purpose . . . see the news story elsewhere in this issue.

Too many people think that getting the votes out on election day is the sole responsibility of the political machines. Not so, says Gerald F. Fitzgerald, of Inverness, who in private life is an officer of a large Chicago business firm.

A special letter mailed to voters last week in his precinct, mentions the dates for voter registration and a coming visit to Palatine of the Republican candidate for governor. Two paragraphs in his letter apply equally to Democrats and Republicans—here they are.

"On April 12, the primary election will be held. The primary is your one chance to choose candidates for the important November, 1960 national elections. Many citizens dislike asking for a party ballot and refer to themselves as 'independent' voters. Because they pass up the opportunity to select candidates in the primary, they in effect become dependent on those who exercise their franchise to select candidates for them.

"Both the Democratic and Republican parties have outstanding candidates on the primary ballot. Each party also has candidates who would not represent the best interest of the people of Illinois. It is the duty, as well as the privilege, of everyone to help select candidates for the political parties."

We were recently told by a neighbor that he had not voted since he moved to the suburbs several years ago.

This explains why some political chiefs are able to keep local government in their vest pockets.

The millennium has not yet come in politics, but it was encouraging to hear Democratic chieftains, in interviews with the press Sunday, say nice things about other candidates for the same office.

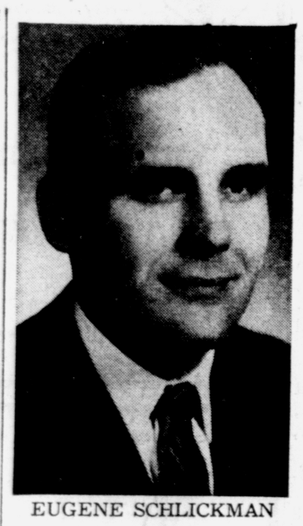
After viewing Sunday's TV programs, which included the Eisenhower talk, several documentary programs and interviews with headliners in national and international affairs, we realize that municipal problems, which many of us think are so momentous, are really insignificant.



EUGENE SCHLICKMAN

NICHOLAS LATTOF

Jaycees Also Honor Lattof

Arlington Heights' 1959 "man of the year" is a 30-year-old village trustee, the youngest in the history of the community, who feels wives should also get service awards.

Eugene F. Schlickman, 712 N. Fernandez, was awarded the Junior chamber of commerce's annual Distinguished Service award at a banquet at Old Orchard country club last night.

Nicholas Lattof, Arlington Heights businessman, was given a special award for his work with the Northwest Community hospital and YMCA fund drives.

SCHLICKMAN, a resident of the village for three years, was elected to the village board last April. He has since earned the reputation as one of the hardest working board members, serving as a member of four committees. He is also noted for his concern over the electorate's feelings toward various village issues.

He has served as scout master of troop 66, and, with his wife, Margaret, led the Christian Family Movement, a family centered social study and action group.

He is a member of the Holy Name Society, the Opportunity Council, and Ridge Park Civic association.

The soft-spoken Schlickman gives much of the credit for his community service to his wife, who, he says, agrees with him that he has an obligation to work for the general good of the community.

WHILE THE young labor relations consultant bemoans the fact that he is unable to spend more than a couple of nights a week with his four children, ages seven, six, three, and seven months, he notes his two oldest children, both boys, appreciate and are proud of his working for the village. He has taken the boys to board of local improvement meetings, and notes they have an interest in other village affairs.

Schlickman, who once studied to become a priest, and his family are members of St. James church. He has served on the board of directors of the Catholic Council on Working Life.

HE HAS a law degree from Georgetown university and is employed by Ekco Products in Chicago as assistant to the director of labor relations and personnel.

Lattof, a resident of Arlington Heights for 19 years, moved to Barrington in 1955. He still has his business in the village, however, and is active in many organizations and civic activities.

The Distinguished Service award is designed to honor a man between 21 and 35 who has contributed materially to the community's welfare.

Former Nature Lover

Unidentified Animal Turns on Benefactor

A former nature lover is still scratching his head and rubbing his wound this week after tangling with an unidentified animal at the corner of Campbell and Evergreen sts. in Arlington Heights.

Walter Engelbrecht, 4141 W. Fifth st., Chicago was on his way home from Elgin Friday morning when he spied a ball of fur beside Route 58.

Thinking it was a puppy, he pulled his panel truck off the road for a closer look, and saw the animal move. It definitely wasn't a puppy.

"The poor little thing was half frozen, and though I'd never seen anything like it, I decided to take it home because my kids have never seen any wildlife," Engelbrecht recounted.

HE DROPPED "it" in a box on the seat beside him and headed homeward with a surprise for the kiddies. The truck's heater, however, not only thawed the critter out, it obviously made his blood boil at the thought of captivity.

When Engelbrecht halted for a stop sign in downtown Arlington Heights, his "pet" flipped out of the box and "with inch long teeth" ripped a gash in the man's leg.

Quickly losing his interest in wildlife, Engelbrecht fled into the Arlington Federal Savings and Loan building, leaving his find on the front seat warily eyeing passers-by.

Hastily summoned police cornered the animal under bushes in front of the Savings and Loan building while others rushed Engelbrecht to the Northwest Community hospital.

IT WAS QUITE a battle, according to Police Officers Brosius and Kohler, who finally managed to slip a snare over the animal's head. "The little son-of-a-gun was nothing but a ball of muscle," noted Brosius.

Personnel at the Arlington Heights animal hospital, where the creature was taken for 10 days observation, were unable to identify the animal immediately. They say, however, it looks more like a groundhog than anything else.

Police records identify it as having "black and brown mottled bushy fur and a short stubby tail with black hair on it."

Northwest Area's First

New Radio Station Goes on Air March 1

The northwest suburbs' first radio station, located north of Arlington Heights, is scheduled to go on the air Tuesday, March 1.

The FM station will broadcast music, news, sports, and community events seven days a week from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. at 92.7 megacycles, according to Lewis LaMar, station manager.

WNWC, located with its 258-foot tower at the southwest corner of Rand and Arlington Heights rds., will serve communities within a 25 mile radius. The station will open with a staff of six persons.

Testing started this week, and the station hopes to be ready in time to broadcast the Palatine regional basketball tournament next week.

LaMAR, a 38-year-veteran of the broadcasting industry, notes that the station's format will be built around local programming, particularly sports. Other offerings will include:

— Sunday morning services from local churches.

— a teenage program conducted by high school students.

— club, community, and civic affairs.

MUSICALLY, the station will spin pop and show tunes. There will be no rock 'n roll or country and western, LaMar emphasizes.

Future plans call for a mobile news unit to give spot coverage of fires and other fast breaking events.

Owner of the station is John D. Morgan, 321 S. Drury lane, Arlington Heights. An 11-year resident of the village and a former promotion director of station WIND in Chicago, he noted that while there are other FM stations in the metropolitan area, his will be the first to concentrate on local affairs.

Originally an electronics engineer, Morgan is presently in the advertising business in Chicago.

ANNOUNCER DICK DEVINE tests equipment that will go into operation next week as part of the northwest suburbs first radio station designed for local programming.

Little League

Registration of Arlington Hts. Little League baseball for boys 8 through 15 is scheduled for February 27 and March 5. Complete details may be found on the sports pages.

Regional Cage Tourney Set

Eight high schools will hook up in the Palatine regional basketball tournament next week with five nights of prep cage action on the card.

Two contests will be included on both Monday and Tuesday evenings with single semi-final tilts Wednesday and Thursday. The tourney champion will be crowned Friday evening.

In addition to the host school, Arlington, Prospect, Maine East, Maine West, Glenbrook, Niles, and Maryville of Des Plaines are included in the 1960 field. Prospect's Knights, boasting a 19-1 season mark, have been seeded No. 1.

MONDAY night's contests will find Prospect meeting Maryville in the opener with Maine West and Niles of Skokie clashing in the finale. Palatine will test Maine East and Arlington will battle Glenbrook in Tuesday's pair of games.

Monday's winners will meet Wednesday with Tuesday's victors in Thursday's semi-final contest.

The Palatine regional champion will advance to the Arlington sectional where it will join the winners of regionals at Libertyville, Crystal Lake, and Waukegan.

Additional details may be found in the sports section.

Dance Saturday

A German theme will be predominant Saturday, Feb. 27, in the recreation hall of St. Mary church, Buffalo Grove, when the church's Holy Name society sponsors a dance with Hardt's Melodiers furnishing the music. The affair will be held at 9 p.m. and tickets, at $1.50, will be available at the door.

No Informal Hearing For Dryden Widening

For the first time in three years, Arlington Heights' board of local improvements will forego an informal public hearing on a proposed public improvement, the widening of Dryden st. from Davis to Rockwell sts.

The formal hearing on the proposed widening of Dryden from its present 15.5 feet to over 30 feet will likely be held sometime in April.

The decision to skip the informal hearing was made after Board Member Russell Colvin suggested that such hearings created an unnecessary delay in making local improvements.

INFORMAL hearings are not required by law. They were started in 1957 in order to give property owners who would be affected by a local improvement the chance to voice their opinions prior to a formal hearing.

Such opinions have often taken the form of prolonged and bitter harangues before the board, particularly when the property owners are informed they will bear a share of the cost of the local improvement through special assessments.

The abandonment of the informal hearing for the proposed Dryden improvement is more in the form of an experiment than a formal policy action, according to Board Chairman Harold Klingner.

Should the board find that an informal hearing is necessary, such hearings will be held in the future, said Klingner.

THE DRYDEN improvement was chosen as a fair test for the new procedure because stiff opposition is expected from property owners. While there has been no recommendation by the board of local improvements as to what the width should be, there has been talk of 36 feet.

Mayor Edward Carlisle, however, at last week's village board meeting, pointed out that the master plan proposed Dryden as a secondary thoroughfare, and suggested this indicated a 40 foot width.

Carlisle also questioned whether the board of local improvements was exercising too much authority in telling property owners what widths were being proposed for street widening projects and the cost per lineal foot. He specifically referred to proposals to improve Hickory, Beverley, and Elm streets.

THE MAYOR'S objections appeared to stem from his concern that the board of local improvements was acting on the conservative side in discussing possible widths with property owners.

Trustee Eugene Schlickman voiced the opinion that it was desirable for the board to give the property owners as much information as possible about local improvement plans.

At the suggestion of Village Manager L. A. Hanson a joint meeting between trustees and the board of local improvements has been scheduled for February 29.

Choir Concert Slated Sunday

Almost 500 persons are expected to hear the Concordia college choir concert at Prospect high school Little Theater Sunday evening, Feb. 28, with two local students to benefit at Interlochen music camp next summer. Arlington Heights Rotarians are sponsoring the concert, and will use funds raised to provide the scholarships.

Senior college choir of the River Forest college is a 70-piece group that has gained many friends through its appearances in the suburban area. Tickets at $1.50 can be purchased at the door, or secured from club members prior to the concert at 8:15 Sunday.

Chamber's Spring Fete Is March 5

The Arlington Heights chamber of commerce announced this week that its annual spring dinner dance and installation of officers will be held at Old Orchard country club on March 5.

Tickets are now on sale and may be purchased from any member of the chamber's board of directors.

ELECTED THIS week to the board of directors are Bill Cook, Bill Cook Buick company; Carl Klehm, Charles Klehm and Son nursery; Clare Gunderson, Country Store Paint company; Howard Freitag, Freitag Hardware; and Bill Kaucher, Illinois Bell Telephone company. Donald R. Hartman of Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home was chosen as toastmaster.

Announcement of the chamber's new executive secretary is expected next week.

Parties of Every Description Fill Local Social Calendar

Little people and big people and all the sizes in between celebrated birthdays the past week. There were parties delayed by illness and parties right on time. There were lunch parties, brunch parties, bowling parties and before-school parties; parties for elder citizens proud of the years they wear so well and parties for the very young who can't wait to get another year older. Several nieces and nephems of the father of our country shared his honored birth date and the only possible complaint was that with no mail service February 22, birthday cards were delivered early or late.

The junior Walter Oetzell, 901 S. Dunton already had a celebration of his and Lincoln's birthday but minus Dad who was in California on business at the time. Walter Sr. came home last Thursday and Walter Jr. had his family party Sunday in the Villa Park home of Grandma Oetzell. Take it from a fellow with a brand new bike, family birthday celebrations are sometimes worth waiting 10 days for. Now all Wally's waiting for is an early and sudden thaw.

BONNIE BARNETT was 10 years old Sunday and entertained with an afternoon party in the Barnett home, 713 S. Evergreen. Local friends Carol Grosse, Linda Heller, Donna Hornoff, Linda Jack and Mary Jo Kedzie were joined by Bonnie's cousin, Susan Elliott of Chicago, in wishing the birthday girl well and having lots of giggly fun.

The only time six times two doesn't equal 12 is when twins have a birthday. Debby and Ricky Brooke were six years old Sunday and a family celebration honored the two times sixes. Friends dropped in to add their congratulations and the Brooke house, 518 S. Dunton, was pleasantly busy all afternoon and evening.

Sidelights Of Arlington Heights

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Fonfara, 811 N. Stratford, hosted 10 local couples at a noon brunch Sunday to honor Mrs. Fonfara's aunt, Miss Maude Beville on her 80th birthday. Miss Beville, who makes her home with the Fonfaras, was presented with an orchid and showered with gifts and best wishes.

Her pleasure in the occasion plus her niece's excellent "brunchmanship" made for a memorable birthday party for all concerned. The "all concerned" list included the Cedric Crains, E. T. Zelsmanns, Harry Rongners, Hugh Gillons, George Murrays, Richard Hoppes, Charles Schwabes, John Grays, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Baugous, the Fonfara's daughter, Linda, and her guest, Robert Haemker.

Chuck Zehner 20 S. Salem, shares a mutual birth date with George Washington and his teacher at Park school, Miss Housechild, and he hosted Miss Housechild at luncheon Monday in his home. The Wednesday before he was honored at the cub scout meeting at which he and his fellow cubs rose to the rank of wolves. A dinner at the home of den dad and mother Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pellard, 45 S. Salem, followed the regular meeting and a cake expressed everyone's sentiments with its frosting message, "Congratulation, Wolves - Happy Birthday Chuck." Chuck was 9.

SUSAN MALLON, 1041 S. Dunton, was 12 Sunday and celebrated with the family at a festive dinner-out occasion.

Dick Larson, 733 S. Highland, was 12 Sunday and celebrated so much it will probably last him a long time. Maybe even until he's 13. A week ago Friday when there was no school because another February great had a birthday, Dick hosted four buddies at luncheon then took them bowling, then brought them back home to finish up the cake they weren't quite able to handle at noon.

Last weekend, Dick was the guest of his uncle and aunt, the E. M. Larsons in Chicago, and returned here with them to reign at a family dinner celebration in his honor Sunday. That's all for this year.

Ten local couples and a house guest, Mrs. Bertie Davis of Evanston, toasted their host Friday night at a dinner party in the James Mason home, 902 S. State, in celebration of Mr. Mason's birthday.

Albert Colianni was 6 Monday and although the combined force of his birthday and Washington's was not enough to close the public schools, he celebrated anyhow. Before the afternoon class of kindergarten called Albert and friends to their studies, fun and a festive luncheon were enjoyed at 814 S. Highland. Kevin Reilly and Leslie and Patty Lofquist were joined by Albert's sister, Gail, and brother Bryan, in wishing him a happy day and having the best preschool session in a long time.

A LIFE-LONG Arlington Heights resident, Mrs. Elizabeth Niemeyer, 403 W. Sigwalt, was honored by her children and grandchildren Sunday on the occasion of her 74th birthday. The party was in her home with her sons, Edwin of Arlington Heights and Walter of Palatine, and her daughter, Mrs. Paul Dacus of Arlington Heights, and their families. It had been planned to include other out-of-town relatives until Sunday's anti-travelling weather intervened.

Some February birthday celebrations survived this month's miserable weather only to be cancelled by illness and a few would-be celebrants are reconciled to waiting for 1961. Susan Grashorn, 817 S. Walnut had only one postponement of her February 10 birthday party, tried again Saturday and was eminently successful. Eight young friends contributed to and enjoyed the success of Susan's afternoon party when she was 9 years and 10 days old.

SERIOUS illness in the family cancelled not only Billy Logue's late January birthday celebration but everything else at the Logue home, 945 N. Ridge. Billy's mother and his 5-year old sister, Marianne, are recuperating from acute infections that hospitalized both of them and necessitated surgery for Marianne.

They entered St. Francis hospital in Evanston about three weeks ago, Mrs. Logue with a severe bronchial condition and Marianne with an acute sinus infection that was relieved only by an operation. Mrs. Logue returned home an week ago Sunday; her daughter was released last Friday and they both face a long and careful recuperation.

Marianne's uncomfortable stay in the hospital was cheered considerably her mother reports by the steady flow of mail from her classmates in the Ridge school kindergarten class taught by Mrs. Kinney.

Mrs. Helen Callihan, 209 W. Miner, returned home early this week after a week in Northwest Community hospital for observation.

A recent weekend visitor at the Newell Crockett home, 802 S. Chestnut, was the Crocketts' sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Ames of Pompano Beach Fla. Mrs. Ames, en route to the Iowa home of her mother who is ill, expects to visit here briefly again on her way back to Florida.

ARLINGTON Heights residents since their marriage in Schaumburg, February 20 1910, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Pelletier, 302 S. Evergreen celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sunday. Honoring the anniversary couple at the party in their home were the Pelletiers' sons, Irving and Elmer, and families, and their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Werner, all of Arlington Heights; the Werner's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kovacik of Palatine with their son, Mark, the Pelletiers' only great-grandchild.

Here from Elgin for the occasion were Mr. Pelletier's brother, Max, and his nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Pelletier. Representing the "bride's" side of the family were her brother-in-law and sister of Arlington Heights, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Eineke who will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary this Sunday, February 28. Nephews and nieces, the Ray Meyers of Palatine and the Adoph Meyers of Arlington Heights completed the circle of well-wishers.

MR. and Mrs. Dick Smith, 913 N. Beverly, are issuing an RSVP invitation to all their local friends to attend open house Sunday in celebration of their 60th wedding anniversary. The couple will be honored at the 2 to 5 p.m. party in the home of their daughter and her husband, the Gordon Greens, 2123 Thorntree lane, Palatine.

Last Saturday and Sunday was "Little Sister Weekend" on the University of Illinois campus and Betty Mees, 408 E. Euclid, is among local youngsters who are glad they have a big sister; especially a big sister in college, specifically the University of Illinois. It was a gala and enlightening weekend for both Betty and big sister, Nancy, who will pledge soon to Alpha Delta Pi.

A double foursome of local friends regularly enjoy a progressive dinner together and weather or no, their progress continues. Saturday night's itinerary began with cocktails and appetizers at the Len Arnolds followed by the salad course at the William Hugos, both in Mt. Prospect. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kleinofen, 627 S. Chestnut, hosted the progressives for the main course and dessert and coffee was served by the Dan Mussers, 28 S. State.

MRS. JAMES Lake, 412 N. Evergreen, returned early last week from a 2-week vacation on the west coast, jetborne both ways, that was the surprise birthday gift of her husband. She spent a week with their son, Richard, in San Diego and a week of sightseeing and relaxing in Long Beach, Los Angeles and Palm Springs.

With virtually all of Arlington Heights snowed in, many families enjoyed a weekend at home, close to their own fireplaces, and indulging in a favorite pastime of bridge, with friends and neighbors. Among the hostesses was Mrs. Harold Haugen, 1714 E. Mayfair, who entertained eight guests at a luncheon and bridge party, Tuesday, Feb. 16.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hickox, 314 Windsor dr., welcomed friends Saturday for an evening of bridge. Among their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Gutzman of Stonegate, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wallace and Mr. and Mrs. William Wendling, both of Mt. Prospect.

Mrs. Thomas Hamilton, 111 S. Dryden, gave a dessert bridge Thursday, Feb. 11. Guests were Mrs. Fred Heiden, Mrs. Wilbur Todd, Mrs. Warren Stahnke, Mrs. Gale Oberlin, Mrs. Richard Baker, Mrs. Warren Kline and Mrs. Jerry Jedd.

RECENT GUEST of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hixon, 218 Drury, was the latter's sister, Mrs. Robert Butler of St. Louis. At a dessert bridge given for Mrs. Butler by her sister, she renewed acquaintances with several long time friends, among them her Stephens college classmates, Mrs. Robert Bledsoe, and Mrs. Norval Stephens, Mrs. Phillip Ruedig, Mrs. Wallace Wolff, Mrs. John Trees and Mrs. Howard Styron.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gard, 336 Windsor dr., returned Sunday, from a 2-week trip to the west coast, visiting Palm Springs, San Diego and Los Angeles. While Mr. Gard attended to affairs of business, Mrs. Gard spent her days, sightseeing, swimming and golfing.

Mr. and Mrs. Ian MacLachlan, 1230 Woodford, entertained at a cocktail party last Thursday for J. G. Johnson, who was here from his home in Walnut Creek, Cal. for a brief visit. The MacLachlans spent the weekend in Jackson, Mich. visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Badgley.

THE EDWARD Ryans, 713 Lynden, and their children, Bobby and Cathy, were recently in St. Paul for a 3-day visit with the James Kimlings, former Scarsdale friends and neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wickens, 819 E. Park, have enjoyed a respite from the long winter. They have recently returned from a 2-week vacation in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and a 4-day holiday aboard a yacht with friends at Nassau in the Bahama Islands.

On becoming a teenager last Friday, Miss Sheila Garrity celebrated the occasion with a slumber party for eight friends. As with most slumber parties there was a maximum amount of merriment and a minimum of slumber. Sheila is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Garrity, 615 E. Grove.

A double celebration was in order at the E. W. Housenecht household, 510 Mayfair. Young Billy Housenecht and his grandfather, William Stark of Chicago, became 6 and 65 years old respectively last week, and received birthday congratulations at a family dinner party Sunday.

MRS. WAYNE Rohlfing and Mrs. Malcolm Hall entertained at a dessert coffee February 17 at the former's home, 42 S. Dryden to welcome three newcomers to the area. All from hospitable Dryden place, guests came to welcome Mrs. Donald Buxton, who moved here from the state of Washington, Mrs. Robert Simon of Chicago and Mrs. Arthur Doty of Arlington Heights, all of whom will live on Dryden pl. as neighbors.

Baby Daniel James Sarich, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Tim Lonergan, 1002 Mayfair, will be christened Sunday, Feb. 28, in St. Colette Catholic church of Rolling Meadows. His godparents wil be Mr. and Mrs. W. Ridgeway of Rolling Meadows. Following the christening, there will be a supper party in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, the Frank Sarishes of Rolling Meadows.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Stahnke, 110 S. Brighton pl., joined the Thomas Hamiltons, the Gale Oberlins, the Richard Sieberts and the Ernest Richardsons Saturday to attend the anniversary dinner dance of the Starliters at the Mohawk country club. (A

Curb False Advertising, Chamber Told

Merchants must learn to merit the respect and confidence of their customers by truthful and fair advertising, stated Jack Johnson, vice-president of the Chicago Better Business Bureau, at a breakfast meeting of the Arlington Heights chamber of commerce Wednesday.

More than 30 members of the chamber assembled to listen to Johnson urge businessmen "to promote truth and accuracy and curb false and misleading advertising."

"IF THE customer feels he has been 'taken in' by a merchant he will soon learn to distrust all advertising. The value of advertising is, in turn, destroyed, and the advertising dollar then becomes a waste," said Johnson, a resident of Mt. Prospect.

"The urge to make a profit sometimes overshadows the natural impulse for honesty. It is up to businessmen to police themselves as well as others in order to maintain the public's confidence in their merchandising methods," Johnson said.

A top award "for bringing about a greater understanding of the American way of life" was announced this week for the seventh grade class of Sister Alice Marie at Our Lady of the Wayside school in Arlington Heights.

The contest was sponsored by the Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge, Pa. The class's project consisted of various exhibits and brochures depicting and explaining the American heritage.

THE AWARD carries with it a medal and an all expense paid trip for the teacher and one pupil to Philadelphia and Washington D. C.

The pupil elected to make the trip is Daniel Mulcahy, 231 Hatlen, Mt. Prospect.

Fifty-three students worked on the project.

Sister Alice Marie has won eight awards at three different schools for similar projects. (AF

A CHECK FOR $2,000 is presented John R. Bartizal, 611 E. Fairview, Arlington Heights, vice chairman of Northwest Community hospital board of trustees, by Charles K. Bobinette, 308 S. Drury lane, and G. William Sullivan, 415 S. Windsor, in behalf of the Stonegate association. The gift will be used as a memorial to the late Charles F. Seales, president of the association in 1953. The balance left from damages collected in a law suit prosecuted by Bobinette and Sullivan for violation of deed restrictions in the Stonegate subdivision, Arlington Heights, the money was turned over by property owners to the association's treasury to guarantee compliance with deed restrictions in the future. Recently, the deed restrictions terminated, and there was no longer a need for the fund. Since Northwest Community hospital represents every age group and the entire community, the association deemed it the most worthwhile project to receive the $2,000 gift.

Craig Found Not Guilty By Judge

Oscar L. (Pete) Craig, 39, Arlington Heights motel owner was found innocent Friday of a manslaughter charge by Judge B. Fain Tucker in Circuit court.

Craig, former owner of the Essen House restaurant, 902 E. Northwest hwy., was accused of the death of L. H. Key, 47, former manager of Grier's Supper club near Palatine. Key died October 13, 1958 after a fight with Craig inside the latter's restaurant.

JOHN COGAN, Craig's attorney, argued that Key was drunk and may have suffered fatal injuries in a fall. Key's body was found on the pavement outside the restaurant. A coroner's inquest attributed the cause of death to loss of blood from the head, a skull fracture, "marked alcoholic intoxication" and a compound fracture of the right leg.

Craig was freed from the charge in November, 1958 when the grand jury returned a "no" bill. The case was reopened, however, last July by the state's attorney's office and a "true" bill was returned by the grand jury.

Commuter Rail Fare Hearing Opens Mar. 3

The Chicago and North Western railroad will open its widely publicized case for a 7½ per cent commuter fare increase at a 10 a.m. March 3 hearing before the Illinois Commerce Commission in Chicago.

The commission acted February 23 in scheduling the hearing but did not set aside the railroad's announced April 1 effective date for the higher fares.

It still can do so if testimony developed at the hearing suggests this is the thing to do.

IN THE past year, the commission has departed from past policy of suspending new tariffs and letting hearings run through the year allowed by law before final action.

Little opposition to the North Western program has been generated so far. Since the fare raise application was filed, the commission has received only seven letters, all from individuals. Six oppose the idea of paying more to ride. The other doesn't mind.

Harry R. Booth, attorney who opposed the North Western's fare increase and service reduction which became effective December 1, 1958, said he hasn't entered this case so far.

No changes in the existing ticket structure are proposed. There'll still be one-way, round trip, weekly, semi-monthly, monthly and 25-ride tickets.

THE RAILROAD said a basic 24 per cent fare increase and elimination of more than 20 close-in stations allowed at the end of 1958 played a major role in the showing of a $29,554 net profit on suburban operations in 1959.

The higher fare schedule would add $892,000 to the railroad's annual suburban revenues of $12,394,642. Its net operating income on the three suburban divisions was $383,745 last year, but interest of $354,191 on equipment obligations cut the net income to $29,554.

More revenue is needed to meet increased operating costs and also to sustain the railroad's investment program in new equipment.

IN ITS petitions before the commission, the railroad said:

"In the face of an ever mounting crisis in suburban operations throughout the country, North Western has not only fulfilled its commitment to acquire 36 new air-conditioned cars of the most modern design at a total investment of $5,786,272, but (also has) announced the placing of orders for 116 similar cars, together with the conversion of necessary locomotive power at an additional investment of $21,000,000.

"The completion of this unprecedented order during 1961 will provide the Chicago metropolitan area served by North Western with the only fully modernized suburban system in the country."

EXCEPTIONS to the proposed 7½ per cent fare increase are (1) the imposition on the 25-ride booklets of a maximum of 12½ times the corresponding round-trip fare, and (2) the inapplicability of the increase on one ways, round trips, and 25-ride booklets beyond 47 miles. The new minimum fare would be 32 cents. It is now 30 cents.

Here's a comparison of the cost of monthly tickets on the Wisconsin or northwest division, for trips to and from the Chicago terminal:

Des Plaines, from present $20.35 to proposed $21.88;

Cumberland, from $21.05 to $22.63;

Mount Prospect, from $22.35 to $24.03;

Arlington Heights, from $23.25 to $24.99;

Arlington Park, from $24.15 to $25.96;

Palatine, from $25.05 to $26.93;

Barrington, from $27.75 to $29.83;

Fox River Grove, from $29.95 to $32.20;

Cary, from $30.40 to $32.68; and

Crystal Lake, from $32.65 to $35.10. (B8

Young Ed Pinger Tackles Problems of New Village

by LYNN MELCHER

Hoffman Estates Village President Ed Pinger approaches the paradoxical problems of his five-month old village with the steadiness and agility of a surgeon.

Perhaps this is because he is somewhat of a paradox in himself. Pinger is as time-conscious as a newspaperman facing a deadline, yet he never appears to be rushing and never rushes the many village residents who make inquiries of him.

Adjectively, this 32-year-old University of Illinois law school graduate is vital, alert, honest, sincere, and intelligent. He is also cautious and carefree, flexible and firm, serious and happy.

Though he moves physically at an almost studied moderate rate his mind seems to move from subject to subject as if jet-propelled. He thinks quickly and clearly, stripping a given issue of frills to direct his energies to unadorned facts.

WHEN PINGER speaks, he does so thoughtfully. He is seldom evasive, yet he shows another paradox in his ability to remain diplomatically noncommittal. He combines the flexibility of compromise with a firmness of purpose. The results are usually positive.

Averaging six to seven hours sleep nightly, Ed works five days a week as a district claims supervisor for Allstate Insurance company and as much as six nights a week as village president. Four evenings he attends meetings — zoning, planning, policy. The other two or three evenings are spent in study, letter writing and telephone contact.

Pinger does not regret being village president. Despite the headaches (telephone calls —"they can be resolved if you take the time to listen and take the time to explain the village's position") and problems (village finances), he says the job has acted as a catalyst for him.

"I feel a lot more alive and vital now than I used to. Being involved in new problems and finding the answers to them—knowing there is an answer—is an interesting challenge. I'm quite happy with it."

THOUGH HE'S standing on the guillotine of a faction-ridden community, Ed Pinger has no fear the floor will fall beneath him. He has no time to worry about what has happened and can't be changed. "I've found I can save a lot of time if I don't dwell on problems over which I have no control." Pinger prefers to profit by happenstance rather than dwell on it.

Favored with a cooperative village board (he ran for office with the Good Government party and the full slate was elected), Ed feels much has been done in the first four months of office.

He is lavish in his praise of elected and appointed officials alike. He lists as accomplishments the passage of subdivision, village, building and police ordinance—"the real foundation of our government which will last as long as the village will."

GUIDED BY the professional advice of the village attorney and village engineer, he hopes to give this community a firm foundation in law first. He lists as desirable:

—municipal ownership of the water and sewer distribution system ("so we can control our own destiny")

—village growth ("inevitable and desirable if properly planned") —encouragement of industrial development.

"Zoning and planning for the growth of our village are a matter of sound education first," he said. "Ownership of the utilities is the key to future expansion, industrial development and the eventual lowering of municipal taxes.

"Our major problem is finances. There is only so much money available to us due to the time we incorporated (September 19, 1959) and we have to stretch every dollar. There is no fat in the budget.

"We are trying to do a top-flight job by way of services and the quality of people we retain for professional help and yet we are faced with the proposition of having very little money to do it with. People seem to have difficulty understanding the fact that the municipality, right now at least, is not run on tax money."

PINGER FEELS the encirclement of his village by the village of Schaumburg places Hoffman Estates at a decided disadvantage in planning for future growth. Other new villages have not generally faced this problem of limited room for expansion.

Builders, too, have hindered what would be a normal program of development for the new village "to the extent, at least, that they take up our time with their problems. This is time that could possibly be better spent creating commercial and industrial development," he said. "Without the builders we could depend on our own planning rather than having to consider the planning of builder's engineers."

Looking into the future, the youthful village president forecast that "someday Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg will be one town. This would be wonderful from a planning standpoint and would benefit the individual residents as well. It is not immediate, however."

IN THE MEANTIME, Ed Pinger is working for Hoffman Estates.

As a civic official, Pinger has seen a change in his home life. His three children (two boys, one girl—all pre-schoolers) have not been affected by his new avocation but his wife, Jane, sees considerably less of him than she did in pre-election days.

The Pingers have tried to compensate for the daily interruptions in their personal life with a once-a-week dinner together. "It used to be once-a-month, but we have to have some time to ourselves," said Ed.

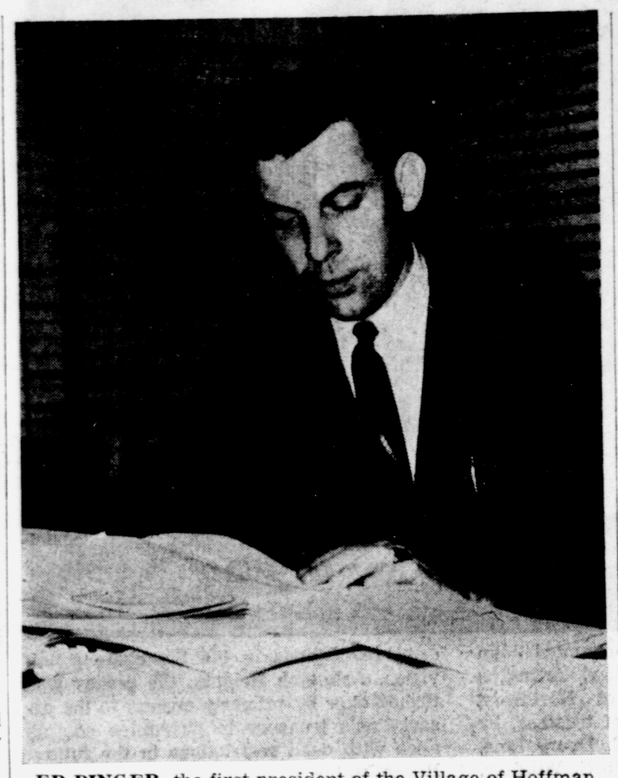
ALL IN ALL, Ed Pinger likes Hoffman Estates and likes being president of Hoffman Estates. Will he run for office again next term? Again his awareness of time values crept into his answer.

"I don't even have time to think about it," he said as he left us to return to a zoning commission meeting. (B8



ED PINGER, the first president of the Village of Hoffman Estates, is a young man dedicated to the job of laying a good foundation in law for the five-month old village. He sits as an ex-officio member on the majority of committees he has appointed to make studies and recommendations for village program. He is shown here reviewing maps and legal data at a zoning commission meeting last Monday evening. (B8

Sports Editor Frisk—He's Local Boy Who Made Good!

(This is the second in a series on Paddock Publications staffers. "Behind the Byline" will offer readers an intimate portrait of the men and women of the editorial staff who weekly record events in communities served by the 13 suburban newspapers.)

by TOM McSHANE

When he returned from a six-month stint in the air force as a hospital corpsman, the fellows in the shop started calling him a "bedpan jockey."

He took it good-naturedly, just as he takes everything else.

He doesn't mind a good ribbing, because he knows he's one of the best-liked people in the office.

When you start asking questions about him, that's always the first comment.

"You just can't help but like the guy," they'll say. "He's always kind, considerate, and courteous."

And he's quiet.

And a good worker. Methodical, determined, and competent.

AT 23, ROBERT Donald Frisk, Paddock Publications' sports editor, is the youngest man on the editorial staff. He also is one of the two eligible bachelors on the staff, and the only member who is a native of Arlington Heights.

Frish, with one full-time assistant, is responsible for directing coverage of all the athletic activities in the seven high schools in the Paddock trade area, plus the numerous golf, bowling, and summer baseball leagues.

He has been working for the newspaper chain since 1952, when, as a sophomore at Arlington high, he started covering the summer baseball leagues.

BOB FIRST became interested in sportswriting that year, and with the encouragement of the late R. Fleet Combs, high school jounalism teacher, kept up the work during his last two years.

He was sports editor of the school paper, the Cardinal, during his junior and senior years, and sports editor of the yearbook, The Heights, in 1954.

He also found time to letter two seasons in track as a dashman, and to earn academic honors as a member of the Quill and Scroll and the National Honor society.

Upon graduation, Bob enrolled in the University of Illinois. He pledged the Sigma Pi fraternity and edited the group's news letter and contributions to the national fraternity magazine, for which he won three awards.

Frisk also worked on the sports staff of the Daily Illini and the Champaign-Urbana Courier.

Through his high school and college years, Bob spent his summer vacations covering local sports beats for the Paddock papers.

"He was the most outstanding high school sports correspondent we had in those days," recalls Bob Paddock, general manager of the chain. "There were about 25 of them altogether."

DURING THOSE six years of summer work, the Paddocks were grooming Frisk for big things.

"I always hoped he would want to stay in his home town with us when he got out of school," Paddock said. "Our expansion plans were forcing me out of the sports department, and I saw in Frisk the man we needed to take over the job."

So it was that at the end of his college training, Bob Frisk, a fresh and eager 21-year-old with a bachelor's degree in English, came back home to head up one of the fastest growing sports sections in the state of Illinois.

That was in the summer of 1958. A few months later Frisk volunteered for the six-month air force training period, and retired to the reserves with the bed-pan title.

WHEN HE returned Bob found that he had been given an assistant to cover his growing beat. The two men since that time have expanded their coverage by hiring extra correspondents, so that today the newspapers range throughout the north and west suburbs with almost blanket coverage of prep sports activities.

Because of the scope of his job, Frisk has very little time for outside activities.

He works a 60-65 hour week in the winter months and tapers down to about 40-45 hours in the summer.

In his spare time he bowls (and gets a sore thumb), or plays an occasional game of golf (which gives him blistered hands). He likes plays (musical comedies), movies, and television.

AND HE TAKES plenty of ribbing about his bachelor status.

"I don't want anything in the paper on that," he said with a sly smile when asked about his future plans.

A sportswriter runs into many thrilling situations, and Frisk is not without his share.

Strangely, his biggest thrill and biggest disappointment in a sporting event came during the same contest last fall.

"It was the Hinsdale-Arlington football game," Bob recalls. "Arlington went into it undefeated with the best team they've had in years.

"In the first minute and 59 seconds the teams scored three touchdowns between them on plays covering 72, 56, and 87 yards. That was the big thrill. The disappointment came in the final eight seconds when Hinsdale scored on a 24-yard pass play to win the game 27-26. With 58 seconds on the clock they went 69 yards in three plays."

BOB GOT THE most satisfaction from a series he did on the Arlington Park race track in 1955.

"A photographer and I spent seven consecutive Fridays at the track interviewing everyone and anyone for the series," he said. "It took a lot of time, and I think that was the best job I ever did on an assignment."

And he's made a mistake or two, just like everyone else.

His assistant remembers the time Frisk twisted the Palatine football team's schedule the day before a game with Glenbrook.

Bob wrote the story up with the Pirates playing the Spartans in Palatine, and ran a big headline across the top of the page to that effect. His face would have been quite red the next week if anyone had showed up at the Palatine field.

The game was played at Glenbrook.

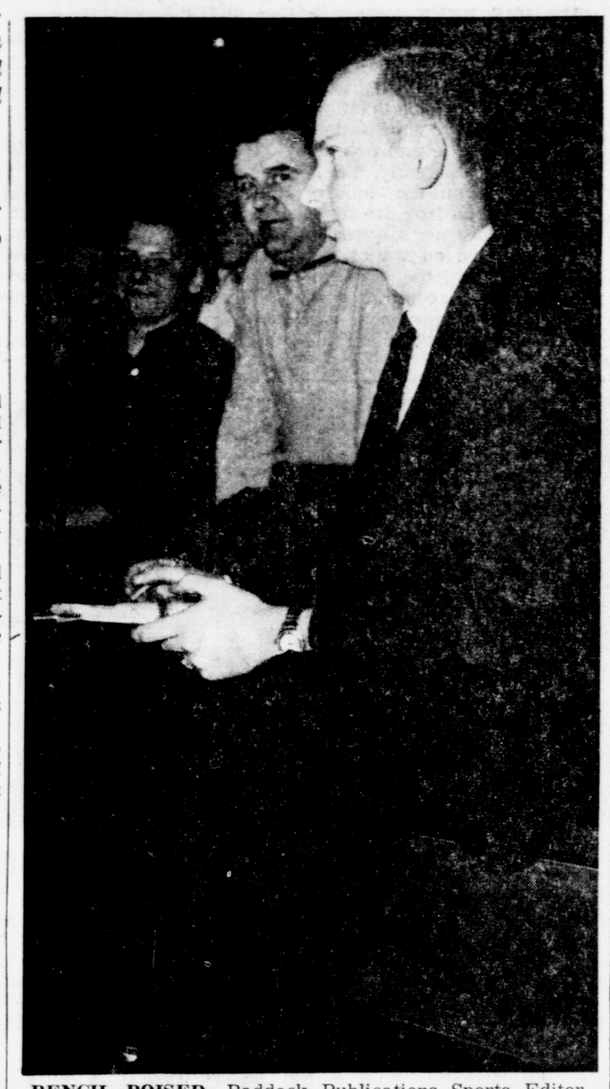
FRISK, WHO lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Frisk, at 511 S. Belmont ave., says his sports sections would not have their wide reputation if it were and for the cooperation and support of the Paddocks, who have made it possible for him to keep up with the tremendous growth of the area.

And they wouldn't be the same, either, without the able direction of their young, hard-working editor. (B8



PENCIL POISED, Paddock Publications Sports Editor Bob Frisk covers a basketball game in the Arlington high school gym. Frisk, at 23 the youngest member of the Paddock staff, has the responsibility for putting out four separate sports sections each week.

The homes include a completely new 1,900 square foot model, plus four other models, introduced last summer, with major interior changes.

Builder Albert E. Riley, president of Hasbrook Construction co., inc., which is developing the 510-home subdivision, said he expects to sell 200 or more of the new models in 1960. Approximately 235 homes have been sold in the subdivision since the company began operations in 1957.

"These homes have been designed to appeal strongly to the young executive who is looking for a comfortable home with more luxury features than are generally provided," Riley said.

THE COMPANY'S newest model, the No. 1900, has 1,903 square feet under roof, including the garage, and sells for $23,250. It features a 24 x 12 foot family room, a 19 x 13 foot living room, dining area, and island kitchen.

A separate 12½ x 12 foot dining room is the distinguishing feature of the No. 1705 model, priced at $21,650. The house also has a 12 x 11 foot family room, kitchen and mudroom, and 18 x 14½ living room. The master bedroom has been expanded to 13 x 11 feet. Two other bedrooms and two full baths are provided.

Hasbrook's No. 1605 model has been given a combined family room and kitchen measuring 26 feet long. Another new feature of the home is a paneled den which can also serve as a fourth bedroom. The house has 1½ baths, entry foyer, a 19 x 12-foot living room, and attached garage. Total space under roof is 1,559 square feet. Price is $20,195.

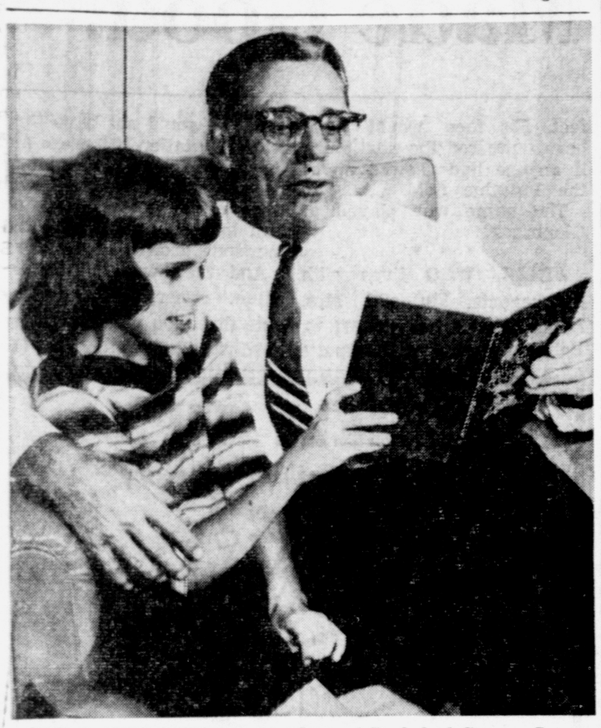
Food Chain President Is Family Man, Civic Leader



ALF L. BERGERUD, president of Red Owl Stores, Inc., is shown here reading to his daughter, Mary, joined the firm's staff as general counsel in 1934. He was elected president in 1958.

In a recent speech, Alf L. Bergerud, president of Red Owl Stores, Inc. stated he was "born one mile and one generation away from a log cabin." Bergerud was referring to the fact that his grandparents lived in a log cabin approximately one mile from the farm near Fergus Falls, Minn., on which he was born.

Bergerud attended St. Olaf college at Northfield and graduated from the University of Minnesota law school. He joined Red Owl in 1934 as a general counsel. In 1943 he was elected a vice president of the firm and president in March of 1958.

A member of the Minnesota state legislature for more than 16 years, Bergerud is presently the senator representing the 36th legislative district, the state's largest — suburban Hennepin county.

HE HAS BEEN an active member or chairman of most of the important standing legislative committees, such as: education, taxation, employment compensation, reapportionment, and municipal affairs. Currently, he is a member of the interim commission on iron ore taxation, the governor's advisory committee on workmen's compensation, the governmental affairs committee of the city of Minneapolis, and the mayor's task force on taxation matters.

Although, a former letterman in football and baseball and a semi-pro basketball player before his service in World War I, Bergerud seldom finds time now for sports other than an occasional hunting or fishing trip, or a round of golf.

THE FATHER of four children, Bergerud resides in Edina where his two youngest children, Mary and Lee, are in public school. A son, Jon, is at Yale university, and his eldest son, Tom, is a wildlife biologist for the Canadian Province of Newfoundland where he is head of the Caribou Research department.

Mrs. Bergerud, a native of Williston, N. D., holds a Bachelor's degree in music.

In addition to being active members of Plymouth Congregational church and the PTA, the Bergeruds participate in various charitable and community projects.

Library Features Science Fiction

There are many people who'd like to know how the other half lives--the other half of the universe, that is--according to librarian Miss Edith Lindsey, of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library. This interest shows up in a steady demand for books of science fiction. Young adults seem to be the ones most interested in these books, Miss Lindsey said.

The better authors in the field really know something about the science they are exploring, according to the librarian. They carry scientific fact and theory beyond the realm of the immediately possible. Author and reader explore the outer reaches of an idea and its potentialities, sometimes arriving ahead of the scientists.

ONE OF THE BEST of the science fiction writers is Arthur C. Clarke, chairman of the British Interplanetary Society. His latest book, "Aicrss - the Sea of Stars," is a selection of two novels and 18 short stories which he considers to be his best. Other books like "Island in the Sky" and "The Other Side of the Sky" have brought him great popularity. He has also written many factual scientific works.

Biochemist Isaac Asimov, whose latest galactic romance is called "Nine Tomorrows," is also a prolific writer on scientific subjects.

Paul Anderson writes mystery stories as well as science fiction. "Enemy Stars" is his most recent title. An earlier book, "Earthman's Burden," deals with space cowboys and is delightful satire.

THERE IS AN ever-growing group of people who consider Raymond Bradbury to be one of the best of modern writers, Miss Lindsey said. The fact that he writes science fiction is incidental. His book, "The Illustrated Man," is a classic in the field.

Robert Heinlen's "Methuselah's Children" and George Smith's "Lost in Space" are the most recent titles of two popular and prolific writers.

Many science fiction writers are published in magazines devoted to this field. These shorter pieces are then published in collections. Galaxy magazine published "The Fourth Galaxy Reader" and "The World That Couldn't Be," and the eighth series of The Best from "Fantasy and Science Fiction" was published in 1959.

The science fiction books are now located in the downstairs part of the library.

High School of Tomorrow To Emphasize Individual

(This is the first in a series of special reports on educational problems and advances considered by the American Association of School Administrators at their annual convention in Atlantic City last week. These reports were chosen for Paddock Publications by Supt. Harold L. Slichenmyer of high school district 214, and Supt. Ralph E. Clabaugh of Arlington Heights district 25. Both men attended the convention.)

In the high school of tomorrow it may well be that the student will have a little niche of his own, not unlike a private office.

This is one of the possibilities suggested by a commission of educators and architects whose proposals for future school buildings were discussed at the 92nd annual meeting of the American Association of School Administrators (AASA). More than 20,000 school administrators and other education leaders attended the five-day sessions.

The student's "private office," it is suggested, might be a small cubicle, enclosed on three sides. Each cubicle would contain a desk and chair, a book case and storage cabinet, a filing cabinet, a bulletin board, and perhaps a television screen.

GROUPS OF these cubicles would be arranged around a central area, which would serve about 60 students, providing a meeting place for all students in the area, or smaller groups of them. Each group of 60 would also have a library area, and a teacher's office with sufficient space for small group meetings as well as individual conferences.

"Forward looking practices in high schools throughout the country," Commission members say in their report, "suggest that the traditional secondary - school program - with its 'lockstep' mass scheduling, with the same length period for all subjects, with the 16 credits for graduation, and with the uniform class size pattern - is starting to break up.

"THE TIME WILL probably come in the near future when pupils in many high schools will have their programs developed on an individual basis. Their programs will be based on sound guidance procedures, and a basic teacher will work with the same group of pupils as an instructor, advisor, and counselor throughout their high school career.

"Specialists in the various subject fields will serve a very important function as directors of learning in their particular laboratories, but pupils will come to them with clear purposes. Teachers will then cease being disciplinarians so much of the time, and will become directors of learning."

(Next Week: Electronic Aids) (B8

NEW TECHNIQUES in school construction are studied by Harold L. Slichenmyer, superintendent of high school district 214, and Ralph E. Clabaugh, superintendent of Arlington Heights district 25. The two administrators attended last week's annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators in Atlantic City.

Gas Company Gets Approval for Main

The Illinois Commerce Commission last week authorized Northern Illinois Gas Company to construct 2.7 miles of gas distribution main in a fast developing area north of O'Hare International airport.

The line also will serve an area adjoining Elk Grove, Mt. Prospect, and Des Plaines.

It will extend gas service to big sections of Maine and Elk Grove townships, including areas on the south side of Des Plaines.

THE EXTENSION will serve portions of Sections 29, 30, 31, 32, and 33 in Maine township and Sections 25 and 36 in Elk Grove township. In Maine township, this covers one area south of Oakton st. and west of Mannheim rd. and in another section the area south of Touhy ave. and west of River rd. The Elk Grove township area extends from Oakton st. to Devon ave. between Elmhurst and Mt. Prospect rds.

The main will cost $90,000 to install and will be constructed in Touhy ave. from Maple st. in Des Plaines to a point just west of Mount Prospect rd, in Elk Grove township. Another line will be installed in Mount Prospect rd. to link the Touhy main with one already under Higgins rd. at the airport.

Suburban Voters Asked To Clean Up Elections

For the first time in the present primary campaign all six rivals for the Republican Senate nomination will compete for attention from the same speaking platform when they address the fourth annual meeting of the Republican workshops of Illinois Monday at a luncheon meeting at the Sheraton - Blackstone hotel.

The six candidates who will draw straws to determine the order in which they will address the more than 400 participants registered for the meeting are William H. Rentschler, of Lake Forest; Warren E. Wright, of Park Ridge; Samuel W. Witwer, of Riverside; John W. Lewis, Jr., of Marshall, in Coles county; John R. Harrell, of Louisville, in Clay county; and John A. Ricker, of Glencoe.

ADDING TYPICAL campaign color to the occasion, each of the six candidates will actually toss his hat "into the ring" before opening his talk. The "ring" will be a special area set aside for the purpose immediately in front of the speaker's table.

In securing the definite acceptances of each of six candidates to appear on the same platform as their rivals, Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay, III, chairman of the meeting, said, "The time has come for the Republican party to get back to the cracker-barrel type of meetings of our forefathers."

Before the luncheon meeting at which the candidates will appear, workshop leaders from all over the state will hold a series of discussion meetings to expand the scope and activities of their organization throughout Illinois. Later, after the luncheon, the Illinois workshop officers for the coming year will be elected.

March 6-13, Simultaneous Evangelism Week in State

Gov. William G. Stratton has signed a state proclamation designating the week of March 6-13 as Simultaneous Evangelism week in Ilinois. This will be the result of nearly two years of planning by 28 Protestant denominations in the state to develop a concentrated program of evangelism at the same time in 6,000 local churches.

Much of the planning for this emphasis has been done through the offices of the Illinois Council of Churches with a specially selected steering committee composed of denominational repersentatives.

LOCAL CHURCHES are making their own plans for the week including visitation programs by teams of laymen, community census by cooperative churches and preaching missions with outstanding guest speakers.

Illinois was selected in May of 1958 as a pilot project for simultaneous evangelism emphasis, and it is hoped that results will prove valuable as other states develop a similar program in the future.

Building Official Group Set to Vote

Two officers, a president and secretary-treasurer, will be elected, Monday, March 7, at a meeting of the now formally organized Northwest Municipal conference of Building officials. These men will also adopt a statement of objectives for the group, then.

The officials, from the eight Northwest Municipal conference towns, have been meeting semi-monthly in Palatine to discuss mutual problems. At the February 1 meeting, they adopted a formal name and bylaws of the Northwest Municipal conference.

THOUGH SOME towns have more than one building official, it was agreed that a town should have only one vote. All building department personnel are invited to meetings, however.

Members agreed to pay an annual dues of $15 to cover costs of guest speakers, publications, and miscellaneous office supplies.

The next meeting, March 7, will be at 2 p.m., at the Mt. Prospect village hall.

THE REPUBLICAN workshop movement, which was started in Minnesota in 1945, has been spreading on a national basis and in the Midwest now has full-fledged state organizations in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Minnesota. Designed to train discussion leaders along Republican lines for community and neighborhood political meetings, it has the official support of the Republican National committee and is recognized as an arm of the G. O. P. by the Republican State Central committee and the United Republican fund.

While the workshops stress the importance of showing voters the need of choosing a political party and supporting it instead of aimless rallying to factional tussles and splinter movements, they take every precaution against any actual campaigning by their groups for any particular candidate or issue. The great strength of the movement to date has been its success in influencing its members to meet in small groups in some neighbor's home to learn how democracy actually functions and then to utilize such knowledge in supporting really qualified candidates for elective office.

Report on State Confab on Youth

Mrs. George E. Bailey and Audrey Gronert, Arlington Heights members of the Illinois Committee for the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth, attended the state meeting for the Conference in Springfield Feb. 23 and 24.

Mrs. Bailey, 350 S. Belmont, is one of seven regional chairmen. Miss Gronert is a student at the U. of Illinois.

To point up the two-day state meeting, Gov. William G. Stratton proclaimed February 21-27 as 1960 White House Conference Youth week.

The Governor and Dr. Donald Brieland, Chicago, were the principal speakers at the conference's banquet Feb. 23. Brieland, executive director of the Elizabeth McCormick Memorial Fund, serves as vice chairman of the Conference's Illinois committee and chairman of the Illinois commission on children, the agency spearheading conference work in the state for the last two years.

The White House Conference on Children and Youth traditionally is held every ten years for a nationwide stocktaking of children's needs.

For each conference, the president has given his personal leadership.

PLANS FOR the 1960 conference have been under way since May, 1958, when President Eisenhower issued the call.

The first conference was called in 1909 by President Theodore Roosevelt. Other conferences have been in 1919, 1930, 1940 and 1950.

The 1909 conference resulted in establishment of the U.S. Children's Bureau in 1912, the enactment of child labor laws and organization of the Child Welfare League of America.

An important development of the 1930 conference was compilation of vital statistics on children's health.

Approximately 350 state leaders, representing more than 3500 volunteers, attended the Springfield conference.

Design New 'Snow-Melting Device'

To paraphrase a popular witticism of the late Will Rogers: "Everyone talks about the snowfall, but no one does anything about it."

Well, they are. Doing something about it, we mean. During the observance of National Engineers' Week, which ends Saturday, Feb. 27, Charles E. Zanzie, 54 E. Daniels, Palatine, an electrical engineer, has a plan. In his own words, here it is:

"Are you thinking of paving?" he asks. "If so, perhaps you should consider putting in snow melting. Unless you have a surplus of muscular energy and a penchant for using a shovel, the results will probably be gratifying.

"While most will agree that snow is one of the blessings of nature, few will deny that it has its drawbacks. The presence of ice and snow on sidewalks is responsible for a large number of sprains, dislocations, and broken bones every year, not to mention the heart attacks brought on by shovelling.

"Actually, snow shovelling is quite a strenuous job, and below freezing temperatures seem to make it doubly hazardous to physical health.

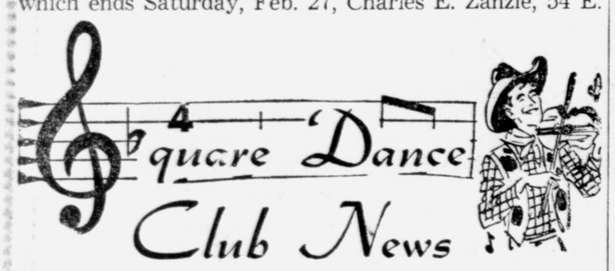
"SNOW melting has been used in the busy metropolitan areas for many years. Most applications employ iron or copper pipe embedded in the concrete sidewalk, and circulate water from the building heating system through the pipes to gain the desired temperature rise.

"This works very well where there is a steam or water heating system. Antifreeze or brine is used in closed fluid systems, care being taken to insure that the solution does not reach too high a temperature or backfeed into the water system.

"The latest type of snow melting consists of electric heating wires located an inch or two beneath the surface of the sidewalk or driveway. The demand for heating wire for snow melting has caused several manufacturers to produce wire especially designed for the purpose.

"An installation of this kind is usually much less expensive than a fluid system, but may be slightly more expensive to operate. Five hundred square feet of driveway or sidewalk would cost about $250 to install, and for average snowfall in this area about $35 per year to operate.

"While this may be expensive," zanzie concluded, "compared with a boy-powered snow shovel, the performance is much better. The greatest advantage is the easy removal of ice or packed snow. This is often an impossible job using hand tools, but is no problem if you have snow melting. For good results, though, it is usually necessary to make sure the system is designed by a qualified engineer."



Palatine Squares

Leap year being rare as it is, Palatine clubbers feel the occasion rates a party dance. All square dancers love party dances and Palatine's invitation sounds especially intriguing. "Hey gals . . . it will be ladies' choice at the leap year party dance . . . bring your favorite husband or a reasonable facsimile thereof . . . " The club welcomes spectators as well as dancers and this invitation may well bring out a few who are just curious to see what a reasonable facsimile of a husband might look like.

At any rate there'll be fun, food and Finfrock Saturday, Feb. 27 in Paddock school, Palatine. Regular dancing starts at 8:30 and will be preceded by a half-hour session with Caller Don Finfrock and his wife, Kay, who'll teach a new round.

Club regulars, Wayne and Mary Allard, leave soon for a new home in Denver and fellow members wish them happiness and success in all endeavors, especially square dancing.

Palatine Round

Anyone interested in the fine old art of round dancing is encouraged to attend the regular Thursday night classes of Jerry Daniels' and his wife. Jerry and Dot begin instruction at 8 p.m. in Pleasant Hills school in Palatine and school's out at 10:30. Classes every week. This week's dance is "Gingerbread."

Melody Squares

Everyone's welcome tomorrow night at the Pioneer Park field house in Arlington Heights where Walter Meier will call from 8 to 11 o'clock. "Coffee and" follows the dancing.

Foul weather and the flu bug teamed up to cut down attendance at the club's valentine party dance February 12 but those who made the grade had such a good time that nobody wanted to stop dancing. Although no one accused Caller Walter Meier of influencing the weather or the flu rate, full blame was on him and his wife-assistant, Vera, for the fun and what seemed like an unusually short evening.

The serving of a potluck supper concluded the activities, although reluctantly.

CLUB PRESIDENT Jack Keefer is home again after recent surgery and fellow members and friends wish him a quick and comfortable return to their circle—square, that is.

Arlington Squares — 10 x ital.

Prizes, fun mixers and a game or two are in the offing for everyone who's in the party tomorrow night at the South Junior high school in Arlington Hts. Bill Clarke calls at the popular dance level and includes some new more intricate figures each dance night, so there'll be dances to please everyone from 8:30 to 11:30.

Guests are welcome but are asked to call Anne Brooke, Cl 3-7839, after 7 p.m., just to be sure there will be coffee and enough for everyone.

Bucks 'n' Does

Elk Grove club invites everyone to do-ci-doings in Higgins school, Higgins and Touhy, Saturday night. Bucks 'n' Does Caller Frank Walker clears his throat at 8:29 and dancing starts at 8:30.

Attendance at the club's valentine party dance was not much affected by the weather February 13 when enough couples to make up nine squares mushed to Higgins school. The hall was hung with red and white streamers, hearts and lots of li'l Dan Cupids and the bright sight made everyone forget the weather the minute they stepped inside. The equally bright and sprightly calling of Bob Kim eliminated any remaining winter doldrums.

Suburban Educators Defend Sports Program in Schools

Jimmy is in eighth grade.

Recently the things Jimmy was learning and doing in eighth grade were discussed by educators from the entire country. One observation — by Dr. James B. Conant, former president of Harvard university — was that Jimmy had become involved in a vicious program of athletic competition.

Jimmy could be in eighth grade anywhere, but for this story he lives in Mt. Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Arlington Heights, or Elk Grove.

Men in each town, said, "No, Jimmy does not have a too active sports program. We think he should have some sports competition with other schools."

L. R. Murphy, Mt. Prospect superintendent, heard Dr. Conant's charge of sports over-emphasis because of intense inter-school rivalry. This was said at a convention in Atlantic City, N. J., of the American association of School Administrators.

"OUR JUNIOR high students compete in basketball with other junior highs, but the program is not highly competitive as those Dr. Conant discussed were," Murphy said.

Seventh and eighth graders in the Northwest suburbs do play an average of 10 basketball games with other schools. But no trophies are awarded and no grand winner is announced. There are no post-season tournaments.

Al Hopkins, a boys physical education teacher at the Salk school, Rolling Meadows, said he thought the interscholastic program there was good.

"Kids need some competition," he said. "We don't make an enormous thing out of winning or concentrate our competition on a few outstanding kids on one team. We try to play as many boys as possible and play just for fun."

THE GOALS behind the p.e. program in each of the school districts are similar. George McKown, principal of the Paddock school, Palatine, in district 15, said it this way.

"Physical education is calculated to build physical fitness. Sport are definitely competitive, designed to teach sportsmanship and knowledge of rules and game procedure. We also try to work in an element of social learning through a co-ed dance period one day a week. We are also trying to teach kids to love sports so they will want to continue, not only through high school, but for the rest of their lives."

Health is also an important part of physical training given Jimmies and Janies in junior high school. At Paddock, health is studied on days when a class can't use the gym. (Boys have it one week; girls the next.) In Arlington it is more a part of the science program. It is also a separate study at Higgins junior high school, Elk Grove. Students in Mt. Prospect have gym three days a week; health and safety the other two.

HOPKINS AT the Salk school, and Bob Campbell, principal of Miner junior high, Arlington Heights, both are proud of their calisthenics program. All Miner Jimmies and Janies do exercises to warm up for the first five or seven minutes of their 45-minute gym class three days a week.

Though competition on an inter-school basis is not so keen in these towns as Dr. Conant seemed to think was a national norm, the teams that play intramural games are rarin' to go.

Mt. Prospect boys play basketball, touch football, and volleyball against other teams within their own school. Football is also intramural in Elk Grove.

At the Salk school, volleyball, basketball, and softball are played after school besides the gym class. Junior high schoolers there have a 40 minute gym period every day. Monday and Wednesday boys use the gym, Tuesday and Thursday the girls take over. Friday they both have it for a game period - either volleyball or deck tennis.

TO PLAY after school games, Salk students must have written permission to stay an extra hour and a half. Games themselves are played Wednesday nights.

Miner intramural sports are organized on a home-room basis for all team sports. The boys play each other two nights a week; the girls take over for intramural games one night a week.

Most schools also have one intramural track meet or field day in the spring. Salk school also goes to Oak st. school, Palatine for the Oak st. district relays one Saturday in spring.

Depending upon the size of a school district and the length of time it has been in business, the amount and types of sports offered for the physical education program vary.

IN MT. PROSPECT, an older, larger district, boys play touch football, basketball, volleyball, softball, badminton, and deck tennis. Grils don't play football, of course, but they do have some modern dance and more calisthenics than boys. Murphy said the girls' program was built on a less strenuous routine. "For them we try to develop grace and poise," he said.

Girls at Miner school play soccer, arch, and have a posture class. They also have volleyball, stunts and tumbling, folk and square dancing, basketball, modern dance, softball, and field events.

Boys play football, then soccer, basketball, tumbling, wrestling, volleyball, and track and field.

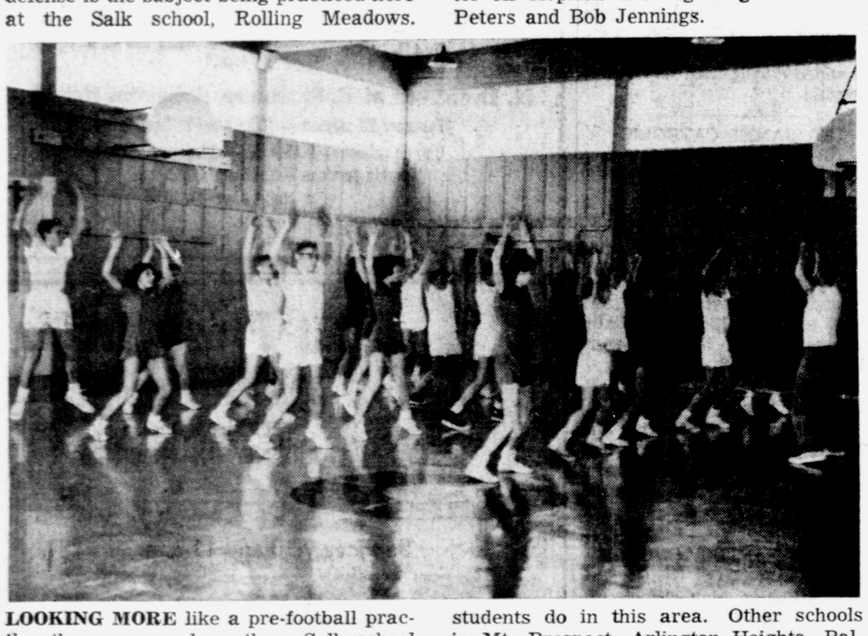
Only the girls in Rolling Meadows play soccer. They also play deck tennis. Hopkins said he tried to have kids invent games they could play. One of these is handball using the gym wall. Palatine students follow much the same schedule, without the deck tennis.

Square dancing was put on the program last spring in Elk Grove. Charles Chappelear, principal at Higgins school in newer Elk Grove village, thought this would be continued this spring. His students also have softball, soccer, tumbling, volleyball, basketball; and touch football for the boys. Gym classes are 40 minutes long, two days a week.

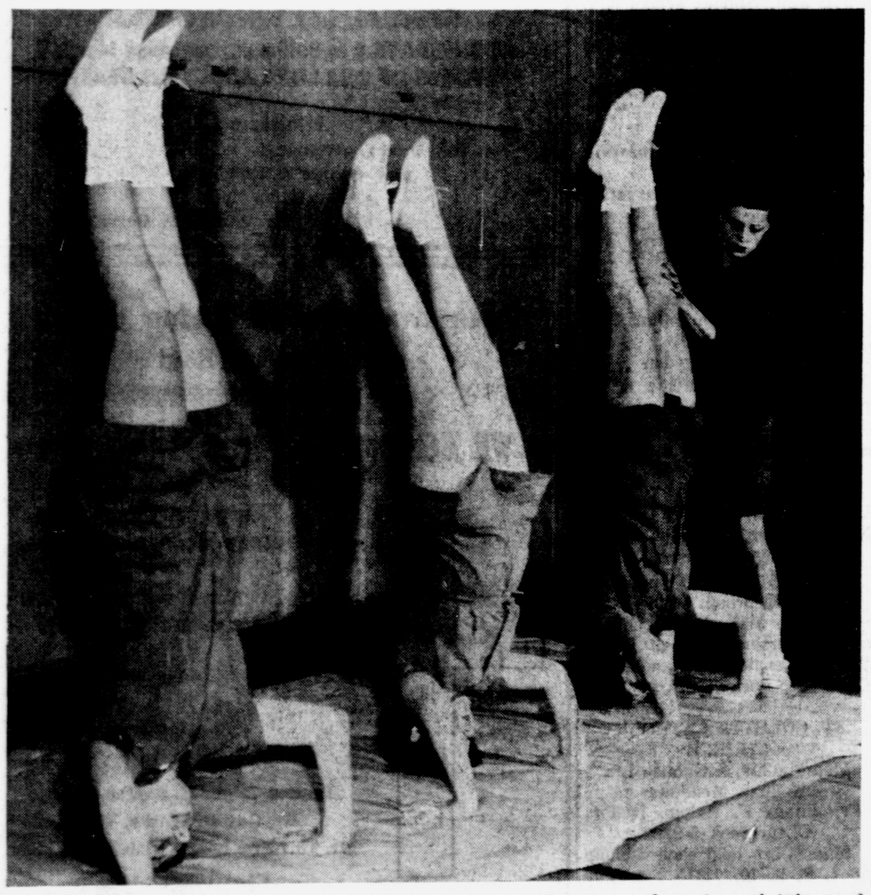
ALL EDUCATORS in the northwest suburbs thought their physical education program was well-rounded. If a school played more than 10 outside games in basketball, this year, that number had been cut to 10 for next year.

"Sports are a very popular activity we have found in our junior high school," Miner principal Bob Campbell said. "The kids are eager to participate, and we like to have them for their own good physical development and to build a good attitude toward sports."

LEARNING A WRESTLING hold and its defense is the subject being practiced here at the Salk school, Rolling Meadows. Working under the careful eye of instructor Al Hopkins are eighth graders Ken Peters and Bob Jennings.



LOOKING MORE like a pre-football practice than a gym class, these Salk school junior high students go through warm ups with physical education teacher Al Hopkins. This is one of several exercises students do in this area. Other schools in Mt. Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine, and Elk Grove, have similar physical fitness programs.



GIRLS USUALLY get more tumbling training than boys. These headstanders are Carolyn Amundson, Sally Spitler, and Susan Rossi, all eighth graders. Helping girls get the proper form to maintain good balance is Mary Barnett, Salk school PE teacher.

Arlington Heights' PTA Is Rehearsing '60 Talent Show

Arlington Heights will soon be treated to another "great musical comedy."

Advance reports of the new PTA talent show to be presented March 30, 31, and April 1 indicate that the original script by Al and Erlene Isaacs will make this year's production the most successful ever.

Tryouts, casting, and rehearsals for the show have been continuing since early January.

The cast, backstage crews, and musicians are all residents of Arlington Heights and vicinity.

THIS YEAR'S production will be the sixth annual talent show produced under auspices of Arlington Heights PTA.

The original show was the "brain child" of Mrs. William H. Ball, who was serving as ways and means chairman in 1955 when she suggested the musical as a new and different means for raising money for the PTA treasury.

An immediate success, the talent show has since become an eagerly-anticipated annual event in Arlington Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hawley directed the 1955 show which featured a variety of local talent. The show's finale featured a can-can song and dance number with nine men garbed in dresses and mop wigs.

GENERAL CHAIRMAN for the 1956 show was Mrs. Robert Skamfer with Bob Hawley doubling as director and master of ceremonies.

Lighting, staging, and makeup for the first three productions was handled by members of Village Theatre, Inc., community theatre group. They also contributed performers to the shows.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campbell and several faculty members from Dryden school added an innovation to the 1956 show with an original skit about parents and teachers. A resounding success, the skit set a precedent for future shows which have included a number of principals and teachers in the cast. The hilarious finale to the 1956 production featured fathers and men teachers dressed in grass skirts and bare footed for a wild and fancy hula routine.

IN 1957 Mr. and Mrs. Richard Down were general chairman. They wrote an original show which was directed by Mr. and Mrs. Victor Miller. This set all new precedents for shows-to-come.

The 1957 talent show was a musical comedy about two couples touring the U.S.A.--of the places they went and the people they met.

This was also the first show by PTA to use back drops for each scene and original costuming Dick Johansen, a dress designer, created the costumes for this spectacular show which was climaxed with an Atlantic City boardwalk number. The finale included, of course, the "boys"--this time dressed in old fashioned bathing suits and caps created by Johansen.

Next Week: The PTA talent shows of 1958 and 1959 prove even more popular.

GOING OVER THE MUSIC they will sing for the Arlington Heights PTA talent show are Pat Skamfer, Tickey Scheck, Al Isaacs, director and general chairman of the production, and Don Whiting. This is the PTA's sixth annual talent show.

REHEARSING ONE of the big production numbers in Arlington Heights PTA talent show are Carolyn Burkette and Warren Lippert, Grace Crittenden and Dick Eisenbrown, Tickey Scheck and Orv Bolte, Grace Goedke and Bob Ross, Alice and Carl Scheske. Instructing the cast is June Lippert, choreographer for the show which will benefit the PTA treasury.

Lent Services Are Announced

Special audio-visual Lenten services are being planned at St. Peter Lutheran church of Arlington Heights beginning with Ash Wednesday, March 2. and for the next five Wednesday evenings.

Dual services will be conducted each Wednesday at 6:15 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

The general sermonic theme will be "Symbols Of The Saviour's Suffering" with the weekly meditations being delivered alternately by the pastor, the Rev. R. O. Bartz, and the assistant pastor, the Rev. L. C. Bernthal.

Slides of the symbols of the Passion story will be shown on a huge screen during the meditations and all hymns will be on slides. During the Ash Wednesday service one and one-half by two and one-half inch illuminated crosses will be distributed to all in attendance. (A

Christian Scientists Dedicate Church Edifice

First Church of Christ, Scientist, Arlington Heights, will dedicate its church edifice at 401 S. Evergreen ave., Sunday at two services at 11 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The history of this church began on February 1, 1927, when a group of Christian Scientists held a meeting to organize a Christian Science society. Two weeks later, the organization was completed with ten charter members.

The first Sunday service was held on February 20, 1927, in the assembly hall of South school, when a Sunday School was organized, and Wednesday evening meetings were held once a month.

ON JULY 1, 1927, the group was officially recognized by the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., as having completed the requirements of an authorized Christian Science society.

In 1928, the society purchased a residence at 415 N. Dunton ave. which was extensively remodeled for use as a church edifice, Sunday School and Reading room. The first Sunday service was held in this building on February 17, 1929.

In October, 1944, the society became First Church of Christ, Scientist, Arlington Heights. The church edifice at 415 N. Dunton ave., was dedicated March 2, 1947, when free of debt, in accordance with the custom of Christian Science churches that dedication take place only after all financial obligations have been met.

On May 1, 1947, a building committee was appointed and in May, 1950, three lots were purchased as the site for a new church edifice.

IN SEPTEMBER, 1950, due to the growth in church and Sunday School attendance, Sunday services and Sunday School exercises were moved to the Arlington Heights field house and continued to be held there until completion of the new edifice. Wednesday evening meetings, however, were held in the church at 415 N. Dunton ave.

On May 6, 1952, an architect was engaged to prepare plans for the new church edifice. Early in 1953, a building contract was signed.

On May 16, 1954, the first Sunday service was held in the Sunday School room of the new edifice at 401 S. Evergreen ave., and the first service in the church auditorium was held on July 18, of the same year.

During the next two years, such details as furnishing the board of directors' room, equipping the nursery, landscaping and paving the parking lot completed the building program.

The board room was used as a reading room until July 1, 1956, when the Reading room was moved to its present location at 8 E. Northwest highway.

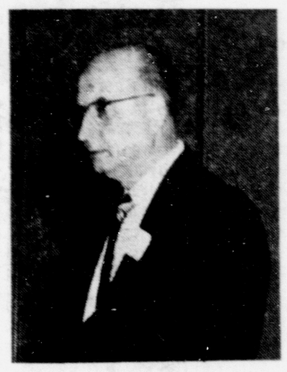
CONTINUAL membership growth and rapid progress in fully retiring a mortgage and all financial obligations have hastened this day of dedication.

First Church of Christ, Scientist, Arlington Heights, gratefully acknowledges the consistent and unselfish support by members—past and present; generous contributions by non-members; assistance through membership in the Christian Science Joint Dedication Committee of Northern Cook and Lake counties; and also aid from grants from the Selina C. Cornish Fund and the Trustees under the Will of Mary Baker Eddy.

DEDICATION OF BUILDING of First Church, Christ Scientist, Arlington Heights, will be marked Sunday in two services. Dedication of Christian Science churches takes place after the building is free of indebtedness.

High School Chief To Address Parley



H. L. SLICHENMYER

H. L. Slichenmyer, superintendent of township high school district 214, will speak Monday, Feb. 29, at the 44th annual convention of the National Association of Secondary-School Principals in Portland, Ore.

Appearing in a panel discussion group with leaders in the field of education from New York City, San Diego, Salt Lake City, Lakewood, Colo.; and Stanford university, Slichenmyer will discuss the topic "What Are Some Promising Practices in Team Teaching?"

TEAM teaching, a technique which has been employed at Arlington and Prospect high schools, involves the use of two, three, or four teachers who combine their efforts to instruct large classes ranging from 50 to 100 or more students. According to Slichenmyer, team teaching tends to improve the quality of instruction because teachers have time to prepare their assignments more thoroughly.

It also provides flexibility because small group discussions can be conducted while one teacher is supervising study or continuing a discussion with a larger group of students.

Unified studies, a combination of English and social studies, is an example of a class which can employ team teaching. One teacher may be introducing a new unit of work to a large class while other members of the teacher team are preparing future assignments or checking tests and other written work.

SLICHENMYER will take to the Portland convention examples of team teaching which are part of a continuing staff utilization project in high school district 214. Ultimate goal of this project is to achieve the most efficient possible use of teacher's time and to improve the quality of teaching through a greater amount of individual instruction given to the students.

According to Slichenmyer, team teaching will develop more career teachers in the future through recognition and rewards to outstanding teachers.

Post Office Plans 'Job Safety Week'

Arlington Heights post office is conducting an intensive campaign to prevent accidents during "Job Safety Week," February 28 to March 5, Postmaster Virginia M. Dodge announced Tuesday.

Local participation in the nation-wide effort will begin with a personalized letter to employees from the Postmaster requesting that they be alert to all hazards and encouraging them to submit beneficial suggestions on safety. Reprints of a letter signed by President Eisenhower will also be given to employees emphasizing the importance of this program and inviting their cooperation.

POST OFFICE patrons may also submit ideas to the Postmaster concerning unsafe conditions and hazards connected with the post office or any unsafe acts they may observe being practiced by employees.

"It's an all-out effort at our post office to prove that this one week, at least, can be accident free," Postmaster Dodge declared. "Our employees are usually quite careful, nevertheless, Regional statistics covering the states of Illinois and Michigan show that one of every four postal employees will be involved in a reportable accident this year. The drive for safety is everyone's business and we believe that this effort will be good for everyone. Almost 2,000,000 people in the United States are disabled in job injuries each year. It's no picnic being a statistic. We aim to have a perfect record during "Job Safety Week" and for the rest of 1960 as well."

The theme for "Job Safety Week" is, "The Challenge of Safety In a Changing World." (AK

When Lambda Delta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi had their luncheon style show at Old Orchard last Saturday, Ridge Parkers there to help make it a success were Margaret Schlickman, as well as Isabelle O'Brien, Maureen May, Colleen Ostermann, Barbara Rubenking, Jeannette Doyle, Mrs. Henry Fuller, Mrs. Charles Vlcek, Agnes Saidikowski, Mrs. Ed Law, Jane Grant, Barbara Kieca, LaVerne Strait, her guest, Eloise Psota, and Janet Schauer.

Rosemary Saidikowski made mother proud when she modeled some of the children's fashions and Janet Schauer looked lovely modeling evening wear.

Mrs. Stanley Juhl, 881 N. Salem, is at home recuperating from an operation and her friends and neighbors wish her a speedy recovery.

Helen and George Krilcic, 910 N. Harvard, didn't tell their guests that former Arlington Heighter Mel Lemmerhirt was coming to their cocktail party preceding the Hundred club dance Saturday night. They let him surprise 40 of his former neighbors in Ridge Park and they were so delighted to see him again that they persuaded him to come to the dance with them. Mel, who is now living with his family in Port Huron, Mich., is staying with the Bruce Nelsons in town.

Lil and George Lurtz, 909 N. Patton, took Sylvia and Red Craig as their guests to the dance.

LAST THURSDAY Janet Schauer, 823 N. Salem, appeared on the TV program "Shopping with Miss Lee" and gave the commentary while two Arlington Heights professional models previewed sportswear that was featured at the Beta Sigma Phi fashion show.

Birthdays are something near and dear to George and Johnny Chapman, sons of Jean and Jerry Chapman, 903 N. Kaspar. They began celebrating a week ago Sunday when they went to Deerfield to the home of Grandmother and Grandfather Chapman for a double party, including a cake for each of them. George, who was 8, invited Betsy Anders to his party; and Johnny, 6, invited the following to his party: Bruce Sturgeon, Gary Braunsreuter, Mike Doyle and Eric Tollesson. Both parties were done fire chief style, complete with plates, cups, napkins and tablecloth. Even the cakes were decorated with fire hats and red candles.

Terrence Platt is doing a fine job of recuperating from a tonsillectomy performed in Northwest Community hospital last week. He is home and looking forward to going back to school. Terrence's parents are Ruth and Dick Platt, 806 N. Kennicott.

How Lorraine Cunningham, 802 N. Harvard, managed to keep son Danny's birthday party a surprise last Wednesday is a mystery, but she did and what a time he had. Danny, who was 5 that day, didn't know what was in store for him until Janice Faitz, David Merges, Robbie Balfour and Bobby Givens arrived for a hot dog supper after school. After supper, the children had fun playing party games.

Harvard was home to the Pauls before they moved here, which meant they were doubly glad to see Harvard win. Steve Massey went with them, and although he lives here, it didn't take him long to begin rootin' for Harvard too.

Although friends and neighbors of LaVerne and Warren Holmes were sorry to see them move from 824 N. Kaspar to Minneapolis, they were happy for them because of his new job with International Mills. Warren went up there to work last Thanksgiving, his family joined him around Christmastime to find a new home and after selling their house here, they moved there last Sunday. Besides enjoying his new job, the family is enjoying living near her brother and his family. Before they left, Mrs. Charles Ryckaert gave a neighborhood coffee for LaVerne.

Because Pattie and Peggy's birthdays come in February, they had a double celebration February 7. Pattie was 6 February 8. Peggy was 2 February 15, so the grandparents joined the family to wish them well. The girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Baron Zoellick, 912 N. Kaspar.

Joanne and Joe Heinz, 906 N. Patton, helped his mother celebrate her birthday at a buffet supper at the home of his sister and her family, the Oreste Tomeis in Scarsdale. The fifth birthday of Mary Beth, daughter of Florence and Edward Paul, 1215 N. Race, was celebrated at a luncheon party February 23. Joining in the celebration were Cathy Narup, Kathy Schmidt, Susan Noerenberg and Cathy Wolszcaks. The circus theme used throughout was a topic of conversation for the young ladies. Mary Beth was also wished many happy returns of the day that evening at the family dinner party, congratulations being extended by her brother, Edward, and sister, Beverly.

This Homemaker Has Special Menu for Family Birthdays

by LOIS SEILER

Birthdays are celebrated in a big way in the John Meyn Jr. household in Arlington Heights. And on such occasions, Mrs. Meyn has a special menu she likes to serve for large family gatherings.

The menu features baked ham accompanied by her delicious and original German Potato Salad and a tart, colorful cranberry salad. For dessert her choice is a delectable three-layer Deluxe Fudge Birthday Cake.

Mrs. Meyn perfected her potato salad over a period of years, omitting this and adding that until she got just the right combination of ingredients.She likes lots of bacon in the salad, and also uses onion, celery and shredded carrots. The carrots give it color as well as an interesting flavor. Then all is mixed with a thick, nippy sauce.

THE CRANBERRY salad contains freshly ground cranberries sweetened with sugar and combined with marshmallows. Whipped cream, chopped apples and nuts are folded into this mixture. It may be heaped onto lettuce leaves for individual portions or served in a bowl. This salad is attractive in appearance as well as appealing to taste.

True to its name, Mrs. Meyn's fudge cake is really a deluxe dessert. Made is three layers, it is filled with a fluffy white marshmallow icing. The top and sides are spread with a chocolate frosting and finely ground walnuts are sprinkled on top. If desired, the chocolate may also be used as a filling.

Soft and fluffy, it will never dry or harden. However, the contrasting icings look very pretty when the cake is cut. This is a moist-textured, handsome birthday cake and is elegant company fare.

MRS. MEYN is a homemaker who loves to bake and cook and thus enjoys preparing meals for large family affairs. She is a member of the Mothers' club of St. Peter Lutheran church.

The Meyns live at 29 S. Mitchell in Arlington Heights. They have two married daughters and a son, John III, who is in seventh grade at St. Peter Lutheran school.

German Potato Salad

- 5 pounds potatoes
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 4 to 5 ribs celery, chopped fine
- Few sprigs parsley, chopped fine
- 1 onion, chopped fine
- 2 carrots, shredded

Boil potatoes in salted water until done. Let cool, peel and slice. Combine potatoes with remaining ingredients and set aside.

Sauce:

- ¾ pound bacon
- 2 cups water
- ¾ cup sugar
- ¾ cup cider vinegar
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- ¼ cup water
- Salt and pepper

Cut bacon in small pieces and fry until a golden brown. Remove pieces and sprinkle over potatoes.

To the bacon fat add the water, sugar and vinegar. Mix the ¼ cup water and cornstarch together and stir into the sauce. Cook until thick and pour over the potatoes. Stir well. Salt and pepper to taste.

Let potato salad stand in a warm place for several hours until the potatoes absorb the sauce.

Serves eight to 10.

Cranberry Salad

- 1 pound cranberries
- ½ cup sugar
- 4 cups miniature marshmallows
- ½ pint whipping cream
- ½ cup chopped nutmeats
- 2 apples, diced (Do not peel.)

Wash and grind the cranberries. Add the sugar and marshmallows. Mix together and place in the refrigerator overnight.

The next morning, whip the cream. Fold the whipped cream, chopped nuts and diced apples into the cranberry mixture.

Heap onto lettuce leaves or serve in a bowl.

Deluxe Fudge Cake

- ¾ cup butter or margarine
- 2¼ cups sugar
- 3 eggs
- 3 ounces unsweetened chocolate, melted
- 1½ teaspoons vanilla
- 3 cups sifted cake flour
- 1½ teaspoons baking soda
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups ice water

Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Blend in the melted chocolate and vanilla.

Sift the dry ingredients together and add to batter alternately with the ice water in thirds, mixing batter until smooth after each addition.

Turn into three 9-inch layer cake tins which have been greased, lined with waxed paper, greased and floured.

Bake in a 350 degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until done when tested.

Fill with Fluffy Marshmallow Icing and frost top and sides with Chocolate Frosting.

Fluffy Marshmallow Icing

- 2 egg whites
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/3 cup water
- ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
- 80 miniature mashmallows
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat egg whites until stiff enough to hold a point. Set aside.

Combine sugar, water and cream of tartar in a saucepan. Boil rapidly until syrup spins a thread, 242 degrees. Then add marshmallows and stir until dissolved.

Pour hot syrup slowly over beaten egg whites, beating until cool and of spreading consistency. Add vanilla.

Spread between layers of cake.

Chocolate Frosting

- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup sifted confectioners sugar
- 2 egg yolks
- 2½ squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 stiffly-beaten egg whites

Cream butter and gradually add the sugar. Continue to cream until light and fluffy.

Add egg yolks one at a time, beating well after each addition. Blend in the melted chocolate and vanilla. Fold in the stiffly-beaten egg whites.

Spread over top and sides of Fudge Cake. Sprinkle top with finely ground walnuts.

This cake will serve 16.

CUTTING SLICES from her Deluxe Fudge Cake is our good cook-of-the-week, Mrs. John Meyn Jr. of Arlington Heights. Her recipe for this delightful cake, as well as two other excellent salad recipes, are being featured in this week's food column.

Place Mats Practical For Brides

Brides who plan to live in furnished apartments or trailers should select table linen that is usable on different-sized tables.

According to Joan Graham, home management specialist at the University of Illinois, place mats are not only a practical choice, but also a solution to the problem of changing furnishings. Too, mats are easier for the bride to launder and store than table-sized cloths.

Miss Graham points out that place mats are an economical choice for two reasons: original cost and long usefulness. Mats can be used on all types and sizes of tables and counters until they wear out, but a tablecloth is used only as long as the bride has a table it fits.

ALTHOUGH authorities on etiquette agree that place mats are a more informal table setting than a full cloth, there are mats, such as delicate white organdy and cutwork linens, that provide suitable backgrounds even for fine china.

For use with earthenware, pottery and plastic dinnerware, there is a wide range of suitable materials on today's market. Rough weaves in bamboo and straw, novelty pastels and printed cottons, plaid denims, plastics and plastic-coated mats are available for any style of table setting the newlyweds may prefer.

A HANDY CAN of Marinara sauce or spaghetti sauce with mushrooms can turn a shrimp and rice dish into a gourmet's delight. With Lent just around the corner, your family will love this shrimps creole on those meatless days.

The skillfully seasoned spaghetti sauce, rich with delicate mushrooms, has chopped onion, celery and green pepper added to it in this recipe to impart the flavors characteristic of Creole cookery. After combining the shrimps with sauce, spoon this mixture over hot saffron rice.

SHRIMPS CREOLE

1½ pounds shrimp, cooked and cleaned
1 (15½ oz.) can spaghetti sauce with mushrooms
¼ cup butter or margarine
1/3 cup onions, coarsely chopped
1/3 cup green pepper, coarsely chopped
½ cup water
2 cups rice, cooked

Cook rice as usual in water flavored with 1 teaspoon of powdered saffron. Saute onions, celery, green pepper in butter or margarine, until golden brown. Add can of spaghetti sauce with mushrooms and simmer gently until vegetables are tender. Pour sauce over shrimp and mix thoroughly. Arrange hot saffron rice on platter and spoon shrimp and sauce mixture over it.

Spaghetti and Meat Loaf Something New in Cookery

Spaghetti has become almost as American as Plymouth Rock. This is probably due to the extensive popularity of canned spaghetti and meat balls and the handy packaged spaghetti dinners.

The chief attributes of a complete packaged spaghetti dinner, as any grateful homemaker will testify, are speed of preparation and convenience. But it also boasts the extra dividend of versatility. You'll find the spaghetti, a fast-cooking type, the finely seasoned sauce and a small can of grated cheese, can be transformed into something delectably different by adding a dash of imagination. Here is a Spaghetti and Meat Loaf that clearly illustrates this fine point.

THE MEAT mixture is alternately layered with the spaghetti which has been combined with beaten eggs and the mushroom sauce; then the loaf is baked in the oven for about 50 minutes.

While the loaf bakes, you might also heat some Italian bread that has been sliced and spread with garlic butter.

SPAGHETTI AND MEAT LOAF

1 pkge. complete spaghetti dinner with mushroom sauce
3 eggs
2 lbs. ground chuck
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2 cups soft bread crumbs
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 medium onion, minced

Start heating oven to 350 degrees F. Cook spaghetti according to package directions. Meanwhile thoroughly mix meat, one beaten egg, salt, pepper, bread crumbs, chopped parsley and onion together. Then add grated cheese from the spaghetti dinner package in with this mixture and blend well.

BEAT TWO eggs and blend into mushroom sauce from spaghetti dinner package. Combine with cooked spaghetti, mixing well.

Pack half of meat mixture into bottom of a greased loaf pan. Cover with spaghetti mixture. Then pack remaining meat mixture on top. Bake loaf in oven for 50 minutes or until spaghetti mixture is firm. Unmold and cut into slices.

Serve with extra can of spaghetti sauce with mushrooms that has been heated.

Florida Version Of Mongole Recipe

Mongolian style recipes basically use peas and tomatoes and this combination in a soup has become famous in specialty restaurants through the years.

A delicious soup recipe has evolved in Florida, where avocados are grown and have long been favorite cooking ingredients of the natives. The fruit is now shipped widely across the country during the fall and winter months so we can all take advantage of their versatility. Avocados are creamy and bland so they combine easily with other ingredients.

TO MAKE Florida Mongole Soup, combine avocados with canned condensed pea soup and tomato juice. The finished product is a rich tasting creamy textured soup to delight the palate.

AVOCADO MONGOLE SOUP

Florida Avocado
1 can condensed green pea soup
2½ cups tomato juice
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
Croutons

Cut Florida avocado in half lengthwise; remove pit. Peel skin from halves; mash ¾ of the pulp. Dice remaining ¼ avocado; sprinkle with lime juice to prevent discoloration. Arlington Fifth In Retail Sales

Evanston was back in its old position as leading suburban shopping center in the Chicago area, after a month in third place, under November, 1959, municipal ½ pct. sales tax collection figures just issued by the state revenue department.

Not only did Oak Park, its west suburban rival, surpass it for October, but its upstart neighbor to the west, Skokie, leaped into first place for the second time in history. The first was last June.

EVANSTON'S November collections were only $47,704 compared with $50,879 in October, but Skokie slipped to $46,560 from its October perch of $51,671. Oak Park remained in second place, with $42,574 from $51,513 in October.

October's business was a near record one for Skokie. Back in June its collections were only $41,806 to Evanston's $41,443. In December, 1958, however, both towns reached their highest mark, $59,086 for Evanston and $54,754 for Skokie, so the December, 1959, figures should prove interesting.

Third and fourth place among north suburban towns were unchanged for November, with Elgin third with $34,227 and Des Plaines fourth with $18,408. Both have kept their position, growing slightly but steadily, for over two years.

Wilmette after a flash of glory during October, in which it reached fifth place with $16,927 collected for the first time during 1959, was back in seventh place in November with $13,704.

FIFTH PLACE went back to Arlington Heights, with $14,505 from a sixth-place $16,756 during October, while Highland Park was sixth in November with $14,382.

Norridge, with an increase to $12,844 in November from $11,637 in October jumped to eighth place from tenth which it had held for three month. Park Ridge slipped correspondingly to ninth, with $12,049 from seventh in October with $16,362, and Morton Grove to tenth from ninth, with $10,445 from $13,753. Winnetka, which began a local tax last May, remained eleventh, with $10,375. (B8

PTA Council Votes For 3-Way Division

At the winter meeting of Northwest Suburban council of Parent Teacher association, the business of the day was the question of whether or not to divide the overly large council into three smaller councils. By a unanimous vote of 102 ballots cast, the division was favored, and temporary chairmen were appointed for each of the new councils.

Mrs. Rodger Taggart, treasurer of Northwest Suburban council, will serve as chairman of the new council serving the Barrington, Palatine and Schaumburg area.

MRS. Roland Becker, secretary of Northwest Suburban council, will serve as chairman of the Elk Grove and Wheeling township area council.

Mrs. Albert Gierahn, president of Northwest Suburban council, will be chairman of Maine Township area council.

Each of the new councils have appointed by-laws committees and nominating committees and will hold their election meetings early in March. However, the units will remain the larger Northwest council until after the annual meeting in May. (B9

Young Adult Meeting Set For Sunday

Northwest Suburban Young Adult fellowship will have its next meeting Sunday, Feb. 28, at 8 p.m. in First Methodist Church of Des Plaines. Speaker and discussion leader will be Rev. Roy Larson of the Good Shepherd Methodist church in Park Ridge. His topic for the evening will be "Piety and Pleasure." Reshments will be served following the program.

The group is interdenominational and is organized for single young people of post-high school age. Servcemen, office workers, teachers and other working people are invited to the meetings which are held every other week. Further information may be obtained by calling Betty-Lee Shawyer, CL 3-8673.

Churches Take Fresh Look At Mass Media , Says Marty

Dr. Martin E. Marty, pastor of the Church of the Holy Spirit in Elk Grove Village, was principal speaker for Religious Emphasis week Feb. 15-17 at Gettysburg college, Gettysburg, Pa.

Dr. Marty, associate editor of The Christian Century magazine and a contributing editor to Paddock Publications newspapers, presented three addresses based on a book he currently has in production — "Christian Communication through the Mass Media."

Following is a resume of his addresses:

"The churches are taking a long second look at their criticisms of mass media of communication," Dr. Marty told his Gettysburg audiences. His lectures differed from previous studies of the problem in that they are directed not to the people who produce the media but to the people who are in many ways shaped by the values they present. For them, he said, the task is one of interpretation, evaluation, and eventually of effort to change the media.

"THREE conventional religious strategies of criticism are too limited to be of use or are obsolete.

"First is the assumption that for religious nurture people can somehow be sheltered from the communications' media. Many have felt that Christianity can be built up only to people insulated against other value-structures or systems.

"But the Fundamentalist schools that used to force students to sign pledges against attending even the finest movies have no safeguards against viewing even the cheapest movies on television. The cartoonists enjoy showing the impact of television in monasteries.

"Books, magazines, newspapers, motion pictures, radio, and television are here to stay and for a long time already there has been no escape. Any strategy which relies on keeping people from the media, or vice versa, is doomed.

"The second useless criticism against the communications' media is that they are basically non-religious or secular in outlook. For this, they often are scourged by religionists even where they are not to blame.

"We might ask, What do you expect? The media are reflections of a world come of age, a world whose assumptions are not built on the idea of God.

"The media can nudge opinion along or slow it down, but they do this within the context of an understandable and believable language — and that accepted discourse today is basically secular. There is room for the crusader; the commercial media provide some room for creativity; but even the 'breakthroughs' are usually done in a circumscribed secular context.

"INSTEAD of criticizing, the churches often owe a 'thank you' card for what is healthy in secularity. A certain sense of fairness to all religions, even if it is commercially motivated, is a safeguard to American pluralism.

"Often non-religious agencies (e.g., the courts) or crusading journalists have done more than churches in the matter of 'civil righteousness' or justice. The churches do better then not to criticize non-religious use of media wholesale.

"Instead, they should ally themselves with what is or can be good in them. They should work against depersonalizing and dehumanizing tendencies, against trivialization and the catering to people on lowest terms.

"The third obsolete strategy is to demand 'equal time' for religion. This is the most 'sticky' of the three categories. Religion is big business; it plays a large part in American life; it can hardly be overlooked. So religious people demand a good deal of religion in mass media.

"IF WE put ourselves in the place of the producers of the media we can see their difficulties. Most of them find it necessary to present religion as an overarching concern, a sort of glue that holds American life together.

"When this happens, we usually see mere sanctifying of the American way of life rather than a religious interruption of that way. Or the media communicators avoid all controversial subject matter, as if to say, 'Religion is important. Faith is important. But the substance or content of the hope is not. Nothing matters as long as you are sincere.'

"If there is any one message that Americans do not need to hear in a time of vague religiousness that is it.

"There are things that the church people can do in such a situation. Their first task is to evaluate the media, to learn to interpret the culture, to help their people develop criteria for judging the opinions that are beamed their way.

"They will have to work to attract artists, writers, producers of imaginative literature once again so that they explore the Christian claim.

"They will build bridges toward healthy secularity just as they build barricades against unhealthy religiosity. Rather one movie like "On the Waterfront" than ten Bible - and - bathtub productions.

MOST OF ALL, they can see their claims produced in mass media indirectly by being the best kind of Christians possible. Instead of propagandizing, hollering, teaching with a note of condescension, they can attract people ot Christianity by serving in the midst of the world which God created and in which Christ gave himself.

"This quiet service has upset the world before and it could do it again.

"This is the 'good news' that the world has to report as news and that writers must again see as the stuff of good motion pictures and television plots. See how they love and serve—that is how the early church propagated itself in an hostile environment. It is still the most effective way.

"If the purpose of mass media is to produce 'the proper opinions,' the Christian faith is interested in promoting 'An Improper Opinion,' the historic belief that God was in Christ reconciling the world.

"Christians cannot expect mass media to do that job for them; but when they do the job, they can expect the mass media to notice it by the way they act. That will happen."

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS Rotarians have pledged to furnish one of the two-bed rooms at Northwest Community Hospital, with the local club turning over its pledge to hospital authorities last week. Club president John Schaff is shown handing over the pledge to hospital business manager Maurice Garland as Hal Rose, secretary of the hospital board, looks on. All three men are members of Arlington Heights Rotary club.

U.S. Excise Taxes Hit $5.9 Million

Only cigars, coin operated amusement devices, and pistols and revolvers brought in less federal excise taxes during the second half of 1959 than the same period of 1958, according to a report for the entire county, copies of which were issued here by Harold R. All, district director of internal revenue.

Total excise collections for the period were $5,948,307,000, compared with $5,364,317,000 the year before, an increase of nearly 11 per cent.

The largest drop was 18 per cent in manufacturers excise taxes on pistols and revolvers, down to $954,000 from $1,161,000.

COIN-OPERATED amusement devices showed a 14 per cent drop, to $3,219,000 from $3,728,000. This was unexplainable in terms of illegality under local laws, since the collections on coin-operated gaming devices, which are more illegal, increased 38 per cent during the period, from $7,415,000 to $10,243,000. The apparent reason was that some "amusement" devices were declared taxable as gaming devices, specifically pinball machines used for payoffs.

The cigar loss, from $26,410,000 to $25,943,000, was less than two per cent and not ascribable to the cancer scare, since cigarettes brought in six per cent more, $949,311,000 compared to $859,356,000. However, "other" tobacco taxes, including smoking tobacco, decreased four per cent, from $9,273,000 to $8,878,000.

ALCOHOL TAXES showed a whopping 13 per cent increase, from $1,702,859,000 to $1,599,754,000, including $1,239,107,000 for distilled spirits compared with $1,150,268,000. Other leading items were: gasoline, $935,123,000 from $889,529, 000; passenger cars, $614,928,000 from $349,180,000; tires, tubes, and tread rubber, $158,513,000 from $134,512,000; radio, TV Hi-Fi sets, $76,840,000 from $68,440,000.

One set of taxes was repealed during the year: the tax on transportation of oil by pipeline and all coal, resulting in respective drops from $7,947,000 to $37,000 on oil and from $139,508,000 to $1,831,000 on coal. Another, on processing of coconut oil, was suspended until June 30, 1960, and collections fell to $313,000 from $826,000 during the comparable period of 1958. (A13

Lenten Talk Is Slated For Editor

Charles Hayes, managing editor of Paddock Publications, will participate in a Lenten vespers and lecture series based on a theme of Christian social responsibility.

Sponsored by St. Mark's United Lutheran church, 6047 N. Rockwell st., Chicago, the five-week series begins March 9 with Dr. Joseph Sittler, professor of systematic theology at University of Chicago, discussing "The Christian and Social Responsibility."

OTHER SPEAKERS and their topics, according to Rev. J. Stephen Bremer, pastor, are: Dr. Philip Watson, professor of systematic theology at Northwestern university, "The Christian and His Vocation"; Dr. George Forell, National Lutheran Council, "The Christian and Political Action"; and Dr. Andrew Schultze, executive director of the Lutheran Human Relations Association of America and professor at Valparaiso university, "The Christian and Minority Groups."

Hayes will conclude the series at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, April 6 with "A Layman Looks at His Church." He is member of Our Saviour's Lutheran church, Arlington Heights, and recently completed a series of articles on "Religion in Suburbia" for his newspapers. He lives at 36 S. Brotherhood Week

National Brotherhood week is being observed this week, Feb, 21 to 28. It is a time of resolution to sustain the practices of democratic principles and is sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, as the climax of its year-round educational program to foster understanding among peoples of all races, religions and nationalities. Camp Fire Girls join wth all persons in observing this nation-wide week endorsed by leaders of all faiths and walks of life.

Alaska and Hawaii

The organization of Camp Fire Girls in Alaska and Hawaii during this, the Golden Jubilee year, is most thrilling. The recent growth of the program in our two newest states is very encouraging, and already many people are contributing to its successful development.

Former members of Camp Fire Girls who are now living in Hawaii or Alaska would no doubt like to renew or continue ther affiliation with Camp Fire Girls. Anyone knowing the whereabouts of former Camp Fire Girls, leaders or adult workers now located in the 49th or 50th state, is asked to send the names and addresses to Mrs. Richard Albers, 2500 Denali, Spenard, Alaska and/or Mrs. George Frazee, 3961 Kidd ave. Honolulu 18, Hawaii.

As Camp Fire celebrates its 50th anniversary may we extend the hand of friendship throughout the 50 states.

Fun Trip

Fannie May Candy company invites Camp Fire Girls and Blue Birds to visit their candy house, 10040 Skokie blvd., near Old Orchard Shopping center.

A telephone call to Leta or Dolly at ORchard 4-5544 at least 10 days before your intended trip will reserve a time for your guided tour.

Palatine

The regular monthly leaders association meeting will be held Monday, March 7, at 8:30 p.m. in St. Paul United Church of Christ, 144 E. Chicago. Final plans for the Camp Fire-Blue Bird father-daughter dinner will be on the evening's agenda and Miss Audrey Diakew, field director, will be on hand to present a skill and sharing session.

Mt. Prospect

Aowakiya Camp Fire Girls working toward their trail seeker's rank, held their first council fire of the season Tuesday, Feb. 9. Nine members were awarded honor beads. Three members were absent due to illness. The group includes: Demetra Aretos, Barbara Becker, Nancy Cordina, Sydney Karl, Deborah Colosimo, Sherry Gunsolus, Sarah Hamilton, Sharron McJunkins, Lynne O'Neil, Janis Reek, Linda Schmitt and Rosemary Wichenkamp. One new member, Julie Castle, was welcomed into the group.

The girls were honored to have as their guest, Miss Bertha Ehard, who organized the first Camp Fire group in Mt. Prospect in 1927. Miss Ehard related some of the interesting experiences she had as a leader, pointing out the many changes that have taken place in the past 33 years. Miss Ehard's service and devotion to Camp Fire Girls is an inspiration to the girls and their leaders.

CO-GUARDIANS for the Aowakiyas are Mrs. Otto Timmerman and Mrs. Anthony Colosimo. The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Colosimo, wth Janis Reek acting as hostess.

Valentine corsages for the 60 residents on the third floor of the Lutheran Home for the Aged in Arlington Heights were made by third grade Merry Maids Blue Bird group from St. Paul school. They were delivered February 12 by the group's co-leaders, Mrs. Elmer Hedka and Mrs. Henry Schroeder.

The girls entertained the residents February 15 by singing songs over a public address system. They enjoyed a tour of the home and were asked to return soon.

FUDGE WRAPPED in personalized wrappers "From the Kitchens of the Merry Maids," thrilled the fathers at Christmas. A hand made Christmas card with a colored snapshot of her daughter in costume was given to each mother. January 18 the Merry Maids made get-well cards for Miss Taege, who was their first grade teacher. The leaders delivered the cards with a plant purchased by the group.

A tour of the Sugar Bowl in Des Plaines was a special treat January 21. The Blue Birds saw how home-made candies are dipped and how ice cream is made. Before leaving, the girls received samples of candy and ice cream.

Brownies Observe Thinking Day February 22

In observance of Thinking day, Feb. 22, third grade Brownies of Troops 614 and 615 from Ridge school, Arlington Heights, turned their thoughts towards Girls Scouts of other countries.

Thinking day is held on the birthdays of the founders of the scouting movement, Lord and Lady Baden-Powell.

Realizing that they are just one part of a world-wide organization which encompasses girls of many different lands, these Brownies decided to learn more about their fellow Scouts.

DURING THE PAST several weeks each of these troops has undertaken the study of a particular country. Troop 614 studied the language and culture of Mexico, whole troop 615 investigated the customs of Germany. Then on Thinking day the two troops held a joint meeting to share what they had learned.

Under the leadership of Mrs. John Maun, with co-leaders Mrs. Joe H. Moss and Mrs. Carl Schlomann, the girls of 614 recited some Spanish words, sang a Spanish song, "Cinco Centavos," and played one of the favorite games of Maxican children called "Fighting Cock."

Troop 615, with Mrs. Bruno Waara as leader and Mrs. Tom Pray and Mrs. Warren Bless as co-leaders, demonstrated an authentic German folk dance called "O Come Let Us Be Joyful," sang "O Tannenbaum" and recited some German words.

THE GIRLS ALSO brought various articles which were made in these respective countries to the meeting and displayed them to the group.

Even the refreshments were representative of the two countries: German Sour Cream Sugar Cookies and Coca Cola. Surprisingly enough our American coke is the favorite beverage of Mexican children, too.

To climax the meeting, the Brownies were presented World association pins by their leaders, signifying their bond with Girl Scouts all over the world. (A DEMONSTRATING an authentic German folk dance are Amy Carlson, Mary Owren, Barbara Witticombe, Cathy Ploetz, Suzie Pray and Christine Davis, third grade Brownies of troop 615, Arlington Heights. Members of this troop chose to learn about the customs of their fellow scouts in Germany in observance of Thinking day, Feb. 22.

A NEW Era Begins

"We must not permit history to say that we gave our children anything less than the best in education. Let our nation be known for spreading the light of knowledge around the world." These were statements made by Elliott H. Newcomb, administrative assistant to the president of Encyclopaedia Britannica Films, Inc. at the first general meeting of the Arlington Heights PTA February 16.

Mr. Newcomb went on to say that the uneasiness in our land and all over the world is caused, for the most part, by the knowledge that men have the means with which to destroy themselves; Russia has shown herself to be ahead of us in some scientific achievements, and our educational program is being criticized, and rightly so.

One factor in the solution of these problems is the limitation of our own minds. We must turn to education and give it priority. We must not fall behind in our educational program. These were the warnings given by the speaker as he pointed out the need for teachers and new methods of teaching.

TO EMPHASIZE his topic "Education: A New Era Begins" Mr. Newcomb described new electronic aids which will revolutionize teaching methods as startling as the invention of the printing press. Fear that the modern classroom will resemble a machine shop with its desks equipped with screen and a separate device for audio equipment, is offset by the fact that the relationship between the teacher and the student will be greatly improved.

The role of the teacher using the new methods of audio-visual instruction will change from one who just imparts knowledge to one who orients the student with facts. Text books will diminish in importance as the new educational aids will bring the most qualified instructor before students.

Mr. Newcomb presented several samples of his (audio-visual) so called new demential textbooks to the PTA.

Mrs. Wallace, president, expressed a sincere commendation of all those whose efforts contributed to the success of each of the many facets of PTA. Next year's officers were elected: president, Mrs. Robert Wallace; vice president, Mrs. William Townsend; second vice president, Mrs. Robert Bukowski; secretary, Mrs. Victor Graham; treasurer, Dr. Frank Psota.

BRUNO WAARA made an appeal for funds on behalf of Family Service.

Fr. Samuel N. Keyes of St. Simon Episcopal church, gave the invocation to open the meeting and Boy Scout troop 57 presented the colors. Refreshments were served by the mothers of eighth grade pupils.

Book Fairs Booked

Children are welcome to browse and choose books for readers and non-readers as well, as books for adults will be on display and for sale at the annual book fairs March 5 and March 12. Over $1,700 worth of books have been purchased for the school libraries from the profits of recent years.

Junior High Meeting

Parents to learn of Junior High is the subject to be discussed Thursday, Feb. 25, at 8 p.m. at the Algonquin Junior high school, Des Plaines. Those attending from Arlington Hts. will be Mrs. Frank, vice president; Mrs. Robert Bukowski, second vice president; Mrs. Rogert Wright, school chairman for Miner Junior high; Mrs. Gaylord Watland, school chairman South Junior high. Newcomers Plan 'Come as You Are' Morning Coffee for March

Newcomers club of Arlington Heights will hold a "come as you are" coffee sometime in March to welcome new members who have joined the organization during the fall and winter months. The proposed event was announced by Mrs. Irving Rohr, membership chairman, during Newcomers' monthly evening meeting held February 17 in Pioneer park field house.

The morning coffee will be held in the homes of several members located in various parts of Arlington Heights; and although the exact date will not be announced, the informal event is planned for a Saturday morning between March 5 and March 19.

Members of Newcomers' board will act as chauffers, picking up anyone who has signed up for the coffee. Mrs. Rohr extended an invitation to attend to anyone interested in joining Newcomers' club, as well as any present member. Any club member or prospective member with less than 18 months residency in the vicinity, may arrange to attend by calling Mrs. Rohr at CL 3-8916 before March 5.

DURING THE BUSINESS session, the club was informed that a short floor show had been added to the program of activities planned for the "Mardi Gras" charity ball to be sponsored by the organization Saturday, Feb. 27, at Villa Venice in Northbrook. Mrs. Hal Drew, dance chairman, and her committee hope to realize enough from the dance to complete Newcomers' pledge to Northwest Community hospital.

President Mrs. Thomas Stewart introduced Mrs. Walter Simons as new golf chairman, replacing Mrs. Phillips Cruttenden, who is leaving the area. Twenty-seven new members and guests were introduced, bringing the evening attendance close to a record number.

FOLLOWING THE CLOSE of business, cards were played with bridge prizes going to Mrs. John Gessert, Mrs. Dick Lueders, and Mrs. Robert Domas. Winners in canasta were Mrs. Larry Coughlin and Mrs. James Reilly; while Mrs. Lyle Mullvain and Mrs. Eugene Jonhson won at the pinochle tables. Early bird prize went to Mrs. Don Cutler.

Refreshments in keeping with the valentine decorations at the tables were served by Mrs. Anatole Lucas and her committee.

Newcomers' next meeting will be a luncheon March 9 in Old Orchard country club. Reservations may be made by calling the luncheon co-hostesses: Mrs. William Shannahan, Cl 9-3676, or Mrs.. R. Sharp, CL 3-5399.

Any woman who has lived in the Arlington Heights vicinity for less than 18 months is eligible to attend and become a member of the club. For further information conerning membership or the proposed "come as you are" coffee in March interested persons are reminded to call Mrs. Irving Rohr at CL 3-8916. (A

Eastwood Events

Meeting for Eastwood bridge Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Yunker, 315 N. Dryden ave., were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Luker, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lallor and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kurtz, who substituted for Mr. and Mrs. Woellert Ellertson.

Another group of tournament bridge players also met Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Gavin, 912 E. Euclid ave. Guests here were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Hartmann, Mr. and Mrs. George Moore and Mr. and Mrs. James Monahan, who were playing for Mr. and Mrs. Ben Yunker.

Friday evening a birthday dinner was given for Jim Rogers by his wife, Jean, in their home at 501 N. Lincoln lane. Family members present for the festivities were Jim's mother, Mrs. Thomas Loftus and his niece, Colleep McDermott, and Mrs. Rogers parents, Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien, from Chicago. What was just to have been a family get-together turned into a gala party with many friends and neighbors dropping in to wish Jim a happy birthday.

A LONG-DREAMED of winter vacation is coming true for Mrs. Rogers. She left the snow and ice behind on Wednesday to drive her parents to Miami, where Mr. Rogers will join them on Saturday. The Rogers plan on staying south for two weeks, then will fly home.

The cast and crew party which follows the final curtain of every Village Theatre play was given at the VFW hall Friday night. Since Gladys Pownall was in the play "Picnic" and Red was in charge of sound, they were among the guests who enjoyed a picnic supper, in keeping with the title, in the very middle of winter. During the entertainment portion of the party Mrs. Pownall was presented an award for her role in the show.

A "truly surprise" party was given a week ago Monday night, February 8, for Mrs. Cecilia Suhi, mother of Mrs. William Kasper. On the occasion of her 66th birthday her relatives, neighbors and friends of long-standing - 28 guests in all - gathered at the Kasper home, 302 N. Lincoln lane, with all the makings for a potluck supper. Among the relatives were her son, Frank Suhi Jr., grandchildren from Park Ridge and the Kasper children, Bill and Karen. A diamond wristwatch was presented to Mrs. Suhi by her son Frank.

Mrs. Suhi, whose home is in Wisconsin, has stayed with the Kaspers for the past six weeks since Mrs. Kasper broke her foot during the holidays. Mrs. Kasper is still in a cast, but is recuperating nicely.

KAREN KASPER celebrated her 10th birthday quietly on February 11. Her mother's injury cancelled birthd ay celebrations for this year.

The 22nd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George Brinke, 307 N. Lincoln lane was observed last Friday, Feb. 19. In celebration they dined at Rolling Green country club with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Phee.

Get-well wishes are extended to Mrs. Jack Mutti who is convalescing at home from pleurisy. (A

EXAMINING ARTICLES which were made in Mexico are members of Brownie troop 614, Barbara Schultheis, Patricia Mirs, Elizabeth Peek and Margaret Mueller. The girls of this troop studied the customs of Mexico and shared their knowledge with troop 615 at a joint meeting held Monday in observance of Girl Scout Thinking day.

Suburban Park Programs Must Keep Up with Growth

By JOEL CARTER

Like the village of Arlington Heights, the Arlington Heights park district has had more growth in the past ten years than in all the rest of its history. While we have grown from a little country town to a booming suburb, the development of recreation facilities has been accelerated to meet the needs of the big new population.

Unlike many suburban park districts, though, the Arlington Heights organization was formed long before the urban explosion. The petition for a referendum to form a park district was filed in Cook County court on May 1, 1925. As required by the Illinois Park District Code, the election was held and it approved the formation of the new park district and also named the first park Commissioners.

ELECTED WERE Nathaniel M. Banta, Henry C. Klehm, Eugene N. Berbecker, Albert F. Volz, and Julius L. Flentie. They held the first meeting at the village hall on June 18, 1925 and elected Banta president. The by-laws adopted at that meeting are still in effect with few changes.

The memorial park on Chestnut street and maintenance of the railroad parks were soon obtained. In April of 1926, John Bauer was appointed the first park superintendent.

No major recreation facilities were developed until 1938 when Recreation park was completed with a swimming pool and fieldhouse. This development resulted from Arlington Heights jumping on the WPA bandwagon and getting the park built as a federal project. Only $20,000 dollars of local funds were required but the project almost floundered for inability to raise this sum. Those were lean years.

THE POOL operated at a deficit at first and a look at park records reveals all sorts of colorful incidents that seem incongruous with our modern operations. Coupon books were sold instead of season passes; free swim periods were held; race track visitors were solicited as pool patrons; beer could not be sold in the fieldhouse but a fee of $25 was charged for giving it away.

In 1940 the disappearance of 10 million gallons of water created a big mystery. Some historical notes, like a recurrent vandalism problem have a familiar ring though.

A playground recreation program gradually grew up and really developed in post-war years. Things really got moving with the appointment of Tom Thornton, the present director, in 1952. He was the first professionally trained general superintendent.

IN 1957 THE major facilities were doubled with construction of Pioneer park on the South side. The development of neighborhood parks which was initially financed by the same bond issue as Pioneer park, has continued to the present and today Arlington residents have some of the finest public recreation facilities in the country.

The fieldhouse activities this week are:

Business Leader To Address Dinner

J. Howell Turner, general manager of employee and public relations, Standard Oil company of Indiana, will be guest speaker for the Northwest Suburban council's annual Eagle Recognition Day and Dinner program

The dinner is scheduled for the Barrington Hills country club, Thursday, Feb. 25, 6:30 p.m.

TURNER JOINED Standard Oil in 1956 as director of employee relations. He was promoted to general manager of employee and public relations and elected a member of the board of directors in 1959.

He previously was director of employee relations of California and Hawaiian Sugar Refining corporation in San Francisco, and also had been with Industrial Relations Counselors, Inc. in New York City and Columbia Steel company of San Francisco.

Annually the Northwest Suburban council honors its Eagle Scouts of the immediate past year thru its Eagle Day and Dinner program. Each Eagle Scout states his vocational preference when he is reviewed by the Eagle board of review. The committee then secures business, professional or industrial leaders in the same field to invite the Eagle Scout to spend a full day with him in his field of work. The Scout then has an excellent opportunity to study his choice of work at first hand.

"This is an opportunity for the adult world to assist the young men to today in making some of life's basic decisions," stated Turner.

THE NORTHWEST Suburban council will play host to the Scout leaders and their wives who have helped so much in giving leadership to the Scouting program. At the dinner meeting, the parents of each of the Eagle Scouts will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Howell Turner reside at 49 Brinker rd., Barrington. They have two daughters. Turner was graduated from Stanford university where he was a star forward on the university basketbll team. He received his Master's degree from Stanford's graduate school of business.

Census Forms To Be Mailed

A new system is being used by Uncle Sam's census takers this year. For the first time, residents in the northwest suburbs will receive a census information form in the mail.

This they are to fill out and have ready for the census taker—really no more than a picker-upper in the 1960 census. The census person will visit each home in his assigned area between March 1 and April 15 to pick up completed forms. (B8

Q. Does a woman keep her hat on when attending an afternoon bridge party?

A. If the party is in a private home, she, of course, removes her hat. If, however, the party is in a public place, she may do as she wishes about this.

Catholic Boys High School To Offer 4 Main Programs

(Second in a series)

Counseling and aptitude testing will play a major role in determining which curriculum a student should pursue at St. Viator high school, a Catholic school for boys scheduled to open its doors in Arlington Heights in 1961.

The emphasis placed on individual guidance by the school is stressed by the fact that each faculty member will have had training in counseling. There will also be five specially trained counselors.

The school, designed to accommodate 1600 to 1800 students, will offer four major courses of study:

—academic with emphasis on the humanities.

—academic with emphasis on science.

—general education, intended primarily for the student who will not go on to college.

SIXTEEN units will be necessary for graduation with the following requirements:

—four years of English with the emphasis on communication through writing and speaking.

—one year of American history.

—daily physical education.

THE SCHOOL will encourage four years of mathematics and science, depending upon the student's aptitude.

The math courses will include algebra, advanced algebra, plane and solid geometry, trigonometry and analytical geometry. The courses are intended to prepare the student for calculus in college.

General science will be taught in the first year; biology, chemistry, and physics in the three succeding years. Exceptional aptitudes in science will receive individual attention in an advanced science laboratory.

FRENCH, German, Spanish, and perhaps Russian will be taught in electronically equipped laboratories. Multi-level apparatus will allow eight stages of advancement to be taught at once. This will allow students to proceed at varying paces.

Developmental reading laboratories will serve the function of helping the poor reader, and increasing the speed and comprehension of the normal reader.

Social sciences will include courses in history, sociology, and political science. The goal of these courses, according to the Very Rev. John W. Stafford, C.S.V., administrator of the school, is "to give the student the background necessary to understand the political ideologies of peoples in the past and present, and impart a knowledge of social problems and solutions."

FINE ARTS courses will offer instruction in painting and both vocal and instrumental music.

Physical fitness will be stressed through calisthenics and gymnastics in addition to the ordinary group games. Records will be kept of physical development and progress.

Religion will be taught each day. "In these classes a deeper knowledge of God and man's duties and responsibilities to his creator will be imparted. Moral values and man's behavior in the light of these values will be emphasized," said Father Stafford.

Subscription to Series Ends Soon

The subscription drive for the Arlington Art Center film series, with the first program to be presentd March 6, will end February 29.

Reservations should be in the mail by February 29 in order for the tickets to be received before the first program.

The charge for the series of six programs is $5. Tickets can be obtained by sending a check or money order to the Arlington Art Center, in care of William Gallagher, 726 N. Gibbons ave., Arlington Heights.

ALL FILMS will be shown in the Arlington high school little theatre.

Programs scheduled are "Tillie's Punctured Romance," and "The Bespoke Overcoat," March 6; "Rasho-Mon," March 27; "Diabolique," April 24; "Sawdust and Tinsel," May 15; "Bicycle Thief," June 5; and "Julius Caesar," June 26.

A film short or cartoon will be shown with each program except the first.

Response to Ad Is Cited by Merchant

"Your paper pulls so well it may cost me some customers."

Thus spoke Dan Senne, operator of the Emerald Shop in Arlington Heights, which is rejuvenating its fashion stocks, and has just completed a sale that cleaned out all of the previous stock.

"I was in New York," continued Dan, "purchasing new merchandise for our new operation of better serving the public with higher fashions. I had placed the advertising before I left, but never dreamed the store would be empty by the time I returned."

EMERALD SHOP at 10 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, looks woebegone at the moment, but Mr. Senne expects to have most of the new stock on hand within another week or two.

"I hope our customers don't think we're going out of business because of the way our store looks at the moment," concluded Dan. "It is just a case of our not realizing your paper could command so much attention. You'll be interested to know all of our sales were made through our advertising in your paper. We did not use any direct mail for this venture!" (B9

Q. Isn't it rude and ill-bred for a bride to wait until she returns from a month's honeymoon to acknowledge her wedding gifts?

A. These gifts should be acknowledged the day received, while those received at the last moment can be acknowledged while she is away.

Q. May one eat all of one particular food at once, instead of a bit of each - for instance, all your potatoes, then the salad, then the meat?

A. A person may properly eat his meal in whatever order he wishes.

A Message from J. T. Keefer, "Your Pharmacist"
ARE ALL VITAMINS THE SAME?
The food and drug laws require each manufacturer to state the ingredients and potency on the label. This does not guarantee the contents are correctly stated.
WE DO NOT HAVE ENOUGH GOVERNMENT INSPECTORS.
Many inferior vitamins are sold for years before they are detected. More than one-third of all condemned health remedies, seized by the government were defective vitamins and food supplements.
THE VITAMINS WE SUPPLY MUST —
1. Be made by reliable pharmaceutical firms whose integrity is unquestioned.
2. They are standardized and assayed for purity and accuracy. Each bottle is code-dated. Then, after packaging, they can be re-tested and recalled if potency lessens.
HOW ARE CHEAP VITAMINS MADE?
When low price is the chief objective many important tests are eliminated. Expensive controls during manufacture cannot be used. The amount of vitamins finally absorbed is questionable.
YOU CAN DEPEND ON VITAMINS WE SUPPLY.
They are fairly priced and absolutely dependable. Do not gamble with your health. Let our knowledge and reputation protect you.

Musical Slapsticker Is Full of Fun and Laughs

by JIM PHILLIPS

"Eghhhhh!" growls Yul Brynner as he maintains a wrist lock on Kay Kendall.

"Eeee!" screeches Kay Kendall as she maintains a fist cocked at Yul Brynner.

And so goes the state of comedy in Stanley Donen's new Columbia release "Once More With Feeling."

THIS MUSICAL bedroom farce is just that, with "Shiny Top" Brynner as a smooth-shaven version of a "hard-to-get-along - with" symphony conductor, and Kay Kendall as his "disgusted with unmarried-married life" love partner.

Among other minor plots in this well done little slapsticker, you will find episodes dealing with Kay's attempts to marry a good, reliable, respectable, uncomplicated educator; Yul's futile rantings about his love life while chasing it around his library; and the arguments that can occur when a soloist and symphony conductor collide behind the scenes in the music business.

Actually, what it boils down to: Yul and Kay are playing man and wife a la Punch and Judy and Kay decides one day that she is sick of doing the 220 low hurdles from pillar to bedpost; so she decides to actually marry Yul in order to secure a divorce so she can marry a magna cum laude representative at a college.

THROUGH ALL the thick and thin of it, "Once More With Feeling" turns out to be the silliest but best piece of satirical comedy presented on the screen for many a year. The dialogue is art in itself, especially when handled with so much beauty and talent as Kay Kendall had. Her death was a great loss indeed. She does more with a twinkle of a false eyelash than most so-called comediennes do during an entire 35mm comedy. It is her precise timing and girlish-whirlishness that glues the picture together.

Yul is no slouch either. He manages to be cruel, arrogant, distasteful, emotional and in general, everything called for in the part of the symphony conductor. In addition, he doesn't do too badly when called upon for farce.

According to Time Magazine, this picture was completed last July, about two months before Kay Kendall passed away. For a last effort, this picture certainly makes a wonderful entertainment memoriam, if there is such a thing.

"Once More With Feeling" is typical of Stanley Donen, who gave us the wonderful "Singin' In The Rain" and the great slapstick comedy contained therein. He certainly has a way with "characters" and he can get more out of a complete film production staff than any producer I've ever seen. And his particular attention to musical details makes the movie a joy to behold. I even noticed that there was no one with an instrument out of his mouth when the orchestra was playing! And if Yul had some hair, I'm sure he would prove to be a genuinely muscular Leonard Bernstein!

Capsule Comment: "Eggh!" and "Eeee!" laugh happily ever after!

NEWS FROM the Front: A new movie (ha!) is coming our way, bloodshed and all—and it goes by the most prolific title of "Jack The Ripper!" This gory little masterpiece will probably collapse into Chicago any day now. The ads have already appeared in most of the big magazines, if your five year old hasn't brought them to your attention yet. There's something about this whole situation I don't understand, though I haven't spied any new words being used in this picture's ad campaign—like Screemo, Bleedo, Slashoscope, etc. — they must be missing out somewhere! At any rate, I'm sure the box-offices will be doing business 24 hours a day on this one. I wonder how many stars it will get from the American Medical Association? (Bill

At The Catlow Sunday

GREGORY PECK, as F. Scott Fitzgerald and Deborah Kerr, as Sheilah Graham, star in "BELOVED INFIDEL," opening a three day engagement Sunday at the Catlow Theatre in suburban Barrington. The adult drama is in TechniColor, CinemaScope, and Hi-Fidelity Stereophonic Sound. Because this feature is not recommended for children, the Catlow is running a special matinee for the children on Sunday at 3:00. The feature will be "The Lion and the Horse," in TechniColor.

12th Calf Sale Rouses Interest

Early consignments and intense interest shown by breeders indicate that the 12th annual 4-H and FFA Dairy Calf sale will be one of the best of the series, said J. G. Cash, University of Illinois dairy specialist.

About 85 top-quality calves from Holstein, Guernsey, Brown Swiss, Jersey and Ayrshire breeds will be sold at 11 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 27, at the college of agriculture's stock pavilion.

This sale is unique in many ways. So far as is known, it was one of the first of its kind in the country. Also, the entire sales force donate their services so consignors won't have to pay a charge for selling.

Cays said breed representatives are eager to provide the best possible calves for the sale. Many calves bought at previous club sales are now high producers and foundation animals in several good Illinois herds.

Purchasers must all be bona fide Illinois 4-H and FFA members. If a member can't attend, he may have another person buy for him. But he must certify that the calf will be used for club projects.

For sale catalogs, write to J. G. Cash, Department of Dairy Science, University of Illinois, Urbana.

Labels are recommended reading for persons who use chemicals for disease, insect and weed control. The authoritative lowdown on how an agricultural chemical should be used is right there on the can wrapper, according to Dwight Powell, University of Illinois plant pathologist.

On strawberries, for example, some fungicides cannot be applied after the fruit has formed, and the labels say so.

Other fungicides can be applied on maturing strawberries, but only up until so many days before harvest, and the labels say so.

What the labels don't say is that it can cost a chemical company up to one million dollars to prepare these materials. Exhaustive research runs up the bill. Powell explained that before chemicals are released the companies must submit documented evidence to the USDA that their claims are justified and that, when used as designated, the chemicals meet the requirements of the food and drug administration. Such claims and directions are then cleared to be used in a registered label.

One of the major exhibits at the 1960 University of Illinois Farm and Home festival March 31 and April 1 and 2 will feature "Chemistry in Agriculture." It will show the important contribution chemicals make in modern-day farming.

4-H Poultry Competition Ends Feb. 29

A contest designed to stimulate interest among boys and girls in improving their 4H or vo-ag poultry project has been announced by the Illinois Poultry and Hatchery federation.

This 11th annual Junior Chicken-of-Tomorrow contest attracts nation-wide interest, as competing youngsters use top management, feeding and disease prevention practices to raise the best possible chicks.

S. F. Ridlen, University of Illinois poultry extension specialist and members of the contest committee, explain that any Illinois 4-H or vo-ag member with a poultry project may enter.

An entry consists of 50 cockerel chicks of one breed, strain or cross. Contestants may have more than one entry so long as each is a different breed, strain or cross.

CONTESTANTS raise baby cockerels to eight weeks of age. Then each contestant delivers 10 cockerels to the processing plant at White Feather farms, Inc., Dundee. The best eight cockerels of each entry are judged on conformation, condition and iwte. nnn weight.

Entries scoring the highest number of points on these factors are judged the winners. There are sectional winners as well as state winners.

The IPHF and local hatcherymen donate cash prizes.

Contest entries close at midnight, February 29. For more detailed information, contact your county farm adviser, vo-ag teacher or a local hatcheryman.

Serving as contest chairman is Clarence Ems, State Department of Agriculture, Springfield.

Republican Workshop Set To Hear Primary Rivals

Stephen A. Mitchell last week urged suburbanites to "vote against the unbridled political power that has turned the police department of Chicago into a nationwide scandal."

He said many suburbanites moved away from the big city machine and now they won't consent to being swallowed up by it.

"WHAT THAT means is that they will distrust Chicago machine politics just so long as it continues to be controlled by a one-man party boss and his 22 ward committeemen enforcers.

"Bosses are built by people who ignore primaries. The boss cannot begin to exist when an aroused citizenry turns out at a primary, because his organized minority —those living in the 22 central wards — can be outnumbered by a large outpouring of voters on April 12," he said.

Mitchell, former Democratic national chairman, is candidate for governor in the Democratic primary election this April. He is opposing Cook County Judge Otto Kerner and State Treasurer Joseph D. Lohman for the party nomination.

"WHEN THE voters do turn out, they can crush the boss system easily, and elect candidates THEY want and not those the bosses have selected to act as front men," Mitchell said.

"Suburbanites agree that problems common to the metropolitan area often can best be solved by common action among municipal governments. But suburban residents will not unreservedly give and take such cooperation until they are convinced they will have as much say-so working with Chicago as they do within their own local governments," he warned. "Most suburbanites are proud of their ability to stand up and make their voices heard in their own local governments. By voting in the primaries they will increase the power of their voices. They will make themselves heard throughout the entire state."

WGN Schedules 5-Minute Weekly Dairy Program

"News for Dairy Farmers," a new weekly feature designed for dairy farmers in the greater Chicagoland area, will be heard from 12:35 to 12:40 p.m. as a part of "Country Fair" each Saturday.

"News for Dairy Farmers" is sponsored by Pure Milk association, largest dairy farmer cooperative in the Chicago area, with some 14,000 dairy farmers serving the Chicago market as members.

The new program will be voiced by Norman Kraeft, WGN farm service director, and host on "Country Fair."

In a joint announcement, Kraeft and Bronte Leicht, director of public relations for Pure Milk association, said, "This new program is designed to better acquaint dairy farmers with Pure Milk association activities and to provide other interesting dairy industry news."

In 1957 Kraeft was given a special award by the National Milk Producers federation for his outstanding work in interpreting the economics of dairying. Pure Milk association is a member of the National Milk Producers federation.

Snappy 4-Hers

The regular meeting of the Snappy 4-H'ers was held in the home of Mary Ellen Esbenson, February 1. This was a work meeting and the girls discussed the pamphlet "It's fun to be a model." A report was given on the number of projects each girl is carrying. Mary Ellen Esbenson gave a demonstration on salad dressings.

The next meeting was held, February 15, in the home of Suzanne Anderson. The rules concerning the window display were discussed. A demonstration on how to make eggnog was given by Pat Pukszta; a talk by Shirley Lange on citizenship, and Betty Mees on "A day at 4-H Camp." Refreshments were served, followed by singing.

The next meeting will be held March 7, in the home of Mary Ellen Esbenson, 1415 E. Kensington rd., Arlington Heights.

LONE DOE IN DEER GROVE is spotted from the air. Contrast of animals against snow made sighting easier.

County Makes Aerial Check on Preserves

by DICK HOFFMANN

Thursday, Feb. 25, 1960

The doe cowered under the whirring downblast of the strange iron bird hanging uncertainly in the leaden sky.

"It's instinct," Roland Eisenbeis, forest preserve superintendent of conservation, said with authority.

"The doe depends on camouflage like the fawn. It's only natural since the doe stays closer to her offspring. The buck doesn't have this family responsibility and it shows; he becomes disorganized and starts to run in every direction."

Eisenbeis' observations on animal psychology were delivered from the vantage point of a helicopter seat as he observed the lone deer crouching in the Elk Grove forest preserve.

IN THIS case, the doe's instinctive reflexes were of little avail; the arms of oak and bush had been laid bare by winter; they clutched the iron skies in gestures of futility, much as the doe cringed before this unknown mechanical quantity.

The whirly bird hovered for a moment in this encounter of technology with an unspoiled pocket of nature; then it inched onward, pausing in flight as more wildlife was spotted scampering under the huge beating of its rotary wing.

Purpose of the flight — first of its kind taken in forest preserve history — was an aerial check on deer locations and the animal population inhabiting Cook county.

EISENBEIS shared the copter's bubbled cockpit with Forest Ranger Lt. John Keippel, Pilot Milton Olsen and Paddock Publications' Photographer Larry Cameron.

Eisenbeis' detached summation: "I was pleased with what I saw." Ample food and cover abound in the county's preserves, he said. Elk Grove's wooded stretches—among the largest—house a considerable number of deer; seven were sighted on the Feb. 10 flight.

In two such excursions last week, Eisenbeis and his companions canvassed some 40,000 acres of forest preserve property, from Maywood to the county line, in this unique animal census.

Eisenbeis, a biologist, could conclude: "There is no other metropolitan area in the country, with a concentration of over six million people, where there is a greater abundance of wildlife."

THE ELK GROVE forest is also a refuge for raccoons, possums, mink, muskrat, weasels, and skunks; the scars borne by roving dogs testify to the presence of such species.

In the southern extremity of the county, Eisenbeis said, beaver and wild turkeys still make their homes in the wooded interior.

Crows and blue jays scolded noisily at this iron relation overhead, and cardinals rose from their forest perches in bright bursts of flight.

The copter moved on over the Des Plaines river, its course a black thread knitted through the white tapestry of winter.

Elm, cottonwood and willows lined its banks like sentinels of opposing armies massed over a border dispute; the woodland parted in places for flood plain, and brief interruptions of meadow, tracked in criss-crossed fashion, spelled out a silent narration on the restless quest for food.

A FOX, whose red coat flared in vivid contrast to the white blanket of snow, seemed to view the aerial interlopers with disdain before he broke into a ground-devouring lope for the forest cover.

"We spotted about a dozen foxes, and think the population and distribution for this area is normal," the conservationist related.

The increase in deer in the county can be traced to a number of factors, he said. "As they get hemmed in by expanding agriculture and community growth to the north, they move on along water courses." The Des Plaines river has its origins in Wisconsin, he added.

Eisenbeis said it was a natural tendency for the deer to follow the river south "away from competition" of their own kind.

THE POLYGAMOUS bucks travel with a harem of two to three does in tow "although there is no set limit" to the number of the male's wives, he observed. He doubted, though, if there would be any horn-locking over the attentions of females during spring mating since "there is a good proportion here between male and female."

The herds are thinned to a healthy ratio by a balance of nature which—in the protected preserves as they roam here—includes a technological predator: the automobile. "The herds are subject to the control of highway 'kills,' as we call them," Eisenbeis explained. The deer's ranks are also decimated by marauding dog packs and old age.

"We do not manage wildlife as such," said the conservation superintendent. "We adhere to the principle that nature left alone is always orderly."

THE AERIAL head count had been suggested by County Board President Dan Ryan; a Chicago manufacturing company supplied the aircraft.

Eisenbeis said wildlife has prospered in the mildness of the winter. "The December rains provided new oxygenated water, and a good supply of it." Open water held in the palms of the Skokie lagoons has been an invitation to mallard, scout and shoveler ducks flocking down from the North.

The chopper heeled over for the return flight, skimming past the black patches of woodland, stark, naked, exposed by the uncompromising elements of the season. By spring, a canopy of leaves would cover nature's workings in a protective cloak. But now, the iron bird held a lofty advantage, omniscient in its view of the surroundings.

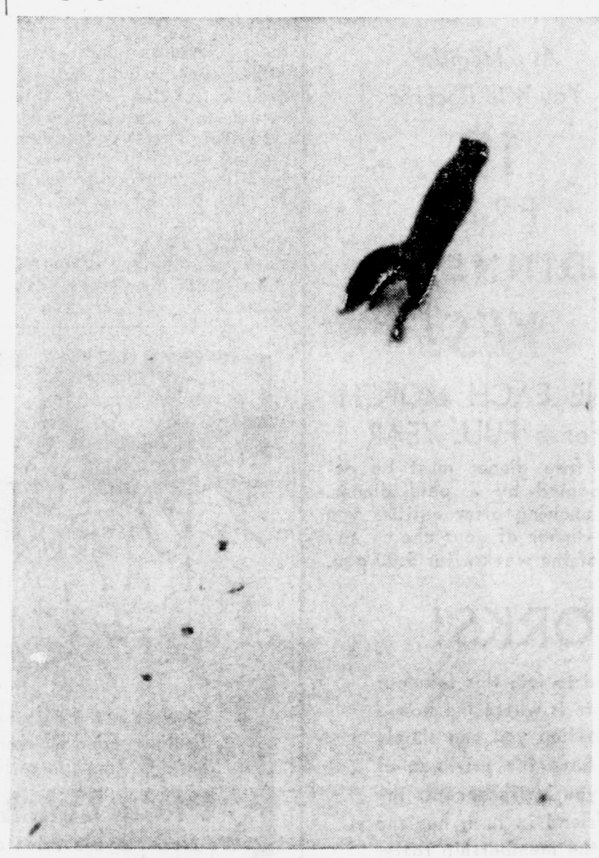
SMALL HERD OF DEER in Elk Grove woods is unperturbed by presence of approaching copter. Moments later, however, they broke for cover.

MEANDERING DES PLAINES river supports substantial fox population. About a dozen foxes were seen from the air in this area.



A FOX BOLTS FOR COVER of the woods near the Des Plaines river area.

Citizen Action Is Answer to Machine

Stephen A. Mitchell warned this week that the "power of the Chicago machine will not be dissolved entirely until the political system in Cook county is altered to extend the participation of many citizens in the affairs of the political parties."

He said that one of the first necessary steps is to amend election laws which would permit the election of precinct captains in Cook county, as is the case in the 101 other Illinois counties. He continued:

SUCH A CHANGE will have a number of advantages:

1. It will take politics out of the hands of the 'party pros' and put it into the hands of every day citizens who have no ax to grind, no reason to work within their parties except to see politics and government improved. Politics will no longer be associated with the pushbutton brigade of payroll patriots who respond to the orders of the ward bosses. The election of precinct captains will attract more young people, more women, and more persons who refuse to abdicate their right to think for themselves.

2. It will encourage the debate and conflict so necessary to political progress within the parties at the precinct level. At present this debate is too often limited at the top of the party in races for high executive office. When the voice of dissent exists in the neighborhoods, the power of the machine will be shaken at the foundations.

3. It will give strenght to even a few persons who may attempt to overthrow the boss domination that has existed in a ward or township for many years. One elected precinct captain who opposes the ward boss is many times times more effective than one citizen who has no base of power from which to operate. Soon there would be many others, and they would form alliances to oppose existing power. At first they might not succeed, but their common opposition as well as their continuing struggle to bring their point of view to voters who elected them would present a constant check and threat to the established order.

4. It will help educate voters to their responsibilities within political parties. Today it is a sad fact that not enough people know what a ward or township committeeman is, what he does, or how he is elected. All the civics courses in the world will not do what a little mixing-it-up in a neighborhood will accomplish. Such neighborhood action will show the voters that Mr. Big doesn't hold his office by divine right, that he can be toppled, if even a relatively small group of men and women band together to oppose him within their parties.

MITCHELL SAID that people often ask hom, "How can I get into politics."

He continued, "Downstate I can answer quickly and simply, "Run for precinct committeeman.

"Downstate any party member can do so. If he is dissatisfied with the operation of his party, he need only put himself forward to the voters in his neighborhood. If elected, he carries a vote within his party councils, a vote which he can cast for or against the chairman who is the party leader in his county.

"But in Cook county the bosses jealously protect their power to appoint precinct captains. They thus insure the absence of any possible dissent."

Mitchell is seeking the Democratic gubernatoral nnomination in the April primary election.

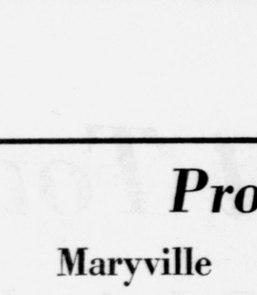
Regional Cage Tourney Begins Monday

KICKIN' IT AROUND



By BOB FRISK

A MEMO TO high school basketball fans:

If you're down in the dumps because your favorite team is an odds-on-choice to lose its first regional game, cheer up.

The so-called impossible has happened before.

How would you like to carry a mediocre record into a regional which included two unbeaten quintets ranked first and fourth in the state?

That was the plight of the 1951 Hinsdale Red Devils. Coach Larry Hoff's quintet had won 13 of 22 games, nothing to write home about and certainly nothing to cause Morton or LaGrange to stay awake nights.

LARRY HOFF

After all, Morton carried a 20-0 record and was ranked No. 1 in the state. LaGrange, the West Suburban champ, boasted a 19-0 mark and was fourth in the state. It appeared to be a foregone conclusion that these two clubs would meet in the regional finale with the winner advancing to the Joliet sectional.

But Hinsdale had other ideas. and the Devils shocked the Illinois prep basketball world in the process.

The first round games were routine. Morton handled Argo and LaGrange dumped Downers Grove. Oh, yes, Hinsdale whipped Reavis but then that went according to Hoyle.

Things startep popping in the semi-finals. Morton had a little trouble with Riverside-Brookfield but still chalked up its 22nd straight victory as Ron Zitek poured through 27 points. Then Hinsdale made its move.

Trailing 23-21 at halftime against the unbeaten LaGrange Lions, the Red Devils pulled up and with seconds remaining tied the favorites 41-41 on a free throw by Ansel Glendenning.

Hinsdale then outscored LaGrange, four free throws to three, in the overtime and Hoff's aggregation was on its way.

For those who figured the LaGrange win was just one of those upsets, there was a rude awakening. Jim Vopicka's Morton Mustangs found that out—the hard way!

Playing virtually the same poised basketball as it exhibited in the stunning upset of LaGrange, Hinsdale shocked Morton, 47-46, with another overtime victory. Ken Kavana had sent home a one-hander to move the game into overtime and Tom Hamilton's charity toss with seconds remaining in the "fifth" period gave the Red Devils the win.

It was an uphill battle for Hinsdale as the West Suburban club trailed by 15 points early in the game with a 27-16 deficit at halftime.

How far could Hinsdale go now? This wasn't just an overnight sensation. They had knocked off two of the state's best clubs on successive evenings.

The Red Devils answered the critics with two straight victories in the Joliet sectional over Aurora (Marmion) and Bradley, the latter boasting a 28-3 mark and tenth place ranking in the state.

Combine Morton, LaGrange, and Bradley and Hoff's Hinsdale five had beaten quintets with a aggregate 69-3 record. The western suburb had an hysterial populace —and with good reason.

But Hinsdale was faced with a major obstacle in its first game of the "Sweet 16" and the end finally came to this amazing "Cinderella" story. With 6-5 Bruce Brothers, Bill Heitholt, and Phil Harvey setting the pace, Quincy's Blue Devils, 27-3 over the season, dumped the West Suburban entry, 58-46.

Hinsdale had come to the end of its road. But that 1951 aggregation will long be remembered in Illinois prep cage annals for its astounding climb up the tournament ladder.

You can disregard records when the firing starts in the state tournament. It's a survival of the fittest—and sometimes the fittest come tourney time are push-overs in regular season play!

More Honors for Skating Standout

Jim Rybarczyk succeeded in bringing Mt. Prospect its first speed skating championship of national dimension when he won the gold medal for the 220 yard sprint for juvenile boys at the North American Open in Oconomowoc, Wis. last weekend.

Young Rybarczyk, evidently benefited by the experience acquired in the national competition several weeks ago in St. Paul, Minn., went all out in the shorter distance races.

ON THE SAME weekend fourteen other Mt. Prospect skaters attended the Land of Lincoln Open in Champaign. This meet marked the first venture at indoor speed skating for the Mt. Prospect entries and the switch handicapped the squad.

The sharp indoor turns took their toll of the locals and only Tim Jilek, nine-year-old Pony skater, worked his way to the finals.

JACK LINSTROM, Arlington Heights youngster, skated into the semi-finals of the juvenile boys half mile event but suffered a fall in the race and eliminated himself from further consideration.

Many of the Mt. Prospect skaters are making plans to return to Champaign for another trip at the Illinois Indoor championships scheduled for March 5.

Rybarczyk, Linstrom, Grady, Don and Tim Jilek, and the Haenisch's--Tom, Jerry, and Mary Lou-are certain skaters in the meet.

Another Class

Another class in piloting and small boat handling is being conducted Mondays at 8 p.m. in the Fox Lake American Legion hall by the Waukegan squadron of the U.S. Power Squadrons. The class, which opened February 2, runs for 13 weeks and students may still register.

Backyard Feud in Suburbs

8 Local Matmen Begin Trek To State Wrestling Finals

Eight area boys are among the 192 top wrestlers in the state headed for Champaign - Urbana this weekend.

All eight, including two sectional champions, are in the lower weight divisions with none being higher than 138 pounds.

Palatine has four entrants, two of them champions, and stands a good chance of finishing high in the state tournament won by Thornton of Harvey last year.

ONLY FOUR suburban schools, where practically all the wrestling power in the state of Illinois lies, has more entrants for the state meet, which will begin at 1 p.m. Friday in the Old Gym annex on the University of Illinois campus.

East Leyden, DeKalb sectional champion, has eight boys entered. Waukegan, winner of its own sectional, has seven. Thornton, winner at Blue Island, has six, and Morton, winner at Proviso East, has five.

All area schools with the exception of possibly Palatine, are ruled out of a state title bid since it usually requires three top-notch boys to secure a championship.

PROSPECT HAS two boys entered and Arlington and Lake Park one each.

Two boys, Brad McCreery of Palatine and George Shartle of Arlington are entered at 120. Likewise, two boys, George McCreery of Palatine and Pete Jeziorski of Lake Park are entered at 138. Dick Krause of Prospect is the local 95-pound entry, and teammate Joe Ortiz is at 103. Palatine has the final two local boys, Chuck Conley at 112 and Karl Knowles at 133.

Looking at the picture statewide, Palatine has good chances to place Capt. Conley at 112 and junior Brad McCreery at 120. Both are strong men.

CONLEY'S toughest opponent is likely to be Niles' Fung who won at Waukegan. Conley is 30-2 for the season, losing only to Weiss of Niles at 120 and Tim Byram of West Maine. Brad McCreery is 30-2-1 but faces some tough competition in one of the roughest weights in the state.

Shartle, who is 14-4-1, is expected to give a good showing also at 120 since the DeKalb sectional is a tough one. Three of Shartle's losses have been to McCreery.

Joe Ortiz is 20-3 for the year. Two of his losses are to Leyden's Sal Fuscone, unbeaten at 103. Both boys could have trouble against Bob Plaskas of Oswego, second in the state last year at 95, and Pete Barajas of Sterling, third at 95 pounds. Both boys are now at 103.

PETE JEZIORSKI'S big problem at 138 is not wrestling Bernie Ward of Evanston again. Ward, third in the state at 133 last year, beat him 6-1 in the finals. Jeziorski is 10-1 this year. One of Ward's tough contenders will be Dennis Owens of East Leyden, a real Tiger. George McCreery's record this year is 21-9.

Palatine's Karl Knowles, who is 21-6-2, can be expected to give a good accounting. He tied Ray Bruck of Oak Lawn in their first match and Bruck is the Proviso East 133 pound sectional champ. Also strong is York's Bruce Strom who has lost only to Knowles.

Just two defending state champions are back this year. They are Rick Bay of Waukegan at 145 and Terry Isaacson of Oak Park at 154. Both boys are up one weight class this year.

ISAACSON'S weight class, 165, should be one of the finest in the state meet this year. Also entered are undefeated Ron Paar of Crystal Lake and

Empkie on 2nd Five

Lussow, Zadel Selected On All-Interim Quintet

Four juniors and a senior make up the Interim association's first all-conference basketball team.

Prospect high school's co-champions pace the honor team with two positions with East Leyden, Gelnbrook, and Wheaton grabbing the other slots.

Juniors named to the squad include Jim Rodgers of East Leyden, Fred Lusow and Bill Zadel of Prospect, and Johnny Pfund of Wheaton. Rodgers, Zadel, and Lussow were unanimous selections.

ROUNDING OUT the top five is Glenbrook's Greg Sletteland, a 6-2 senior forward.

Four seniors and a junior were named by the coaches for the second five with Prospect's Fred Empkie the lone third year man. East Leyden's Jerry Fandel and Roger Lenberg, Willowbrook's Ron Rau, and Glenbrook's Ron Holder are the seniors on the second aggregation.

Zadel and Lussow are making a habit out of the post-season honor squads in the Interim association. The versatile juniors also gained berths on the league's all-star football aggregation with Zadel a center--as in basketball--and Lussow a quarterback.

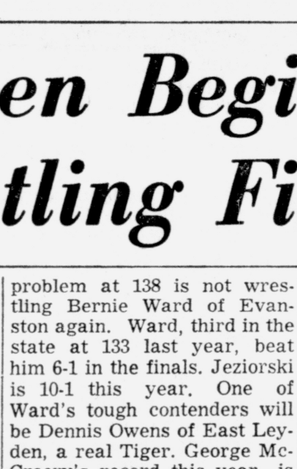
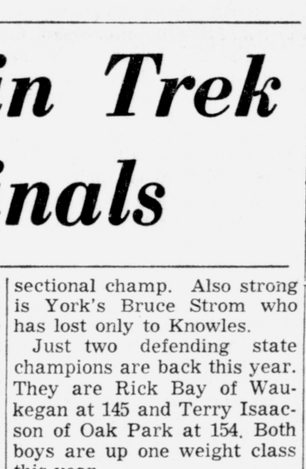
ZADEL COUNTERED 121 points in league play and has eclipsed the 200 mark in season action. He is an outstanding rebounder and is fast becoming one of the top pivot men in the area.



FRED LUSSOW



BILL ZADEL

Lussow has recorded a 53 per cent shooting average throughout the season with 135 points in league play. An outstanding dribbler and defensive man, Lussow has been an invaluable cog in the Prospect attack.

East Leyden's Rodgers is the loop's leading candidate for all-state honors, collecting 433 points in 20 season games and 222 in ten Interim encounters. Hitting at an 81 per cent clip from the free throw line, Rodgers paced the conference in both baskets and charity throws.

WHEATON'S PFUND, son of the Wheaton College cage coach, possesses a fine outside shot and he averaged 14.2 points per game in Interim play. Sletteland has countered over 300 points this season and is shooting at a 42 per cent clip. He has a high game of 31.

Prospect's Empkie isn't a prolific scorer, but the 5-10 junior is one of the best defensive performers in the Chicago area. Among the players he has handcuffed in competition this year are Maine West's talented Georbe Verber, Willowbrook's Rau, and Antioch's Jerry Dahlman.

Anticipate Record Crowd at Palatine

by BOB BUCHANAN

The first real backyard feud the northwest suburbs has ever had in basketball is set for next week.

Fans, some of whom were never fans until now, are anxiously awaiting the Palatine regional tournament which opens a seven-game five night slate Monday evening.

Reasons are plain. Arlington this year has a second school, Prospect, and the all-junior preps have astounded the local cage experts with a 19-1 record.

IF IT WEREN'T enough that Arlington and Prospect would be found in the same feud, put together Maine Township, last year's regional champion, and its offspring, Maine West. These two have never met. The same is true with the Cardinals and the Knights.

With the North Western's Wisconsin division towns of Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mt. Prospect and Arlington Hts. well represented, add a natural rival. Palatine, and spice with Niles from the tough Suburban league, Glenbrook from the Northbrook-Glenview area, and finish with the Cinderella Maryville club.

This is the array of talent to be found in the Palatine regional tournament. No one team is as outstanding as Bernie Brady's Maine Township team of last year, and yet there are enough underdog schools to keep experts guessing.

PALATINE tournament officials are expecting huge turnouts almost every night. New portable bleachers have been added to both ends of the courts to up seating capacity to 3,400. Village officials have promised to clear all nearby parking areas to handle the deluge of autos and extra police are expected to be called out to handle the traffic.

Attendance is estimated at 10,000 to 15,000 depending upon the weather and how the tournament progresses.

Should it be an Arlington-Prospect final, tickets will be as scarce as hen's teeth. The gym will be bulging to the rafters as evidenced by three radio stations requesting space. Newspapermen are expected to more than fill press row.

SHOULD IT be an all-Maine final, Arlington Heights and Mt. Prospect will be ghost towns as Des Plaines and Park Ridge residents speed up Northwest hwy.

The possibilities are tremendous. This tournament may not be No. 1 in top teams but it so evenly balanced that there will be a real backyard feud at Palatine all next week.

Niles is a good example. The Trojans have only a 3-15 record but on a given night Niles, coached by a local man, Jack Fabri — he lives just west of Rolling Meadows — could beat any team in the tournament. They proved this by upsetting state-ranked Waukegan. Remember, nine of Niles' losses have been to Proviso East, Waukegan, Ev-

Bork Needs 13!

Downers, Arlington In Finale

Arlington and Downers Grove will bring down the curtain on their 1959-60 West Suburban cage campaigns Friday evening with the Trojans hosting the loop finale.

Both clubs could move up a notch in the league ladder with a victory, and the Cards could climb into a tie for fourth place if things fell their way in the final quartet of West Suburban battles.

Arlington is currently 5-8 in league play, one game behind the co-holders of fourth place, Maine East and LaGrange. A Cardinal victory Friday coupled with Maine and LaGrange losses — both possible — would push Frank Bohac's aggregation into a fourth place deadlock.

AN ADDED attraction Friday will be the duel between the Cards' George Bork and Downers Grove's Bill Miller. Bork is first in the league scoring derby with Miller third, but only nine points separate the two senior standouts.

Bork is seeking to become Arlington's second conference scoring champ since the school entered the WSC. Tom Jacobsen captured the other title with 268 markers.

THE 6-1 Arlington senior needs 13 points Friday evening to establish a new school scoring record for conference play. He has 256 in 13 league games, a 19.7 per tilt average.

Arlington's other scoring standout, 6-4 Bob Inman, has netted 190 markers in league action to rank as the Cards' sixth top scorer in WSC history.

A 12-point effort by Inman Friday would boost him past John Sujack (193) and Bob Lockwood (201) and give him third place in the all-time scoring parade.

Things Sure Change in 2 Weeks

TWO WEEKS AGO four teams were tied for the North Suburban lead with an almost sure prospect of a shared championship. All that has been cleared up in two weekends with Barrington and Zion-Benton defeating strong contenders so that the two pre-season favorites will square off at Barrington Friday night with an undisputed title the prize for the victor. Zion got by Crystal Lake by one point to feature a real comeback by a team which led the league at the outset and slumped out of contention at one time in midseason. We picked Barrington from the start and have no reason to change our opinion. Playing at home they have just the edge they need to come out on top. Crystal Lake is our pick to whip McHenry and share the second spot with the loser at Barrington. It has been a real tight season in a tough basketball league. All but Woodstock and Palatine have been strong contenders. Palatine could have played .500 ball in the Tri-County they left this year or in the Northwest Conference they left three years ago but the North Suburban is a different story.

Our congratulations to Coaches John Ellis and Charlie Feutz and their four wrestlers, Capt. Chuck Conley at 112, Brad McCreery at 120, George McCreery at 138 and Karl Knowles at 133, who go to the state wrestling tourney at Champaign this coming weekend. Palatine won the second place trophy in the sectional at DeKalb behind East Leyden. Palatine's sectional champs Chuck Conley and Brad McCreery have our hopes for a place in the state. Palatine won the North Suburban by a wide margin and tied for the holiday tournament championship. It has been a great year for a fine team and certainly for John Ellis, a great coach, who in eight seasons at Palatine has always coached a winner.

Cage Championships Wrapped Up

AROUND THE SUBURBS the cage championships are about wrapped up. Hinsdale has it salted away in the West Suburban and East Proviso in the Suburban League. Kankakee whipped Argo and sewed up the South Suburbs crown. Carl Sandburg is in front in the Southwest conference. Prospect and East Leyden shared the Interim championship. North Chicago is undefeated in the Tri-County. Elgin has the Big Eight under control. Antioch whipped Warren to take the Northwest by one game if they beat Grayslake this week. Geneva and St. Charles are tied in the Little Seven.

Next week Palatine is host to a regional tournament which may break attendance records for this region. This is pretty sure to be the case if Prospect and Arlington meet in the final as we predict. Our guess is that on Monday Prospect will toy with Maryville and Niles will nip West Maine in a close game. On Tuesday, we look for East Maine to beat Palatine and Arlington to trip Glenbrook. In Wednesday's semi-final Prospect will come out on top by a fair margin. Thursday, Arlington will repeat its win last week over Maine but not by the same 12 point margin. In fact, we expect it to be won by three or less points. Friday in the final, you pick the winner. It is a tossup but we will pick Prospect as a better balanced team.

Twenty Years Ago

PALATINE PIRATES are the undisputed champions of the Northwest Conference as they swamped Ela in the final of the season, 41-14, for a 9-1 record. Palatine had won four heavyweight and two previous lightweight titles but all were ties. This first undisputed championship was won with the smallest champ front line in league history with Bob Hollinger 5-10½ at center and Ray Hahnfeldt 5-7½ and Chuck Snyder 5-7" at the forwards. Roy DeBerge 6-0, Dick Hildebrandt 6-1", and Merv Fink 6-0 took care of guard assignments. All except Fink are juniors. Others on the squad were McCombs, Howes, Wiehrdt and Hale Hildebrandt, manager. Coach G. A. McElroy's team finished the season with an overall 14-1 record and takes on Warren in the district tourney. Glenn Knigge of Ela won the Northwest scoring crown with 103 points in 10 games. Grueling of Barrington was second and Hollinger and Hahnfeldt of Palatine third and fourth.

Ten Years Ago

BARRINGTON IS ONE of the finest teams in the history of the Northwest Conference with a 14-0 record and a flock of scoring records. George Hansen, Steve Roake, Guy Armanetti, Ken Shuett, Jim Frey, and Dan Osinski were the big guns for the Bronchos. Barrington squeezed by the final game at Palatine, 34-33. John Waznik broke free in the final minute and was intentionally fouled and knocked into the overflow crowd. The Barrington player was sent out of the game which started Barrington fans pouring onto the floor in protest. Waznik made both free throws to tie the score but with seconds to go Osinski scored a free throw to win for the Bronchos. In commenting on the behaviour of the crowd Mac Says, "After Friday night we seriously question whether there is anything other than negative value in Palatine playing Barrington in basketball. If the situation Friday night when Barrington was faced with the prospect of defeat, t he first in 23 games, is an indication of what to expect if there are any future close games between the schools, then plenty needs to be done before the teams meet again." (Note—Palatine has not beaten Barrington in the past 10 years.)

State Wrestling

Nason Monroe of East Leyden, beaten only by Isaacson. Paar was third at 165 last year.

Top boys returning from last year include Keith Johnstone of LaGrange at 180. He was third there last year. Besides Ward, there are Pat Coniglio of Oak Lawn, fourth last year at 120 and currently at 127, and Ron Risner of Carl Sandburg, fourth last year at 103 and currently at 112.

The luck of the draw may well determine this year's meet. Whatever brackets key schools draw may help or hinder their bid for a state title.

HOWEVER, East Leyden by sheer numbers, including seven sectional champs, is the favorite. The question is how many boys will Coach Charles Farina be able to put through to place in the meet?

Thornton, with five champions, and talented Waukegan with fourth titlists, could come through to be the kingpin. As in past years, it is expected to be a tooth and nail fight.

First round competition is set for 1 p.m. Friday with second round competition at 7 p.m. The semi-finals will get under way at 10:30 a.m. Saturday with the finals set for 3 p.m. Saturday.

Fifth WSC Victory

Bork's 22 Paces Win Over Maine

by BOB FRISK

Arlington waited a long time for that first victory over a Bernie Brady-coached Maine quintet.

Following eleven unsuccessful cracks during the past years, Frank Bohac's Cardinals finally registered a triumph over the Blue Demons.

And they ended their win famine with authority!

TRAILING ONLY briefly at the outset of the first period, Arlington rolled to its fifth West Suburban victory last Friday evening with a 62-48 decision, avenging a previous 59-51 setback to the Blue Demons.

Although the contest was close for three periods, the hosts were in command throughout. Maine tied the count at 13-all with 1:03 remaining in the first segment and crept within one, 29-28, early in the third period.

BUT THE Cardinals weren't to be denied in this one. Four boys hit double figures with George Bork registering 22. Even Freshman Chuck Close, playing his first varsity game, broke into the scoring column with a 20-foot jump shot near the end of the first half.

The roof caved in on the visitors from Des Plaines in the final eight minutes as the Cards split the net for 22 points.

With Arlington leading 40-35, Bork and Rick Johnston hit successive shots. From then on, it was just a matter of how far ahead the Cards would pull as Bohac's quintet caught fire and completely dominated the hapless Demons.

BORK, BOB INMAN, and Rick Johnston combined for 11 straight points as Arlington moved out to a 20-point lead, 60-40, with 2:12 remaining. Terry Wasley was Maine's whole show in the final minutes as he scored the visitors' final six points.

Arlington has finally broken the Maine basketball jinx. But the Cards can't become too over-confident with this win over the Blue Demons.

Past results won't mean a thing if these same two clubs get together in the crucial regional!

Arlington (62)	B	Ft	P	Maine (48)	B	Ft	P

GEORGE BORK (20) held on to his West Suburban conference scoring lead last Friday with a 22-point performance in the Cards' impressive 62-48 victory over Maine East. Here Bork drives for the basket with Maine's Sophomore Steve Smith (25) on defense.

Arlington Gymnasts In Rout

Losing only one event, Arlington's varsity gymnasts crushed an outmanned Hinsdale team last Thursday, 83-49.

The Red Devils could only outscore Gay Hughes' defending state champions in the side horse as the Cards recorded a sweep on the rings and easy victories in the other events.

Arnie Harvey registered the top score for Arlington with a 189 total on the parallel bar. Junior Gary Erwin had scores of 89-91 for a 180 on the Trampoline.

Other Cardinal victors were Don Ballou on the horizontal bar, Tom Geocaris on the rings, and Bill Sayre in tumbling.

Expect Hectic Basketball In Palatine Regional Fray

anston Highland Park and Morton of Cicero.

NILES, rated fifth by tournament coaches a month ago, is the sleeper. The tournament dark-horse.

Fabri, whose son will be playing for Palatine at guard, will find his Trojans pitted against Maine West Monday in what is likely to be the most hotly contested first round game. Earlier Monday No. 1 ranked Prospect will toy with under-sized Maryville Academy.

Tuesday's bottom bracket pairings will find No. 2 seeded Maine Township and Palatine squaring off at 7 o'clock and Arlington and Glenbrook, who were only two points apart the last time they met, colliding in the afterpiece.

TALK TO fans commuting to the city and the story is different at every stop. Prospect's over-all team balance, speed and defense will win for Dick Kinneman's crew say Mt. Prospectors. Without question Arlington has the two top players in the tournament in George Bork and Bob Inman. At least this is why Arlington Heights residents believe in the Cards. Down Park Ridge way, Bernie Brady is a big reason to think Maine will win when the pressure's on.

ASIDE FROM Prospect's 19-1 record, the best any team can show is Maine Township's average 11-10 season. Gaston Freeman's Maine West five has a 9-9 mark. All the others are below .500.

The big question is, "Is Prospect as good as the Knights' record indicates?" Can they withstand the pressure when it counts? Remember Kinneman has all juniors. Only next week's regional will settle that question.

AN INTERESTING fact is that there are few tall boys in the tournament. A Palatine freshman, 6-5½ Ron Kozlicki, is the tallest. Just promoted to the Pirate varsity, he is expected to see considerable action though he most likely will not be in the starting lineup.

Then Glenbrook has 6-5 Ron Holder. Maine Township has a pair of 6-4 boys in junior Don Gebbie and sophomore Steve Smith, and Arlington has 6-4 Inman. Of all the big boys, southpaw Inman is the best being a superb shooter and rebounder.

Yet, the small men could be a determining factor in the regional. This is especially true at Prospect where three starters are 5-10 or under. Fred Empkie is only a 5-10 forward, but give him a defensive assignment and his opponent is in real trouble. The 5-9 guards, Fred Lussow and Keith Grams, run, shoot and hustle all the time.

BORK, WHO is about to break his school's scoring mark in West Suburban competition Friday night, paced Arlington to wins over four of the regional teams, Palatine, Glenbrook Niles and Maine East. The Glenbrook win was by two points and earlier in the year Maine East got the better of the Cardinals.

Prospect has knocked off Glenbrook three times, Maine West twice and Palatine once. Niles has beaten Glenbrook in addition to its loss to Arlington.

NILES HAS one of the few ailing boys in the tournament in 6-0 senior forward Lenny Sjostedt. He has a bad foot. Palatine has Bob Schneble, 6-2 center coming back off the injury list after a sprained ankle.

There are three underclass teams in the tournament. Besides Prospect's all-junior five, Maine township is playing with three juniors, one sophomore and one senior.

PALATINE is probably the youngest of all. Coach Dick Kolze starts two sophomores, two juniors and one senior and now is substituting freshman Kozlicki for the senior.

Here's the way the clubs seem to shape up in a few words.

PROSPECT — Good speed and defense. Shooting has been erratic lately. Though Interim association co-champs, the Knights are unproven in pressure tournament competition.

MARYVILLE — Played only nine games and few top-ranked teams. Their best is a 58-47 loss to Immaculate Conception. Ron Crone is team's top player and he's points against Maine last year.

MAINE WEST — George Verber, senior guard, leads this unattached team. Squad has fair speed but needs 6-2, 200-pound reserve Doug Schmidt in lineup to be effective on boards.

NILES — Jim Dahlman, only returning regular, and Frank Warda pace this team which has played pressure ball all year. Bob Brown considered a "name" sophomore.

MAINE TWP. — Brady had no regulars back to begin season and yet finised fourth in West Suburban. The husky squad appears to be a year away.

PALATINE — Kolze's underclass squad has potential but not nearly enough experience to win though Pirates could surprise with an upset.

ARLINGTON — Bork and Inman form a two-man team. Otherwise, remainder of squad has been a disappointment as Cards attempt to finish at the top West Suburban's second division.

GLENBROOK — Greg Sletteladn is the lone Spartan ace on Howie Helfrich's squad which is bent on upsetting the Cards after nearly turning the trick early in the season.

Homecoming Foe

Michigan State's 1960 football homecoming foe is Ohio State, with the visit October 29 by the Buckeyes their first ever to East Lansing.

Palatine Is 2nd; Prospect In 4th

by BOB BUCHANAN

East Leyden won seven of the 12 individual championships Saturday and thereby made a run-away of the DeKalb sectional wrestling tournament.

Coach Charles Farina's team also placed eight men in the state tournament, that's one-third of the total contingent going to Champaign-Urbana this weekend from the DeKalb sectional.

As expected, East Leyden walked away with Saturday's sectional championships, scoring 108 points, far ahead of Palatine's second place finish of 46 points.

JOHN ELLIS' Palatine team produced two individual champions, the same number as third place York. However, Palatine added two runners-up, something York was unable to do. As a result, Palatine will have four men in the state finals which is twice the number any other school has excepting Leyden.

Saturday was a disappointing day for a good-many district champions. Palatine's Johnny Anderson, 95-pounds, Arlington's Terry Harris at 154 and Jerry Greer at 145, and Heavyweight Darryl Phillips of Prospect all failed to qualify for the state.

It was an even worse day for the boys from the Elgin district. Of the 48 who went to the sectional, only two will advance to the state tournament and both qualifiers had to settle for second place in the sectional. The host DeKalb school failed for the first time in five years to get a man to the state.

THE BIGGEST problem Leyden Coach Charles Farina had was switching from mat to mat to catch his boys wrestling. He had 11 of his 12 men left after Friday's first round. He lost three more boys, Tony Rende at 120, Ron Zajac at 130, and Bob Kruse at heavyweight in semi-final matches.

Of the eight who went into the finals, only one, 112-pounder Don Coffman, failed to respond with a championship. It was a Leyden day through and through.

Area schools had their ups and downs. Palatine suffered a disheartening loss when Anderson became a 3-0 upset victim of Dick Krause of Prospect in the semi-finals. Krause scored a first period takedown and last period escape to keep Anderson behind throughout.

THEN PALATINE'S hopes brightened as Chuck Conley beat Prospect's Bob Trausch and Leyden's Coffman by identical 3-0 scores in the semi-finals and finals to win the 112-pound title.

The Pirates took their second straight title, this time at 120, when Brad McCreery scored a smashing 9-3 win over Arlington's George Shartle, No. 1 upsetter in the tournament. McCreery piled up a 9-0 lead before easing up on Shartle.

Shartle, Arlington's lone entry in the state tournament, proved his mettle when he whipped DeKalb's highly regarded Ron Oleson, 4-3, in the first round. Oleson was the DeKalb district champion. Next Shartle ousted Leyden's Rende with a clear-cut, 4-2 win.

PALATINE'S two second place finishers were Karl Knowles at 133 and George McCreery at 138. Knowles fell into a last period takedown to lose to Bruce Strom of York, 4-3, in a tremendous struggle. At 138, Dennis Owens of Leyden once again proved to be the clear-cut master of George McCreery, winning 9-0.

Friday night Palatine lost Joe Bellanca at 127, Norm Schuettner at 145 and Dick Cook at 165. Cook bowed out because of an ear infection. Schuettner lost a hard-fought 3-2 decision to John Ziegler of St. Charles, who was one of the Elgin district's two men to go downstate.

Arlington had its setbacks too. Greer, after winning his first round match, was overpowered by Ziegler's strength before being pinned in 3:13. Greer came back to score an 11-0 decision over John Henning of West Rockford, Elgin district champ. Meanwhile, Roger Ackerman, whom Greer had beaten twice, took care of Ziegler in the finals.

HARRIS unable to get away in the final period, lost a 1-0 battle to Frank Rechar of Leyden in the semi-finals. Harris came back to tip Dick Ulrich of Fenton by the same 1-0 score in the third place match while Rechar went on to win the title.

Krause provided Prospect with a surprise state entry. Joe Ortiz gave Coach Dick Mudge his second entrant, but Heavyweight Darryl Phillips once again became the victim of West Maine's Bill Spyrison. Phillips scored a second period escape but before he could gain his balance Spyrison was on top of him for a pin in 3:08. Phillips retaliated by pinning East Leyden's Bob Kruse in 1:16 but this did not give him a state berth.

Ortiz nearly scored an upset in the championship match at 103 when he got two first period takedowns to take a 4-1 lead over Leyden's Sal Fuscone. A second period near-fall tied the match and Fuscone won on a last period escape.

FENTON'S lone entry, Ulrich, scored a first round 4-1 upset of Robin Bosworth of DeKalb, the Elgin district champ. However, Ulrich then fell to Bob Eaton of Maine Township, 2-1, when he couldn't muster enough strength to escape in the final period. Ulrich lost his last match to Harris, 1-0.

Leyden's champions in addition to Fuscone, Owens and Rechar were Bob Foster at 95 pounds, undefeated Larry Barron at 127, Nason Monroe at 165, and Joe Milek at 180.

ONE OF Saturday's outstanding matches was when freshman George McCreery rallied from a 6-2 second period deficit to beat Ron Werlein of York, 9-7. To be blunt, McCreery never quit and it paid off.

Leyden was almost able to put a ninth man in the state meet but a decision by Referee Dewey Douglas prevented that. Kruse escaped in heavyweight match against Elgin's Dave Russell in the overtime period but Douglas would not make the call though Kruse's position showed clearly that Russell did not have control. Russell won, 1-0.

All three wrestlers gained runnerup slots in last weekend's sectional tourney in DeKalb.

Prospect JV's Fall to Tigers

Prospect's JVs jumped off to an early lead but couldn't hold it last Saturday morning and they fell to Wheaton's Tigers, 59-45.

Coach Bob Hoese's Knights led 20-13 at the end of one period, but fell behind 34-30 at halftime.

Ken Anderson collected 12 points for Prospect.

Prospect's Sophs Split Two Games

It took a last second 15-foot jump shot by Dennis Mitchell Saturday night against Emwood Park to give Prospect's frosh-soph basketball team an even split for the weekend.

Mitchell hit his shot just as the final buzzer sounded for a 30-28 little Knight victory that boosted their season record to 14-6.

Friday night the youngsters dropped their second straight interim association game 54-37 at Wheaton to wind up conference competition with an 8-2 record.

SATURDAY'S game was another come-from-behind effort by the Knights.

Down 14-10 after a low-scoring, poorly-played first half, Coach Ted Wissen's squad closed the gap to 22-20 at the end of the third quarter, and then outscored the Tigers 10-6 in the final period for the win.

George Gaiser was high man for the Prospect team with 11 points. Pete Tingberg and Joe Ciangio led Elmwood Park with eight apiece.

FRIDAY'S GAME at Wheaton was an entirely different story.

The Interim association Tigers walked away with this one on some phenomenal shooting by Al Lang, Jim Klatt, and Paul Koenig. Lang gave indications of great things to come in his varsity days with a 17-point performance coupled with some solid floor play.

The little Knights, who cinched the association title three weeks ago, had a very bad night.

They were down 12-7 at the end of the first period, 27-18 at halftime, and 40-28 at the three-quarter mark. The only bright spot was Tommy Thomas' 18-point performance, high for the game.

Knights Share Loop Title; Dump Wheaton

By TOM McSHANE

Prospect high school's basketball team captured the co-championship of the Interim association last Friday night with a convincing 68-57 win over Wheaton.

Coach Dick Kinneman's Knights will share the crown with East Leyden, 46-40 winner over Proviso West Friday. Both teams have 9-1 records.

The loss dropped Wheaton into a tie for third with Glenbrook at 5-5.

IN KNOCKING off their 18th win in 19 starts this season the Knights had four of their starting five in double figures at the game's end.

One of the big four, big Bill Zadel, went even further, and provided the fans with some lively pre-game entertainment by plastering the center of a glass backboard across the gym floor.

Zadel was warming up with his teammates at the east end of the Wheaton court, and apparently decided to see if he could "dunk" a shot.

AS HE JUMPED he hit the side of the rim a mighty jolt with his hand and tore it right out of the backboard. The board broke with a loud crack and showered chipped glass on the floor.

It took 45 minutes to replace the smashed board with a metal one.

During the intermission the cheerleaders from the two schools entertained the fans with some noisy antics.

When the game finally started, Wheaton stepped off quickly to a 3-1 lead in the first minute only to see it wiped out by a 10-point Prospect burst.

LED BY ZADEL and Fred Lussow, the Knights moved to an 18-12 lead at the end of the quarter.

Another 18-point spurt in the second quarter gave Prospect a 36-23 halftime lead.

The Knights kept right on going after the intermission despite strong bids by Wheaton's John Pfund and Red Hutchinson. George Pomey, Lussow and Zadel led the Prospect attack. Pomey scored 15 points in the last half while Lussow added eight. Zadel, who saddled himself with four fouls early in the game, came off the bench in the third period and hit two baskets and a free throw in 40 seconds to build the Prospect lead to 15 points at 52-37.

The Knights led 54-38 at the three-quarter mark.

IN THE FINAL period Wheaton was able to close the gap slightly as the Tigers outscored the Knights 19-14. But the issue never was in doubt, and Prospect went home with its half of the association's first title.

Pomey led all the scorers with 18 points. He was followed by Lussow and Pfund with 15, Zadel with 14, and Fred Empke with 13.

This Saturday the Knights journey to Libertyville to close out their season before they open against Maryville of Des Paines in the Palatine regional tournament Monday night.

Inspired Tigers Bow to Prospect Quintet, 55-51

By TOM McSHANE

Prospect's basketball Knights had to scramble all the way Saturday night to pull their 19th win of the season out of the fire against an inspired Elmwood Park squad.

The Knights, with only one loss on their record and the co-championship of the Interim association in their pockets, almost dropped this one to a team that came into Saturday's contest with a 4-14 record.

It took a tight last quarter defense and some heady floor play by the Prospect starting five to stave off the hungry Tigers 55-51.

ELMWOOD PARK with Bob Pfister and Tom Bednarz leading the way, had played the Knights to a standstill in the first three quarters.

Down 16-12 at the end of the first period, the Tigers had come back in the second to take a 28-26 halftime lead.

Coach Dick Kinneman's Knights were having trouble finding the hoop.

Luckily for Prospect, Keith Grams found the range in the opening minutes of the third quarter, and rammed home three baskets to give his team a 32-30 lead.

BUT IT WAS short-lived. During the remainder of the period the lead changed hands seven times with Prospect coming out on top, 41-40, at the buzzer.

Pfister moved Elmwood Park ahead 42-41 with 6:46 left in the game after both teams threw up strong defenses for more than a minute.

George Pomey put Prospect back in front a few seconds later, and then hit again to cushion the lead at 45-42 with 5:20 left on the clock. Elmwood Park called a time out immediately, and Pfister came back with a fast break layup to make it 45-44 with 4:35 left.

It took a driving layup and free throw by Grams to clear the air for Prospect and set up a last-minute spurt that gave the Knights their victory.

BASKETS BY Fred Lussow and Bill Zadel gave Prospect a 52-47 lead with 1:25 remaining, and, though they tried desperately in the final minute, time simply ran out on Coach Jim Smith's Tigers.

Pomey for the second night in a row canned seven baskets and four free throws to lead the Knights with 18. Grams had 13 and Zadel got 12.

Pfister led all scorers with 21 points, most of which came on a patented left-hand jump shot. Bednarz had 17 for the losers.

The game was the last home contest for the Knights this season. Saturday they will play their last scheduled game at Libertyville.

JUST DOGS

by DAVE TERRILL

This somewhat new winter sport that combines skiing and racing sled dogs and which is taking hold in a number of states came to light in Alaska.

The new sport requires plenty of expert ski technique, a good sense of timing and balance and an ability to handle and drive sled dogs. As to equipment, all the "skijorer" needs is a pair of skis, a stout binding that keeps heels on the skis and ordinary sled dog racing harnesses, plus, of course, the dogs.

Those who have indulged in the new sport in Anchorage say that it has one distinct advantage: it can be done on flat and wide open terrain where even rank amateurs and children can ski behind the dogs with little chance of injury. However, remaining on one's feet is another thing, especially when the dogs lurch forward on the start. After that—and if you are still on your feet—it's clear skiing.

Westminster Films

A comprehensive motion picture of the 1960 Westminster dog show held at Madison Square Garden in New York City has been produced under the direction of the Gaines Dog Research center, which is now making the film available for showing at meetings of dog clubs and related groups, it is announced.

Prints of the film will be ready for distribution to clubs about March 15. Titled "Westminster 1960," it will run for about 45 minutes, will be in 16 mm size and have sound. There will be no rental for the film, but clubs showing it will be expected to pay the usual 2-way shipping charges.

Club secretaries and program chairmen desiring to schedule the film at one of their club's meetings should contact the Gaines Dog Research Center, 250 Park ave., New York, N.Y., giving alternate dates on which they would prefer to have the picture shown to their group.

International Show

Speaking of shows brings to mind that the International Kennel club show to be held at the International Amphitheatre in Chicago April 9 and 10 will offer $5000 in cash prizes. This plus over 1000 trophies will bring about a rather large entry.

Entries will close March 22 and requests for entry blanks should be addressed to the International Kennel Club, 840 Exchange ave., Chicago 9, Ill.

A UNANIMOUS selection on the interim association's all-star basketball team, East Leyden's Jim Rodgers collected 429 points in 20 games and recorded an amazing 81 per cent average from the charity line. Only a junior, Rodgers stands 6-2 and weighs 170.

Arlington's Frosh-Soph Five Dumps Maine, 43-34

Arlington's starters 33, Maine East 14.

Arlington's reserves 10, Maine East 20.

That's the story of two different "games" last Friday evening in the frosh-soph encounter at Arlington.

Coach Ken Schaller's first-string aggregation rolled along with ease in the initial two periods piling up a comfortable 33-14 halftime lead over the Maine squad.

THE RESERVES took over in the final half, and the visitors had the best of things, closing the gap to its eventual nine points 43-34.

Arlington could collect only two baskets in the final half, one each by John Burgermeister and Scott Randle.

Effective free throw shooting by Rusty Blix and Gary Brodnan sparked the improving Cards in the first 14 minutes with the duo combing to send home 13 of 15 from the charity line.

Blix hit on eight of nine and wound up with 12 points, and Brodnan hit on five of six and collected nine markers. Don Kolstad also chipped in with nine points in the first half.

Mid-Teen Baseball Loop Faces Reorganizing Job

The Northwest Mid-Teen Baseball League faces the job of reorganizing for the 1960 season with tightened eligibility rules and only the four Des Plaines teams as a solid nucleus.

Directors were told last week that the Rosemont and Edison Park American Legion entries are definitely dropping out of the eight team league for 15, 16 and 17-year-olds.

League President Jake Schafer sad Rosemont cannot muster enough players. Rosemont forfeited several games in 1959 because it couldn't round up a full team.

TREASURER Lou Hansen said the American Legion is withdrawing its sponsorship of one Edison Park Md-Teen team to concentrate on baseball in lower age groups. Hansen indicated the Edison Park Atlanta team also may not be back.

A Norridge official said that community may enter both its teams in another league, instead of putting one in Mid-Teen.

Mid-Teen officials have contacted other communities near Des Plaines for possible entries to round out at least an eight-team league.

PARK RIDGE officials have indicated interest. Park Ridge had four teams in a Prep League for 15 and 16 year olds last year.

Mid-teen officials said other possible new entries are Prospect Heights and Maryville.

Directors set a deadline for applications as March 16 and plan to set up the league on that date. Applications may be mailed to Secretary William Connolly, 1855 Linden, Des Plaines, Ill.

Eligibility rules for Mid-Teen were tightened to exclude boys who no longer live in their team's sponsoring community and boys who play in any other organized summer baseball program.

Cards' Soph Gymnasts Fall To New Trier

New Trier's frosh-soph gymnasts won four events last Friday evening in recording a 71-61 victory over a previously unbeaten Arlington unit.

The Cardinals were able to collect individual firsts on the side horse and rings thanks to Bill Berg and Jerry Russell.

Summary:

Jeziorski Goes To State As Waukegan Wins Sectional

Pete Jeziorski was the lone Lake Park wrestler to survive competition in the Waukegan sectional wrestling tournament won by the host school when Ott Bay's team placed seven men, including his two sons, in the state meet.

Jeziorski finished second to Ward of Evanston in the 138-pound championship match.

COACH GENE Swierczewski lost two Lancers in tough semi-final matches and a fourth in last Thursday's first round competition. All told, Lake Park had a 4-4 record in one of the toughest sectional tournaments in the state.

Jeziorski is only one of four boys from the Barrington sectional who will be making the trip to Champaign. Glenbrook, Barrington champion which placed 12 in the sectional, got only two through to the state, and Crystal Lake had the other in outstanding Ron Paar.

Waukegan's numbers overcame Evanston's few exceptional matmen to clinch the team title. The Bulldogs, paced by defending state champion Rick Bay, took four championships and three runner-up spots.

EVANSTON WON three titles, with the only three boys they had in the finals, and looked good doing it. Niles had just one champion but three second place finishers gave it second place over Evanston by one point, 51-50.

Ward continuously controlled Jeziorski throughout the championship match to win, 6-1. Jeziorski advanced to the finals with a 4-2 win over Hecht of New Trier in the semis. Jeziorski had the upper hand throughout although Hecht nearly scored a reversal near the end to send the match into overtime. Jeziorski took an easy 8-4 win over Wright in first round competition.

Doug Nerge lost a tough 3-1 semi-final match to Miresse of Niles. Miresse scored a first period takedown but Nerge closed the gap on a second period reversal. Miresse got his final point by escaping in the last period. Nerge advanced out of the first round with a 6-1 triumph over Theo Cox of Zion-Benton.

LANCER CHUCK Zimmerman gave a good accounting at 112. He lost to Fung of Niles, sectional champion, 4-2, in the semi-finals, completely overpowered by Fung's immense strength. Zimmerman showed his ability to compete with a 5:05 pin of Bierfeld of Highland Park in the first round.

Lake Park's fourth man, Don Immeukus lost a 4-0 first round decision to Rubel of New Trier.

95 — Bettinger (Evanston) beat Prentice (New Trier), 3-1.

Final Basketball Doubleheader at Stadium Saturday

Four of basketball's outstanding veteran coaches will parade their wares in the last of four Chicago Stadium college basketball doubleheaders Saturday night (Feb. 27).

Ken Norton, who has never had a losing season in his 14 previous years at Manhattan, may need a victory over Loyola to maintain that record. The Jaspers were at .500 with a 9-9 record through last Saturday.

George Ireland, in his ninth season at Loyola, was 8-9 for the year and 105-102 for his tenure as head man of the Ramblers.

THE SECOND game will bring together Coach Johnny Jordan's Notre Dame quintet against Coach Bernard (Peck) Hickman's Louisville unit.

The Fighting Irish, 14-7 through last Tuesday's game with Butler, and Louisville, 12-8 through last Saturday, are both hopeful of tournament bids.

Four of Notre Dame's last seven teams played in the NCAA, with Jordan now in his ninth year with a record of victory in about two-thirds of all games.

HICKMAN, WHO has averaged 20 victories a year at Louisville since 1944, has a .750 winning percentage. He has put the Cardinals in eight post-seasonal tournaments, winning the NAIB in 1948, the NIT in 1956, and going to the semi-finals of the NCAA last year in Cinderella fashion.

It was a comparatively green Louisville unit that lost seven of its first 12 starts, then exploded to win 11 of the last 14 in the regular season to get a tournament bid. After downing Eastern Kentucky, 77-63, the Cardinals tipped the rankings upside down with a 76-61 win over Kentucky and an 88-81 victory over Michigan State, the Southeastern and Big Ten champions, respectively, at McGaw Hall, Evanston. The Cardinals, with six straight and 10 out of 11 at that point, then lost to West Virginia, 94-79, at Louisville.

Louisville leads Notre Dame 5-4, in their all-time series. The Irish would like to even this score, make a tournament bid, and wipe out the memory of Stadium losses to Bradley and Illinois by winning Saturday.

IT WILL be the last Chicago appearance for Emmett McCarthy, former Mt. Carmel star; Capt. Mike Graney of Hammond, Don McGann, from Joliet Catholic, and Mike Bekelja of Harrisburg, Pa.

Manhattan, which was the Metropolitan New York champion last year, has six lettermen back headed by Bob Mealy, all-Metropolitan choice and leading scorer with a 20-point average. The Jaspers got national attention recently when Charley Koenig, a senior, became embroiled with Tom Sanders of NYU, touching off a Madison Square Garden free-for-all in which fans and players participated. NYU won, 75-54.

The Jaspers have scored recent victories over Syracuse and Canisius and had games remaining with Army, CCNY, and St. John's prior to their Stadium engagement.

Bork Nears Crown

Arlington's George Bork held on to his eight-point lead in the West Suburban point derby last weekend and is one game away from becoming the Cardinals' second conference scoring champion.

All three of the league's top scorers sent home 22 points in their respective tests last Friday evening. Bork hit that figure in the Cards' win over Maine East, Riessen collected 22 in the massacre of Riverside, and Miller netted 10 baskets and a brace of free throws against Glenbard.

Arlington has had only one scoring champ since entering the loop in 1951. Tom Jacobsen topped the 1956-57 figures with a 19.1 per game average.

Bork and Miller will match talents in the same game Friday while Riessen tests the York defense.

Arlington's Bob Inman ranks seventh in league scoring with 190 points for a 14.6 per game average.

New Trier became the seventh straight victim of Arlington's powerful varsity gymnastics team last Friday evening.

Coach Gay Hughes, unbeaten cardinals won five of six events and registered shutouts on the Trampoline and in tumbling in piling up a convincing 81½-46½ victory over New Trier.

The hosts' only triumph was on the horizontal bar where they gained a first, third, and fifth.

Wildcats To Host Prospect

Prospect's once - beaten Knights will tackle one of their roughest opponents of the season Saturday evening when they invade Libertyville to test Ken Greene's Wildcats.

Coach Dick Kinneman's outfit is seeded No. 1 in the Palatine regional. Green's North Suburban entry is seeded No. 2 in its own regional.

Although both clubs will be looking toward next week's tournaments, they can't overlook this key non-league clash Saturday.

PROSPECT WILL carry a 19-1 record into the affair with Libertyville 12-8. However, the Wildcats boast two impressive victories over a Barrington five which is highly-regarded in area cage circles.

Center Jamie Hill, leading scorer in the North Suburban conference, is a key figure in the Libertyville attack. Hill has 27 markers in 13 league outings and is only a junior.

Senior Warren Nicholas, a 5-10 guard, has 172 points in league action and Senior Warren Kellogg has 141.

THREE SOPHS figure prominently in the Cats' attack. One is 6-4 Dick Weber who last weekend in two games hit his season high of 28 points, netting 15 against Woodstock and 13 against St. Charles.

The other second year performers are John Marling and Doug Reed. Marling is an outstanding dribbler who teams with Reed to give Libertyville strength at both forward and guard.

Dons Top Joliet Catholic, Fenton In Cage Action

by DAVE SCHLAVER

It looked like the race was over in the Catholic Suburban league. Joliet Catholic led with 6-2. Notre Dame was 5-4. But last Friday at Notre Dame, the Hilltoppers met a team that wasn't ready to let them have the first championship in the league. The Dons toppled Joliet 57-56, ending up with a 6-4 conference record.

Next Friday it's up to St. Procopius, 5-4, to beat the Hilltoppers at Joliet. In this case there would be a three way tie for first place. If Joliet wins, they will take the crown and Notre Dame will be second.

Fenton of Bensenville was the final Don victim of the season, as Notre Dame rolled up their greatest margin of victory Saturday, 84-59. Previous high had been 18 points over Lake Park.

THE DONS meet the "Faculty Five" tonight in the annual faculty-varsity game. Proceeds go to the Holy Cross Foreign Missions. It is open to the public at 7:45 p.m. There will be a sock hop following the game.

Next Monday the Dons meet Elmwood Park in the East Leyden sectional of the state tournament.

The victory over Joliet Catholic was the first by the Dons in two years of competition. Earlier this season J.C. had beaten the Dons 70-62.

Joliet pulled to an early 9-3 lead, but only led 16-15 at the quarter. The Hilltoppers dropped ten free throws in the second period along with six baskets and moved ahead, 38-31 at halftime.

EACH TEAM scored ten points in the third and Joliet maintained the same margin. In the fourth quarter, Notre Dame still trailed 52-45. Two baskets made the score 52-49. Bob Hammarley's field goal cut the lead to one point.

After the Dons missed three chances to tie it up on a free throw, John Schramm sunk a ten foot jump shot and Joliet trailed. Tom Jurkovich gave J.C. a temporary lead, but Schramm repeated his feat and Notre Dame still led, 55-54.

Schramm sunk another basket for Notre Dame and made the score 57-54. Bob Popek scored the final two points for the Hilltoppers with one minute remaining.

AT FENTON the following night, the Dons led all the way, increasing their margin at each quarter. Three field goals by Bob Goldberg helped them jump to an 18-12 quarter lead. He dropped in three more in the second quarter as the Dons moved ahead, 40-27.

This victory gave the Dons a 16-6 record for the season, a great improvement over last year's 12-14 showing. They beat six teams for the first time--Taft, St. Procopius, Joliet Catholic, Warren, North Chicago, and Sullivan. Notre Dame scored 1415 points to its opponents' 1326.

John Schramm led the Dons in scoring, with 354 points. Bob Bachmann scored 332 Bob Hammarley, 261; Bob Goldberg, 202.

Injuries Plague Hawks

The Chicago Black Hawks aren't scheduled to play again until next Saturday afternoon when they take on the Boston Bruins in nationally televised game, but they welcomed the layoffs in order to take care of the aches and pains picked up in the past week of hectic hockey.

The ailing regulars are Stan Mikita, Al Arbour and Kenny Wharram. Mikita has a broken left hand, Arbour is hobbling around on a bruised ankle and Wharram has a fractured jaw. Mikita and Arbour will participate in practice today on Stadium ice, but Wharram will be sidelined for several weeks.

ED LITZENBERGER, idled since January 17 because of his auto accident, skated with the team today and will continue to do so daily. The big right winger felt a bit shaky at first, but hopes to be ready for the Hawks run to the wire about the middle of next month.

"If we can get Litz back and the rest of the boys stay sound of limb we should make a playoff spot," declared coach Rudy Pilous. "There's nothing wrong with this club when the whole team is together. We'll give any of the clubs a battle."

The Hawks' brass have fingered Detroit as the team which the Hawks must beat out to make the playoffs.

"We play them here next Sunday night," said Pilous, "and again on December 13, our last home game of the season, and we've got to win both."

7 Million People Predicted For Metropolitan Chicago

Population seven million—for the Chicago-Indiana metropolitan area of 1960 — has been predicted by the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission.

The population figures were published by the Commission this week in a report, titled "Population Preview", that portrays where, how much and how fast the Chicago area grew during the "fabulous fifities." The study presents advance predictions of figures to be released next fall by the Census Bureau and provides information by counties, municipalities and townships.

CURRENT RATE of population growth in the eight county metropolitan area is greater than that of the entire nation, the NIMAPC report shows. If the present growth rate continues, the report claims, the area population could reach the eleven million mark by 1980.

(The Chicago-Indiana area covers Cook and five abutting counties plus the Indiana counties of Lake and Porter.)

Population of the Chicago Standard Metropolitan Area, at the 1950 census, was around 5½ million. About 165,000 of the 1½ million people added between 1950 and 1960 live in the Indiana counties.

THE NEW NIMAPC report shows that population growth in the decade of the fifties occured largely in areas outside the City of Chicago. Since the 1950 census, Chicago has received only 13 per cent of the population increase in the eight county area in contrast to 32 per cent for the previous decade.

Population growth has been rapid in the northern and southern part of suburban Cook County and in DuPage County, the report indicates. Populations in each of these areas has doubled between the 1950 and the 1960 census.

A strong tendency for population increase to occur in or near older commuting municipalities is also pointed out in the NIMAPC study. More than half of the net increase in the entire eight county area occurred in cities and villages in which there is a high degree of commutation with Chicago.

MORE THAN 700 copies of the report — prepared by W. Raymond Mills, chief of the NIMAPC Research Division—are being mailed to municipalities, counties and other governmental units of the area, as well as to public libraries, high schools and colleges.

The Commission was created by the Illinois State Legislature in 1957 to provide research staff and advice to legislators and others concerned with the orderly development of the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan area. Executive director of the agency is Paul Oppermann. Commission president is Chester R. Davis, Senior vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust Company.

Telephone Pioneer Retires from Bell

JOSEPH MALLEY

A man who played a part in bringing telephone service to Tribune Tower when it was built, retired this month after 37 years' service with Illinois Bell Telephone Company.

He is Joseph F. Malley, 16 S. I-Oka, Mt. Prospect. Malley started his telephone career with Western Electric Company and joined Illinois Bell in 1923. He became expert in the installation of private switchboards. Besides, Tribune Tower, Malley helped equip the Wrigley Building, Union station, the London Guarantee Building, First National Bank of Chicago and other buildings.

HE REMEMBERS the Tribune building in particular, however, because of the days when he and other installers climbed stairs to the 17th and 18th floors before elevators were installed.

Malley also recalls working on switchboards in the old Daily News building at Wells and Madison Streets in the days when there were still wooden sidewalks.

A bowling fan, Malley will continue to bowl with three different league teams. A fishing trip to the north tops his travel schedule for next summer.

MALLEY makes his home with a daughter, Mrs. Marilyn Kaiser, in Mt. Prospect.

A son, John, 328 N. Maple, Oak Park, works in the display section of the Illinois Bell public relations department. He has two other daughters, Mrs. Patricia Fagiano, 1112 N. Leclaire; and Mrs. Helen Rodgers, Sarasota, Fla.

Eagle Food Centers Set To Open in Suburb Areas

Eagle Food Center's expansion plans will become a reality in the next 90 days with a series of store openings in the Chicago suburban area.

The first of the new supermarkets will open March 1 at the Crossroads Shopping Center, Highand Park, according to Richard Waxenberg, president of Eagle. Two others will open shortly thereafter in Elmhurst and Rolling Meadows.

Eagle Food Centers, a 30 store chain in eastern Iowa and western Illinois, moved into the Chicago market for the first time in the fall of 1958 when Eagle stores were opened in Glenview and at 6009 N. Broadway, Chicago.

THE NEW Eagle Food Centers will be similar to the established Chicago and Glenview markets in that they will be of modern design, with colorful pastel interior decor.

The Elmhurst Eagle Food Center, on St. Charles rd., Elmhurst, will open during April, and will be Eagle's first venture into Chicago's western suburbs. The design of this market is flat roofed, with two roof levels. The service area will have a lower roof, with the shopping area having the higher roof.

A wide expanse of floor to ceiling glass will characterize the front of the building.

The Rolling Meadows Eagle Food Center, opening early in the spring, will be characterized by a hipline roof, with sweeping eaves extending over the entire facade, according to Sidney H. Morris, achitect. The roof will be 25 feet high at its center peak, and will drop to 14 feet at the sides. This market will occupy 22,500 square feet.

THE THREE new markets will follow the all-in-one merchandising pattern of the existing markets, and will be complete one-stop food shopping centers featuring wide selections of meats, produce, a Heinemann's bakery section, frozen foods, and many food and nonfood household items.

Each of the new Eagle Food Centers will merchandise produce and meats as their outstanding items. Shoppers will enter the markets through the produce department, which will feature approximately 100 feet of counters filled with produce displayed over cracked ice. Eagle's "Valu-Fresh" prduce has always been one of the chain's outstanding features in all its 30 existing locations.

Another of the attractions in the new Eagle Food Centers in Highland Park, Elmhurst and Rolling Meadows wil be the "Valu-Trim" meat department, scheduled to occupy more than 125 feet in all of the new markets. Two grades of beef will be displayed and sold on a self-service basis. The "Budget Beef" counter and the "U.S.D.A. Choice" counter will be supplemented by meat cutters in the meat service area throughout the day to cut meat to customers' individual orders.

THE NEW markets will give King Korn stamps with all purchases, and there will be a King Korn redemption center located in each market. Eagle has been giving King Korn gift stamps in its Iowa and western Illinois locations for the past eight years, and began the stamp program in Chicago locations last May.

Last August, the company for the first time offered shares of its common stock to the public. 188,500 shares were offered, and proceeds from this financing are being used to reduce debt and to add to working capital to finance expansion. (BB

St. Paul Federal says...

"Let's look behind the building program"

Building Report No. 16 to shareholders and friends

While chatting with our building contractor the other day, he said, "you know, a new building like St. Paul Federal's is somewhat like an iceberg. There's a lot below the surface."

Naturally, we snapped to attention. He went on. "Right now, a great deal of material and equipment are being custom-made in many different places. Some will come from far away, too."

Now, he'd really stimulated our nose for news. "Go on," we urged. "What places, what equipment?"

Granite From Sweden

"Your granite," he said. "It's being manufactured in Sweden. And it has to be cut to fit within 1/16th of an inch. That's what I meant by custom-made."

He continued. "Your stone trim will come from Bedford, Indiana, some windows from San Francisco, door frames and metal doors from St. Louis. He paused a moment. "Yes, and there will be brick from Ohio, marble from the Ozarks, and mechanical equipment from all over the country. That's just a rough idea."

Every Item Built to Fit

"How can you be sure all of these items will fit?" we inquired. "Especially when they come from so many different sources."

The contractor grinned. "Everything must fit perfectly," he emphasized. "To do this, shop drawings go back and forth between architect and manufacturer. Often, suppliers must work together when their products come into contact with each other in the building."

He gestured with his hands. "Take stone and metal. When they come together, all cutouts, checkouts and holes must match."

New Convenience for You

He'd convinced us. St. Paul Federal's new addition will be a custom-built structure. What's even more important—it's designed to bring you and your family a new type of savings convenience and service.

We invite you to keep tabs on our building progress. Watch for the regular building reports in your local newspaper.

It's your building . . . watch it grow!

Foreigners Headline Shrine Circus From March 2 to 20

The most colorful and sparkling circus ever to be assembled under one roof is in the offing for Chicago at this year's 18th annual Medinah Shrine Circus scheduled for March 2-20, it was announced today by Harry O. Kjellberg, Potentate, and Arthur P. Boller, general chairman of the Shrine Circus committee.

The big show in its 19 day run to be presented at Medinah Shrine Temple, 600 N. Wabash Ave., will present performing circus ambassadors from around the world including trained Alaskan Huskies and Malemutes from the 49th state, making their circus debut.

INCLUDED ON THE huge bill of events are such headliners of the big tops as Pat Anthony, known among competing wild animal trainers as the "untamed trainer." Anthony appears in a single cage with 13 jungle bred lions and tigers.

Jeannine Pivoteau, Paris born, blond and beautiful, is the toast of aerialist stars in her native France.

From Greece, comes Johnny Joanides, said to be the greatest combination of slack wire artist and juggler to be featured in this country. His wife, Vanda, who assists him in the act, was born in Italy.

GERMANY'S GIFT to the American circus scene are the Five Fredonias. Their form of artistry known as Risley, is the foot juggling of human beings. Their antics have never been duplicated.

The Rebertes, an act on the European scene of circusdom for many generations, are featured in amazing acrobatic feats, featuring the startling hoop jump originated by their grandfather. They were originally brought to this country for the Ed Sullivan show.

A reverse among artists from foreign countries is Jacqueline Hurley, an American artist from Boston, who won fame in Europe. Her agility, timing and precision in acrobatic performance is generally attended by performers from behind the scenes.

THE FAMED Flying Alexanders, paramount on the flying trapeze, have won applause of audiences on both sides of both oceans. Fay Alexander is the only contemporary flyer doing the triple somersault.

Mexico's contribution features Senor Cardona in his breathtaking cloud swing. This Latin daredevil performs on a simple, single rope without safety devices.

The Golden Kids, Yvonne, 9, Rene, 7, Naida, 5, and Desiree, 4, are the offspring of Johnny and Vanda Joanides, slack wire and juggling artists mentioned earlier. These talented youngsters born to the circus, ride unicycles with greater ease than most kids ride a two-wheel bike. (BB

John Lazor Attends Pump Company Meet

John Lazor Jr. of The LaZor Co., Arlington Heights, returned recently from Berkeley, Cal. where he attended a three day meeting of dealers of the Berkely Pump Co. Lazor reports that a wide variety of informative talks were given by Berkeley Pump personnel. The dealers were thus able to learn of new developments, obtain more information on products used extensively in their own area, and to exchange information with dealers from other areas concerning problems characteristic to their own locale.

Lazor feels that the attendance at this convention has been a rewarding experience in that he is better able to serve his customers by the proper selection, application, and servicing of Berkeley Pump equipment.

Reduce Interest Rates: Senator

Speaking Sunday at a coffee hour reception held at Blackhawk school in Schaumburg Township, Senator Paul H. Douglas this week urged that every legitimate effort be made to reduce interest rates.

Senator Paul H. Douglas this week urged that every legitimate effort be made to reduce interest rates.

"Basic interest rates today are approximately 2 percentage points higher than they were in 1952," he pointed out. "This is an actual increase of from 50 to 100 percent. Each extra one per cent in interest increases by about $3500 the total payments which a family must pay for a $15,000 mortgage running for 30 years. The increase of 2 per cent is therefore costing the average home owner about $7000 more than in the last year of the Truman administration. This means that the interest payments of new home owners have been increased by almost $20 a month under the Eisenhower administration. The administration and the Federal Reserve in fact have worked together to increase these interest rates."

THE SENIOR senator from Illinois made his comments at a series of coffee hours in the suburbs.

Douglas said that "interest rates can and should be reduced and that this can be done without inflation."

Declaring that present high interest rates are badly hurting the small home owners, he said they were also holding back home building, small business and state and local improvements.

"They have thus helped to slow down our rate of growth, which has been unnecessarily slow during these last seven years, and have increased unemployment," he said.

Hints To Home Owners

James Fizzell

Assistant Farm Advisor

After the dark dreary days this winter some fresh flowers in the home are a cheery sight. Many of the spring flowers can easily be forced indoors before they bloom naturally outside.

Forsythia, pussy willow, redbud, and cornelian cherry are some of the earliest blooming spring shrubs. Since the flower buds are already formed, these branches can be cut and placed in water in the home. In a few days, the buds will swell and burst into bloom.

Remember, if you cut all the buds off your shrubs, they will not bloom this year; so cut sparingly. Other spring flowering shrubs than the above can be forced in the home. Experiment with the shrubs in your yard and see which ones can be made to bloom by forcing.

IF YOU HAVE any tulip, crocus, hyacinth, or narcissus bulbs which didn't get planted last fall, they can be forced now if they have been precooled by exposure to cold weather all winter. Plant the bulbs in pots; four to six bulbs in each pot. Use a soil mixture of about one-third sand and two-thirds garden loam. Water and drain the pots and set them in a cool (45-50 degrees) dark place in the home where they can form roots and begin to grow. When the shoots come out, move the plants to a warmer, light place but not in direct sunlight. When the shoots turn green set the pots in the south window. Your local florist can supply you with pre-cooled bulbs or, if you wish, plants already in bloom.

While you are at your florist, get your tickets for the World Flower Show, March 20-27, and pick up some assorted flower heads to dress up the green plants in your home. Insert the stems in "water picks" and wire them to the branches and leaves with plant ties. (BB

South Mt. Prospect

Last month's song and game fests proved such a succes in Mt. Prospect that Brownie troops are enjoying them again this month. The learning of new songs and games along with the opportunity to meet the same age scouts from other troops, has made this a popular inter-troop activity.

Highlight of a valentine party enjoyed by troop 464 last week was a 3-foot valentine containing an orignal poem about the scouts, written by the leaders, Mrs. Courtney and Mrs. Erickson.

Palatine

Brownie troop 612 made banks in which they are saving money to go to day camp next summer. Each patrol has given a dramatization of a fairy tale or nursery rhyme with puppets they made themselves. Last week the girls hiked to Deer Grove where they filled one of the small animal feeders of Boy Scout troop 169.

Mrs. Edon Hall and Mrs. Howard C. Hill attended the administrative course held at the Rand Park fieldhouse, Des Plaines.

Modern Etiquette

Q. Is it proper to abbreviate the name of the month on the date line of a business letter?

A. No. Neither the month nor the name of the state of the addressee is abbreviated—even of the states of Mississippi or Pennsylvania. It is considered more polite to write them out.

Q. When a guest in my house persists in telling off-color jokes, what can I do about it?

A. If the absence of any laughter from you is not enough to stop him, then you have a perfect right to take him aside and tell him point-blank that his kind of stories are not acceptable in your household.

Q. When one is eating a steak or roast, or something similar, isn't it all right and more convenient to cut the meat up into several mouthfuls at a time before eating it?

A. It may seem more convenient to get your "cutting-up" all done at the same time—but it certainly is not considered in good form. One should cut off a single bite at a time.

Q. Is it proper for the bridegroom to give his bride something for their home as his special wedding gift to her?

A. This is not customary. His special gift to her should be something for her own personal adornment—usually jewelry of some kind.

The Way We See It

Suburb Police Need Prestige and Reward

Chicago's police scandals have spread to the suburbs by way of Evanston and Skokie, and the state's attorney's office has indicated it is digging for police-hoodlum tieups and instances of shakedowns in other suburban communities.

We come in intimate daily contact with our local law enforcement officers, and have no reason to doubt their integrity.

We do, however, have reason to believe there is room for improvement, both within our area police departments and in the public's attitude toward these departments.

Morale is low among many of our local police officers. They are overworked and underpaid. On call 24 hours a day, patrolmen work an average of 48 hours a week, plus an additional two to four hours a week spent in court.

They are expected to possess the mature judgment, skills, and physical attributes necessary to cope with any emergency. For this their compensation ranges between $4,680 and $6,000 — the latter paid by only one community.

The impossibilty of maintaining a family on such wages has forced many police officers to seek a second job. Some policemen work as much as 30 hours a week in "outside" jobs. These include night watchman, carpenter, taxi-driver, and construction worker.

Such a practice lessens their effectiveness as police officers and divides their loyalty to the community with a second employer.

While the elimination of part-time jobs and an accompanying substantial salary increase is no guarantee of a first class police department, it is a necessary first step.

Any move to give prestige and reward to one of the community's most responsible positions should, of course, be accompanied by a raise in standards in the hiring of men and the weeding out of incompetents.

It should also be accompanied by a tightening in department regulations. It is not uncommon today for area officers to accept small gratuities such as cigarettes for performing services in the line of duty. While this practice may appear harmless, it is against regulations and a step on the road to accepting larger gifts.

Problems accompanying the rapid growth of northwest suburban communities call for the highest type police officer.

The raising of salaries, elimination of part-time jobs, tightening of regulations, and adoption of high standards will all aid in gaining for area police work the type of man the job deserves. It will also aid in gaining what is in the last analysis perhaps the most important need of all — public respect.

Critic Warns Suburban Family Lives Uneasily

A frightening phenomenon is creeping across the American suburban scene as described by A. C. Spectorsky, author of "The Exurbanites."

It is an ailment which Spectorsky calls "Destination Sickness" in a publication of "What's New," a product of Abbott Laboratories, and it is as vivid as next month's mortgage payment coming up on the 1st.

Painting a gloomy picture in what he calls the "synthetic world of synthetic suburbs," Spectorsky probes deftly into the false goals of the transplanted suburban dweller, who mortgages his soul for what he believes he should have in the way of a home, furniture, leisure objects and "do-it-yourself" tools.

The suburban family he talks of is uneasy. They cherish a fond dream that they are living the full life, the kind of existence for which their parents would have given their eyeteeth to live.

But the entire business is unreal, and the suburbanite is chained to it, and it is chained, as Spectorsky ably phrases it, on the premise that "Jones (must) keep his job at any cost, and the cost is measured out in servility, timidity, and a paralyzing fear about job security."

Instead of a "womb-safe home," the suburbanite has hung a millstone around his neck, a home which he terms a "child-dominated matriarchy by day and a co-ed dormitory and breeding ground at night."

Instead of escaping the impending A-Bomb or boredom or simply a meaningless existence, the suburbanite described by Spectorsky is plagued by ailments which have no physical source, maladies such as headaches, depression, anxiety, miscarriage, lumbar pain, sexual frustration and inadequacy, sub-acute alcoholism.

The "too-much-too-soon" existence is predicated on a rootless community, which does not provide employment for its residents. Off they scoot to the city each day, one limb in the metropolis, one in the suburb.

It may very well be that the "slum problems" of cities dating back to the 30's, 40's and 50's may be supplanted by the "pining suburbanite" atmosphere, the reaching for goals which pale away into insignificance when reached.

However, the desire to conform to what house and garden magazines, movies and TV have sold the suburban mind as sheer necessities, and the need to engage in a "rat race" to achieve the palateless ends, are giving doctors an extra strong dose of malladies for which it is almost impossible to prescribe.

Although Spectorsky alleviates the grim picture by pointing up increased employment of residents in suburbs, shopping centers springing up in the suburban community, and abandonment of the city as a sole means of employment, the view is genuinely frightening.

What is the answer? Perhaps this is all symptomatic of a national scene, even a global one. Goals which once appeared so bright have become dimmed and tarnished in our constant shuffling and stepping on each other for creature comforts, tailormade and in the latest fashion, as exemplified by Vogue or General Motors.

Says Spectorsky: "Perhaps . . . (he) will develop an immunity . . ." to these ailments.

However, unless the suburbanite sinks real roots into his suburb, becomes somewhat like our native pioneers and a living, growing part of the community life instead of the hybrid half-city, half-suburban creature he is, it will be difficult to escape frustrations and nostalgic dreams of a hazy never-never land.

How to Look Sharp! Feel Sharp! Be Sharp!

No Room to Breathe?

Churches of America Still Spark Freedom

by MARTIN E. MARTY

When young people discuss religion and organized churches, inevitably the question of personal freedom comes up.

Many of them look from the outside, as it were, at the Church as a suffocating institution which would leave them no room to breathe.

Characteristically, whether they have something to say or not, they want to be sure that they can stay out in the open to say it.

This is an understandable desire, and one that should be nourished in a world in which their elders too often acquiesce into opinion-less silence.

I WONDER how aware the coming generation is of a curious reversal in climate in our nation. Let me hazard a generalization: I think more people have the freedom and take the freedom to speak out in controversial ways within the church than within almost any other national institution.

By this I do not mean the freedom to tear apart the idea-structure at the base of the church, though in many denominations even this is current. Instead, I am speaking of institutional self-criticism or self-purgation; the freedom to attack church policies and many kinds of practices; the liberty to deviate from established social policies.

I speak, of course, as a Protestant, but my associations with varieties of priests and Roman Catholic laymen leads me to believe that there, too, is more variety than many outsiders suspect.

IF WE APPRAISE other institutions we see that this can hardly happen. In governmental life in the post-McCarthy era we still demand loyalty oaths at every turn in the road; any subordinate who would express himself publicly in criticism would be in hot water.

This is at least as true in the military. We note coerced conformity as well in private business and the mass media. Executives and employees of large corporations must be extremely guarded about their criticisms. Meanwhile, the church of the protestant impulse knows it must be self-reforming and that it must listen to the prophets.

Let me illustrate. Last week while no one was looking I sneaked off to Pennsylvania, to speak at Gettysburg college. The theme: the Christian faith and mass media. The school assembled speakers from the realm of motion pictures, journalism, the arts.

To provide theological and ideological bases for discussion a churchman and a sociologist were invited. For the past year, the student body was sending out press releases (I noticed that one even found Paddocks and they picked it up) No one is more public or better organized to publicize than a student committee that lands some outside speakers. Three months ago I already saw posters with our names on them.

THE SOCIOLOGIST didn't show up. A fine critical social analyst (I own and have admired his books), he now works for an advertising agency in New York City. His advance text, released by the college, included some mild criticisms of advertising in the mass media industries. Nothing shattering, just a few powder puffs tossed in the direction of commercialism. It was too much for the monolithic structure of his industry and his employer forbade him to come.

The New York Times, without identifying the man or the firm told the story and included some quotations. Among them was a gross distortion: it said that the man 'found to his horror that the speech would be publicized, that it was not private'. This could not have been true. But it helped bring him back into line.

TO ME IT provided a dramatic contrast. Representing the church, I had great freedom. Of course, I would not be undercutting its basic theology because I would not want to. There are places where I would not be permitted to speak because of a church discipline I have voluntarily accepted. But within that context, anything goes.

My superiors and colleagues did not ask to see my remarks in advance and would not have censored them. The president and chaplain of the college did not sit uneasily wondering what would be said. All of them, as I hope readers of this column, know that many issues that interest me are controversial. But no Big Brother is watching.

To me, it provided dramatic illustration of a neglected point. The freedom to breathe is still cultivated in the churches of America. So, to the students, I could say: better off in the Flood of our times in the sometimes reeking Ark of the church than in the bewildering Dark around it.

The World at Large

Sharper Scrutiny of Press

by WILLIAM DULANEY

No institution in our country is more sensitive to criticism, undergoes less self-appraisal, or is more in need of constant evaluation than the press.

The vast majority of Americans formulate their opinions on both domestic and international issues from what they read in their newspapers and news magazines, and this is generally limited to one newspaper.

For Chicagoans, last week's crises at home were the burglars-in-blue, Jack Paar's return and the Dr. Finch murder trial. Abroad, we held our breath for the prince's arrival and Elvis Presley's discharge.

FROM EDUCATORS, writers, minority group leaders, statesmen, and other critics of the American scene, there has for some time come a little publicized clamor for a sharper scrutiny of the press' role and responsibilities in our society.

Publishers' voices have been notably lacking in this recommendation. These self-appointed guardians of democracy have, in fact, made a fetish of pleading the First Amendment when taken to task for their inadequate, distorted, and often biased presentation of events at home and around the world.

They indignantly note that the press' freedom is specifically guaranteed in the First Amendment to the Constitution. They either ignore or are ignorant of the fact that precisely because of its preferred place under the Bill of Rights, the press is more than just a business to be run at the largest profit possible. A newspaper's first obligation is, of course, to survive. Of almost equal importance is that it recognize its obligation to promote a well-informed public, capable of forming intelligent opinions based on thorough, impartial news coverage.

THIS OBLIGATION is not fulfilled by lurid headlines chronicling boudoir adventures. It is not fulfilled by promoting sex, sensationalism, and conflict. Nor is the obligation fulfilled by newspapers', most of which are big businesses representing large investments, slanting their news column content to favor the political party or government policy that represents vested interests.

As phrased more indelicately by Max Lerner, "He (the publisher) does not need to be corrupted. He is a groveling, lick-spittle servant of the vested interests because their intellectual and moral universe is also his."

Numerous studies have proved that this country does indeed, as charged by Adlai Stevenson, have a one-party press, namely Republican. Perhaps the classic example of this was Time magazine's reference to George E. Allen in 1946 under a Democratic administration: "Last week . . . the President (Truman) eased his croniest crony, George E. Allen, into the Board of Directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation."

IN 1954 under a Republican administration Time noted: "Last week . . . the President (Eisenhower) chatted quietly with . . . golfing companion George E. Allen, Washington lawyer and friend of Presidents."

Newspapers would be remiss if they did not editorialize and exercise leadership through editorials designated as such. It is also important that the reader be taken behind the scenes of a news story and told the whys and wherefores of current events.

But to advance an editorial policy in news columns through slanted writing, through the choice and play of pictures, use of headlines, and by what is or is not printed and where it is located in the paper is to betray a public trust and pervert the First Amendment.

There are only two outstanding newspapers in the United States today — The New York Times and The Christian Science Monitor. There are a handful, maybe five or six, of good ones. None of these is published in Chicago, including "The World's Greatest Newspaper."

IS THERE hope for the future? Lacking an aroused public opinion, very little. And with the tools for arousing such opinion in the hands of those interested in perpetuating the status quo, there is less hope still.

One recommendation that merits consideration is that of Robert Maynard Hutchins, former chancellor of the University of Chicago and the press' hair shirt. He urges the establishing of a foundation, perhaps at a university, to constantly evaluate and widely publicize the role of the American press.

For Brotherhood

Scapegoat Is Not Solution

(The National Conference of Christians and Jews-Chicago region last week conferred one of the 1960 James M. Yard Brotherhood awards upon Willis J. Jensen, 418 S. Lincoln Lane, Arlington Heights.

(The award was presented to Jensen and 14 other citizens for "continuing devotion to the ideals of brotherhood and for outstanding service to neighbors of every color, religion and national origin."

(At the awards ceremony held in Chicago's city council chambers, Jensen, past president of the Opportunity Council, Inc., delivered the response for award recipients. Following is the text of his remarks.)

by WILLIS J. JENSEN

It is with great pleasure and with a sense of gratitude to the National Conference of Christians and Jews that I accept this year's James M. Yard awards for myself and my fellow recipients.

In my own case and perhaps in others, the award has been conferred today not so much as a recognition of one individual's effort, but as a recognition of the accomplishments of many with whom the awardee is associated in one capacity or another.

The basis for these awards rightfully recognizes that the concept of Brotherhood is ineffectual and divorced from reality if it stands separated from practice in the neighborhoods of our community.

BY GRANTING these awards to persons selected from the whole of the community, the National Conference honors those activities of the community that it considers to accord most closely to its concept of brotherhood.

In my own opinion, it is with this understanding that we accept the awards—the understanding that our actions have in some manner contributed to the practice of "brotherhood" by the whole of community.

And yet, I cannot but inquire whether our actions have not, in some degree, also frustrated and delayed a more general realization of the goals of Brotherhood Week.

FOR EXAMPLE, in approaching many of our social problems we tend to alienate much of the community from our efforts by immediately casting each problem in the form of a victim, an easily identified villain, and an all too obvious hero.

In so readily casting some as villains and as the root of the problems, we err in the same respect as those who would lump all people of a religion or racial group in a monolithic mass.

As an example, there is little real difference between those who disparage the Negro by referring to him as illiterate or immoral and those who, without drawing necessary distinctions, place the frustration of his acceptance by the community on the heads of, say, the Italians or the Jews on the west side. When men are too quickly placed in an undeserved position of disrepute, they all too often succumb to the natural tendency to become deserving of their reputation.

THE PRACTICE OF brotherhood is not promoted by needlessly pitting public opinion against a scapegoat that we have saddled with the failures of the entire community.

Considered from a second viewpoint, those of us that are interested in the problems of our community are all too ready to advance our own solution as the only one.

We marshal our recently-acquired knowledge of the problem as it demands our solution, and we accept the aid and counsel of our neighbors only insofar as they coincide with our predetermined concepts. Often the emotionalism of our pleas and protests repels the natural sympathies of the community for those that we seek to aid. Even conceding the extremes of expression now used in our media of mass communication, room remains for temperate private and public utterance.

THESE TWO Factors seem to me to arise in many community efforts to solve racial and religious problems. They have the effect of alienating many of the elements in our community - elements described by Alexander Pope as "not the first by whom the new is tried, nor the last to lay the old aside."

These elements are a part of our community, are equally concerned with brotherhood, and have much to offer us. When we fall into excess, we often force many of those that would be disposed to help us into a negative, defensive denial of a problem or a denial of its relevance to them.

If we can avoid these, our own errors and excesses, then we will have made a contribution to the concept of brotherhood signified by the James M. Yard award.

Hoffman Community Center Building Issue Clarified

There have been a number of unanswered questions regarding the Community Center building proposed for Hoffman Estates. The Community Council and the Women's club's interest in a contest, among other related subjects.

As chairman of the Hoffman Estates Community Council, I feel I have enough facts to answer many of these questions. I do not presume to speak for the council in this letter — only for myself.

To start at the beginning, the Women's club instigated the formation of a Community Council as a project for competition in a nation-wide contest. At the organizational meeting, May 21, 1959, representatives of various local organizations selected the project - the erection of a community center building to replace the burned-out barn; and selected officers —a chairman and a steering committee.

THE steering committee started to try to solve the problems involved in this project. It was agreed that planners and architects had to be contacted. The council of course had no money, only the promise of the Home Owners association that the proceeds of the fire insurance on the barn would be used for this construction. The exact amount was then still unknown. We began a schedule of regular meetings held in the fire house annex. Incidentally I should like to express my gratitude to the fire district for allowing us the use of the annex. We had been given $25 by the Women's club for use for postage and incidentals. This was the total extent of our funds. More than half this amount was used one night for school room rental when the annex became unavailable.

Subsequent meetings were held in homes and garages.

The steering committee did not determine the needs of the community. The various organizations represented in the Council did that themselves by completing a questionnaire asking about their needs. We consolidated this information and found that five organizations required a stage; three required some food preparation area; all required small meeting rooms; obviously sanitary facilities were a necessity.

There were other requests - storage lockers, a music room, a fireplace, adult athletic facilities, etc.

WE ASKED for help in releases which all the newspapers published. We specifically asked for planners, architects and contractors and did get some response. We interviewed (and in some cases re-interviewed) representatives of seven architectural firms over the period of several months.

After the insurance settlement was made, we were able to tell the architects the Home Owners association had about $34,000 available. At that time, we asked what could be built for that amount. Several specific oral proposals were made.

During these interviews, I had some highly rated and very high priced advisors. Through personal contacts, I had all our actions and decisions reviewed by an attorney and a very highly rated architect, neither of them local people. Since they were not retained for this advice, their names cannot be divulged. Their advice was invaluable.

We also had the AIA's handbook as well as other advisory literature regarding architects, engineers and contractors. The steering committee narrowed their choice to two architects and asked them if it was possible for us to have a rough sketch of their ideas. The monetary limitations made it necessary for us to use the old barn slab.

WE EXAMINED the two sets of drawings, and from these as well as inquiries to previous accounts and a Dunn and Bradstreet report donated by my employer, selected the firm of Ralph H. Burke, Inc. for recommendation.

The plan was to build a community center building on the old slab, after some repairs to the concrete. This building would cover the full width of the slab and as much of its length as possible within the financial limits. The exterior was to be plain cinder block, with allowances for the addition of a brick facing when funds became available. The floor was to be the slab as it now is - rough. Capping of the slab and flooring was also left for the future. There was to be no interior insulation or decoration and a minimum of sanitary facilities. The building was to be designed so as to be expandable.

We felt this was the best that could be done with the funds available and that at some future date the rest of the work might be undertaken with funds raised by popular subscription or some other means. In the meantime, we would have had a building, which incidentally we still do not have at present.

IT WAS HOPED that the Women's club might win a prize in the Achievements Contest. The first prize is $10,000 and the club had agreed to add any prize money gained to the Home Owners association building fund. This could have been the beginning of the expansion and completion fund.

Then came incorporation. The insurance money was turned over to the village. The steering committee turned its records and recommendations over to the village authorities.

Incidentaly, all the foregoing has appeared in the local papers. There were no secrets. Several local organizations borrowed the rough sketches and presented our findings at their meetings.

At present some organizations are conducting fund raising activities to help furnish equipment for the new building. Voluntary cooperation has been excellent.

THROUGHOUT the months of work involved, the Home Owners association was kept informed of progress. They were shown the sketches and informed of our recommendations. Perhaps a larger public attendance at the HEHOA meetings might have eliminated the need for all the questions now being asked.

In justice to Ralph H. Burke, Inc. I should like to bring out several facts:

1- A preliminary examination of the old slab was made by Burke personnel at no cost to us.

2- The rough sketches were made at our request, at no cost.

3- Burke personnel and company officers came to Hoffman Estates several evenings to meet with us.

4- At no time was a definite cost estimate run for the Community Council. The $34,000 figure was a limit, not a cost estimate.

5- After the council's files were turned over to the Village authorities, Ralph H. Burke, Inc. was asked to prepare a firm cost estimate and preliminary drawings of both the entire community area in block 47, and the proposed Community Center building.

They prepared three plans for the building and submitted a cost estimate for each. These are the first firm cost estimates, subject to a 10 per cent variation.

These drawings and estimates were presented to the village planning commission, of which I happen to be a member.

Mr. Gannon and Mr. Jenkins recommended the acceptance of the overall area plan and of the Plan Two building. We found these to be acceptable from the community plan standpoint and so approved unanimously.

The village authorities seem to believe that the Community Center building, the caretakers house repairs and the village hall repairs should be financially tied together into one construction project. I do not propose to inject my personal opinion of this plan. This is a matter for the village board and each voter to decide.

Village Earns Citizen Praise

I would like to write an open letter to the members of the department of public works of the village of Palatine. I believe these gentlemen should be congratulated on the marvelous job they have done on snow removal and street plowing for our town. I had intended to write this letter last week; but I am afraid I put it off until the article, "Snow Plowing Plight Cited," about villagers complaining of not having their sidewalks plowed, "got my dander up."

THOSE OF us who do not travel from our village after a storm do not realize that Palatine streets are in much better condition than any of the other northwest suburbs. The morning after the big storm all streets were plowed — this included side streets (some of which are only a half-block long) and business streets: not just one swath down a street but shoulder clearance as well as two-lane traffic room. Our business district was cleared of snow a full day before the other suburban business districts.

During the 13 years my husband and I have been residents of Palatine, this condition has always prevailed; and we feel we would like to give our vote of thanks to the members of the department of public works: THANK YOU FOR AN EXCELLENT JOB.

What's Going On at School?

Of the many questions constantly posed before the American public, the one regarding our educational standards is probably the most important to the average American.

This question is inevitably answered by either an aging scholar or an impetuous newspaper reporter.

While these people are usually competent, many times they do not have an accurate picture of the situation. A true description may, in fact, come only from those directly involved—the teacher or the student. Many faculty members of various institutions have aired their views on this subject; however, very few students have expressed their opinions of our educational standards.

Had it not been for the recent derogatory statement in the Enterprise ("One could only ask, 'Why? What's going on at Palatine High School?' ") this student, too, would have remained silent. But, since the Enterprise has seen fit to pose the question, I will attempt an answer.

THE EFFORT required for the reporter who questioned our high school to learn what's going on there, would have been very slight indeed. He needed only to read beyond his own hostile article. Appearing on the front page, adjacent to his sensational headline, was a story announcing the coming Louis Armstrong concert, sponsored by the Student Council of Palatine high school. This organization of more than 60 students continually leads the activities of the student body toward good citizenship and social responsibility. Sponsoring this concert is merely one of dozens of similar projects undertaken by the Student Council, each requiring a great deal more intelligence and ingenuity than any burglary.

If any doubt still prevailed in the reporter's mind as to the activities of the high school, he might make a further investigation, this time probing the great number of clubs devoted to positive expenditure of the students' time, and athletic activities aimed at producing good, well-rounded citizens. He might also examine the curriculum of Palatine high school, which is highly respected in state circles. Although the reporter obviously has a profound source of information concerning the high school, I am confident he will find no course devoted to burglary.

PALATINE high school is indeed an excellent place to supplement good character, but no school alone can foster this trait; it must be developed in the homes and churches.

We, the students of Palatine high school, regardless of what some people may think, do resent the comment made in last week's Enterprise. "What's going on at Palatine High School?" The answer is simple—the worthwhile education of more than 1300 students.

Answers Charge Of 'Nepotism'

An editorial in Press Publications, February 11, 1960, is misleading. "If the Republicans nominate Hattendorf, they will present the Democrats with an issue, ready made and served upon a silver platter. — The issue is "Nepotism."

This matter of "nepotims," or employing relatives, is not illegal and has been in practice since political offices came into being. This is true not only in this county, but in political offices in general. Surely you don't believe that the offices of the Democrats are free from "Nepotism?" Since nepotism seems so distressing to some, why don't they work for legislation to remove their grievance?

AGNES FENLON has been employed in the Recorder's department for eight years before I was elected Recorder. Should she, an able and qualified employee have been dismissed because she happened to be a relative?

When the previous Deputy Recorder was stricken with a fatal illness, I hired my wife, Pauline, to carry on until Paul Hollenbeck, the present Deputy Recorder, was employed to fill this position. Mrs. Hattendorf is paid for part-time work only on the basis set up by the Finance Committee. The amount shown in your editorial is for full time employment.

Richard Hattendorf, an experienced photostat operator, was hired to fill an unexpected vacancy when the previous operator moved out of the county. Richard, his wife, Cynthia, and their four children live at 214 West Lincoln, Wheaton. They are active members of the Young Republican's Club. Was it wrong to employ an honorably discharged pilot of World War II simply because he is my son?

IS AN OFFICIAL'S age (be it 49, 60, or even 80) of greater importance than his ability? My record of economy and efficient impartial service to all speaks for itself. I believe my many friends all over the county will attest to this.

Dime Workers Give Thanks

Miss Linda Mangels and Mrs. James Nebel, co-chairmen of the New March of Dimes, wish to thank the community for making the 1960 drive a huge success.

The 62 volunteers who went out on the Mothers' March January 28 collected $730.50. The remaining amount collected from coin canisters, school coin cards, club and personal contributions brought the total to $1,009.37.

This money will help to fight the three crippling diseases — polio, birth defects and arthritis.

Snow Clearing Policy Puzzle

Please tell me, why, in Roselle, did they start clearing the snow after the storm, when most cars were in town and workers were on their way to work. In Chicago they start clearing snow in the wee morning hours when no cars are out, and they don't let the snow get ahead of them. But here they wait till its daylight and then it's 10 times worse to clear.

Where were the snow plows in the early morning hours and also why were the select pets given jobs to clear snow or tell me, how do you join the "inner sanctum" here to get choice jobs like this that pay well?

Snow Plowing Service Issue

At the February 11, 1960, Hoffman Estates village board meeting, reports were made to the village board on the snow plowing services provided during last snowstorms.

I attended foregoing meeting to learn what would be reported, and to voice an opinion in the event that no reports were made because I was certain that the snow plowing services were handled with little supervision and planning.

TRUSTEE — Mr. Bruce Berger, did not make any report on complaints received, but did report that a good job was done. Trustee — Mr. Edward W. Cunningham, reported some complaints received and a good job done.

At the meeting, I questioned these reports and the basis for same because it was certainly obvious that some streets were hardly serviced, some were inadequately serviced, on some streets snow plows were making three and four runs over the same track and continually covering up driveways and making no improvement on the street as the snow plow blade was elevated and merely knocking the piled up snow back on the street and in driveways. At the meeting, other residents reported snow plows making three and four runs over streets with little or no accumulations of snow. This is the good job reported?

After I voiced my opinions relative to the lack of supervision and planning, and questioned the reports made to the village board and the basis for same, Trustee, Mr. Edward W. Cunningham, was somewhat unmannerly and told me that he could arrange to discontinue snow plow service on the street where I reside, if I thought this would be better.

MR. Cunningham, your public remarks were unwarranted and dictatorial —I am entitled to some voice in government, even if same is in the form of a justifiable complaint, and even if I thought it would be better not to have snow plow service, you alone do not have any right to deprive people of their rights to public services.

I think you owe me, and the people a public apology for your dictatorial threats to discontinue a public service because of my opinions and justifiable complaints.

Teens Win Commendation

One reads so much about the wrongdoings of teen-agers, we would like to report something on the other side of the ledger.

Last Friday night we drove to Mount Prospect to see the gymnastic meet at the high school. When we came out after the meet was over, our car would not start. We asked a couple of boys that happened to be parked next to us if they would give us a push. They said "sure." They pushed us and pushed us but the car would not start so they said they would push us to a gas station.

WHEN WE arrived at the gas station, it was closed. They had a "jumper" so they tried to start our car with this. No Success! So the boy who owned the car drove until he found a gas station open, then returned and with his friend's help pushed us up the Northwest highway to this station. But these boys did not stop here. They suggested that if our car wouldn't start that they would take us home. They waited and sure enough the mechanic could not start the car and said they were closing and we should leave the car there and return for it on Saturday afternoon.

The boys, after calling their girl friend's mothers and their own (yes, they had their dates with them all this time) drove us clear back to Lombard.

We feel that these boys, Harry Stirmill and Alan Holdiman, are worthy of public commendation and that their parents, too, are to be commended because they must have set a good example to have raised two such fine boys.

She Praises Board Efforts

In the wake of recent criticism aimed at our village board, I would like to commend them for their accomplishments in a few short months in office.

Recently, the board heard complaints about snow removal. I have talked to many people who agree that our service was surprisingly good considering the amount of snow and drifting. A check on snow removal in other nearby communities would emphasize this. Board members (or rather their wives) were deluged with telephone callers wanting to know what time the plow would be by their homes. Now, really! This finally led one wife to remark, "Don't call us, we'll call you."

IN REPLY to a Mr. Weaver's doubtful inquiry as to the need of a community center, I wonder if he and others realize that in five years there will be a couple of thousand teenagers in the community. To provide recreational facilities for them is alone enough reason for a center, not to mention other groups that badly need facilities. In addition, a community building will help create a feeling of unity and community pride. The proposed bond issue is small enough, considering the fact that it also includes restoration of the village buildings, which cannot be put off for very long. We are fortunate that the board has not yet found it necessary to levy a municipal tax.

Those who would criticize volunteers or elected officials should first ask themselves if they could do better and what they have done to help.

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

Patty Becomes a 'Star'

Dear Peg:

You've heard me speak of our drama group—the 17 couples who meet once a month, in the home of a member couple, to either act in a play or watch the others perform. Although we do read the lines, each from his own script, with our requirement that the cast read the play several times and attend one rehearsal, the "actors" (in costume) are so familiar with the lines and action that the script books are scarcely noticeable.

Being rank amateurs (some ranker than others) the selection of a play is of primary importance. We have learned through several sad and boring experiences to steer clear of plays with a message or those of a tragic or melodramatic nature. Our most successful plays have been those involving either amusing characters (we had a wonderful time with "Arsenic and Old Lace") or family life ("Time Out for Ginger" was hilarious). Last night's play was one of the best. Nancy and Rome showed real genius in their selection of "Onions in the Stew," based on the book by Betty MacDonald, and absolute brilliance in the casting I was a sweet and lovely seventeen year old and Bob was my father.

If you read the book, you know that the story is about a family who leaves its home in Seattle to try life on an island in Puget Sound. Throughout the first acts the teenage daughters detest the island, the islanders and their parents for sentencing them to a life of exile on the island. Through all the catastrophes that happen in their rustic home, Don, the father dscovers that he's no do-it-your-selfer and Betty, the mother, finally reaches the sad conclusion that her back to nature move is not successful. However, it's only a matter of time before the view of the ocean, a handsome young islander suitor and the friendly helpfulness of the neighbors win out and the family finds itself too attached to the place to leave.

A wonderful story, good lines and, of course, a spectacular performance!

My love,
Patty

How to Hate Yourself

If you want to do something really nerve wracking, go and sit for your portrait. I can personally guarantee that you will end up a jittering idiot by the time the thing is done. I also will warrantee that you will hate yourself the while.

Anyone who has been to New Orleans knows that artists are thicker than flies. You can hardly go down one of the streets of the French Quarter without stumbling over them. I was simply fascinated and kept sort of pitying the poor people who were doing the sitting. They kept shifting their eyes around so trying to act as though they had just paused there to rest.

Ha Ha, I said to myself, laughing merrily, this I will never do. But, I reckoned without the male in my life. I was so interested in what was going on, I failed to note the gleam in his eye. It came as quite a shock when he let it be known that he wanted one of those. With me the victim.

While secretly I was pleased and flattered, I was also determined not to preserve my physiognomy for posterity. It's my face and I'm stuck with it, but having it glaring life-size down from a wall seemed to me to be too much of a bad thing. I mean, I have a friendly, puppydog smile and all that but I'll never give Mona Lisa a moment's consternation. Or, Loretta Young either, for that matter.

However, somehow I was outvoted and found myself parked in a chair in a very drafty studio with an awfully nice young artist peering at the horrid thing he had to work with. I was most apologetic and kept assuring him that this was not my idea and I knew how I looked but that, after all, I was a certain age and had lived a lot.

So there I sat while father and artist discussed my bone structure, my lean and hungry look and whether or not I was a deep thinker. Although, I never could figure out what possible bearing on the operation my innermost cerebral workings could have. Evidently, there is much more to a face than meets the eye.

So here I am, with me on the wall watching every move of me in motion. I'm beginning to feel rather haunted.

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

by DOLORES HAUGH

A Bit of Ireland Luau

If you dare to be different, here is your chance to mix the Irishman and Hawaiian for a luau as Irish as Patty's Pig.

Invitations

A bright green construction paper derby with a shamrock tucked in, of a different shade of green, will be suitable for the invitation. Open it up and write the following:

The islands called "Aloha"
And old Patrick heard it too
So off he went from Ireland to Sail the ocean blue.
The natives all were cordial
And old Pat just settled down
To beach and surf and flowers
And the Paradise he'd found
But soon the "old sod" called him
And wayward he did go,
The yarns he spun! Why sure,
Twas Blarney, through and through.
Pat said all the potatoes soaked up the sun, you see
And so instead of white inside, 'twas yellow they would be.
No shamrocks, true, but palm trees and Hulas, stead of jigs
And when they ate—you'd never guess but They roasted Patty's Pig!

So come and join the party, with the Wearin' of the green, and we'll have an Irish Luau, the likes you've never seen.

State the time, place and if you want them to come in costume, give awards for the most Irish Hawaiian, most Irish and most Hawaiian.

Decorations

Use everything tropical and tuck green shamrocks in for the Irish flavor. Of course, you will want to sit on the floor and low tables can be made by using four cement building blocks with rough planks across them. Cover the planks with a bright green tablecloth or a brown one. Use Hawaiian print paper cut in the form of shamrocks for placemats. If you have any woven straw mats use them.

GREEN LEIS or colored ones bedecked with shamrocks make excellent favors and of course, the guests n costume can use the added colorful touch. Make green paper carnations for the girls to wear over their left ear and several extra may be tucked into the fruit-laden centerpiece. Clay pipes for the men. If you have this party in the rumpus room, decorate the walls with posters obtained from airline companies upon request. But remember the Irish flavor and add the shamrocks and green derbies wherever possible.

Menu

For a before-dinner drink serve any of your favorites in ½ a pineapple which has been scopped out and then replace the top, garnish with straws, green ones, of course.

Seafood cocktail served in shells, roast pork, curried chicken, sweet and Irish potatoes baked, spicy tomatoes with green peppers for the vegetable, pineapple salads, hot rolls, toasted cocoanut cakes for dessert and lots of coffee.

Let each course last as long as possible. And of course, you can eat everything possible with fingers. At the end of the meal serve hot wet fingertip towels, green ones, so your guests can enjoy the coffee and cake with clean hands. Nuts and fresh fruit round out the menu.

Make much of the menu up ahead of time, allowing for frozen salads, and select partially green fruit the day before so that the centerpiece will be really colorfully fresh. Arrange the fruit on a large green shamrock of paper and use shamrocks for coasters.

Entertainment

The meal should last at least two hours and you can provide background music of all Irish and Hawaiian songs. Plan on a few games: Irish ones centered about potato races or shamrock hunts, and then the prizes in the Hawaiian theme using coconut candy, all wrapped in Hawiian print paper topped with a shamrock.

If you dare to be different, give an Irish Luau. Who says a Shanahan can't hula? (S

50 YEARS AGO
Feb. 25, 1910
Arlington Heights

Washington's Birthday started in like a balmy spring morning but by noon it changed; a blizzard came down from the Northwest and thermometers registered 10 below next morning—a drop of about 40 degrees inside 10 hours.

The five saloons of Arlington Heights collect $30,000 a year from this community and only turn over $2,500 as revenue to the village; that is, we give them $10 and they return less than 84 cents of it—rather an expensive luxury—worse than paupers.

Did you see that new professional rig in which Dr. C. P. Draper drives around these days? It is a pair of light but strong bobs, with buggy box and carriage top, built, ironed and painted by C. O. Peterson. In it the doctor can ride in comfort, sheltered from storms and weather, carrying all his tools, ropes and tackle. Doc says it is the best rig for his work he ever saw.

Palatine

Strangers are thinking Palatine is quite a patriotic town, as Old Glory still waves from the flagstaff. We are patriotic all right, but we would not be advertising that patriotism by outward display if it wasn't that a rope broke. Any one who wants to risk breaking his neck in a good cause is welcome to try climbing that pole.

Meacham

Miss Esther Stecher has a new mahogany piano, of Purcell manufacture, won in a guessing contest. It came last week, and has been a center of attraction for all the Meacham music lovers since.

A lady thot she smelled beer in the Herald office; but on investigation found the delicious (?) perfume came from sour paste left over from mailing last week's papers.

A free public reading room has been established in the Thos. McCune building on Evergreen street. It will be open to the public every evening from 6:30 to 9 o'clock starting Monday, Feb. 28. Go and look it over.

Fifty years of married life—over 45 of it in the same house, is unusual for one couple, but that is not all that Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Horstman have to be thankful about. They celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last week. Altho both are aged nearly 75 years, they are far from being in the "old couple" class. Mr. Horstman says it is not because he has not worked hard, as he has done his full share and he kept at the carpenter's trade until a short time ago. He helped to build the brick block 40 years ago, also the former Kunze building, and the old Schoppe Bros. Store. Carpenters never dreamed of $1.00 an hour in those days, says he. Mr. Horstman was born in Germany in 1845, came to America at 12 years of age, settling in this vicinity. In 1848 in Schaumburg, Miss Emily Meyer was born and cupid's arrow pierced the hearts of these two and they were married Feb. 15, 1870 in the Plum Grove church. Busy as Mr. Horstman was in his active life, he found time to answer the call of his fellow citizens and served as supervisor, chief officer of the Palatine township, 14 years and as alderman 16 years.

Community

This week has been clean-up week after the big storm. One of the worst ice storms in history left thousands of homes in DuPage county and vicinity without electricity and forced scores of business houses to close their doors. Damages were estimated at well over a million dollars by the several utility companies whose power was knocked out. Schools in Bloomingdale, Roselle, Wood Dale and Bensenville were closed because of lack of heat and light. The Public Service Co. of Northern Illinois started out Tuesday last with some 50,000 customers without service. Six hundred repairmen were sent out to repair the over 2,000 wire breaks in the storm region and by Wednesday morning all but 5,000 customers were again with power.

The stately elm trees which have long been the pride of Arlington Heights took an awful beating in last week's storm. Village officials consulted a tree surgeon and found that all trees on the village parkways and in the parks, which were badly split would have to be taken down. If allowed to grow they would decay and rot, causing a hazardous situation. Carl M. Behrens, Jr. of the Behrens Real Estate office has offered 150 Elm trees (free for the digging) to replace the trees damaged by the storm. J. Hamer Hargrave, tree expert, Barrington, estimated storm damage to trees in Palatine and Arlington Heights estimated at a million dollars.

As a public service to the residents of Des Plaines

FREE

WEDNESDAY BANKING

As a new public service, Citizens Bank in Park Ridge will cooperate with all neighboring financial institutions in Des Plaines and has arranged to extend free Wednesday banking to all of their customers when these institutions are closed.

This means that, if you have an account — no matter what kind — at any of the four banks or savings and loan associations in Des Plaines, you may now do your Wednesday banking without interruption by simply registering for a Des Plaines Courtesy Card at Citizens Bank, only four miles away.

There is absolutely no charge for this service and no need whatsoever to transfer your account to Citizens Bank. Every one of these institutions in Des Plaines (and the rest of our great Northwest Suburban Area) is sound, equitable, and among the finest in the nation. If they are closed on Wednesdays, it is only because, unlike "business banks," they are mostly open on weekends for their neighborhood customers. If they were to stay open Wednesdays as well, the extra cost of operation would have to be absorbed or passed on to their depositors.

Although Citizens in Park Ridge is also open weekends for the convenience of our own suburban customers, every Citizens department — including six drive-in windows — always keeps regular loop business hours for our commercial and private depositors throughout the week.

Therefore Citizens can easily cooperate with free Wednesday banking privileges for our neighbors in Des Plaines and other communities since Citizens is always open on Wednesdays anyway. The total objective of all of us — banks and savings and loan associations alike — in our great area is to give the best overall service to the entire area. If Citizens, in the normal course of business, is able to carry a little more of the load, we are naturally glad to do it.

So, come in and register for your Des Plaines Courtesy Card. It will immediately entitle you to all Citizens' Wednesday services just as though you were a Citizens customer yourself.

FREE DES PLAINES PRIVILEGES

1. YOU MAY cash checks on your own bank free of charge.
2. YOU MAY make withdrawals from your savings — either bank or savings-and-loan — by free drafts.
3. YOU MAY even "make deposits" (business receipts, cash, checks, etc.) by free cashier's checks to the order of your Des Plaines institution.

This is a new, but standard, cooperative courtesy already extended, or soon to be extended, to every depositor of any Northwest Area bank or savings and loan association which is closed on Wednesdays.

As a neighbor you can feel perfectly at home at Citizens in Park Ridge. You do not have to live in Des Plaines; you must only have a Des Plaines account to obtain your Des Plaines Courtesy Card. And from then on, every Wednesday is open house to you at Citizens.

We'll be looking forward to seeing you this very next week.

Disease-Free Pig Goal Of Moorman Research

A team of animal scientists, veterinarians and agricultural engineers at the University of Illinois Moorman Research farm will attempt to develop and maintain a disease-free swine herd.

"If this goal proves successful," said A. H. Jensen, "we can help conquer the number one enemy of efficient hog production."

Swine researcher Jensen will direct management and environmental studies at the college of agriculture's new Moorman Farm. Already under construction, it will be completed in 1961. A $200,000 grant from the Moorman Manufacturing company has made the farm's construction possible.

Although the farm is designed primarily for animal breeding studies, researchers can also study management and environmental conditions. Disease prevention and control will be a key area in this work.

TO HELP keep the farm disease-free, Jensen reported that a high fence will completely surround it. Visitors, employees and researchers will enter only through a gate house. There they will receive sterilized boots and laboratory coats.

Veterinary medicine researchers will work hand in hand with the animal scientists. Under the direction of Dean C. A. Brandly, they will continually check hogs for "hidden" diseases. These diseases have no visible symptoms, yet they are present in hundreds of hog herds. They sap the animals' strength and reduce his feed efficiency and rate of gain.

Often they rob hog producers of profits, and the producers never know why they didn't make a profit!

ACCORDING to Dean Brandly, these "hidden" diseases have opened up a brand-new research area. Detecting them requires special equipment and know-how, not just a sharp eye.

Brandly and his staff will use tissue culture tests as one tool for detecting these diseases. They'll prepare samples of animal tissues in a special solution. These solutions show the presence of any viruses. Hogs having viruses will then be treated accordingly.

Jensen notes that researchers will take the original Moorman farm pigs by Caesarean section. This will prevent them from getting any diseases from their dams. The pigs will be raised in isolation, as free as possible from diseases.

Successive generations will farrow naturally, but in isolation quarters.

TURNING to the management studies, Jensen and his co-workers will study such factors as 1. different housing systems, 2. location of feeders and waterers, 3. floor space requirements, 4. manure handling and disposal, 5. ventilation, heat and air-conditioning and 6. lighting systems.

Some buildings will have a controlled environment. This control will allow researchers to study relationships between environmental stress and physiological functions of the pigs. From the results the scientists can determine the best environments for pigs of different ages and sizes.

Jensen feels that management is the most neglected area of swine research today. He hopes that within a few years they can suggest to farmers the most ideal management and environmental conditions for growing hogs.

Directing the physiological studies will be A. V. Nalbandov. His colleagues include P. J. Dziuk and B. A. Rasmusen. They will study artificial breeding of swine. They will also conduct studies in the new field of immunogenetics.

Vitamin Lack Puzzles Beef Cattle Testers

An increasing number of apparent vitamin A deficiencies in corn-belt feeder cattle has beef cattle researchers puzzled, because most of the affected cattle are getting eeds that supply an adequate amount of vitamin A.

A. L. Neumann, head of the University of Illinois beef catte division, revealed this problem at the Illinois Feed and Nutrition conference, February 3-4.

He reported that many Illinois veterinarians, feed company personnel and feeders are reporting this problem. cattle division, revealed this cases had been wrongly diagnosed, especially since the cattle were receiving rations normally adequate in A content," Neumann explained.

"But when the same problem occurred in 30 of our own experimental cattle, we knew the diagnoses were correct."

HERE'S WHAT the 30 affected steers had been fed: At first they either received a full-feed of good legume-grass silage or were on good pasture.

The group then went into drylot for 112 days and received a full feed of good corn silage, supplement and legume hay. Gains averaged 1.74 pounds a day.

After this trial the steers went on a complete mixed ration consisting of 64 per cent ground shelled corn, 10 per cent soybean oil meal, 1 per cent alfalfa meal and 25 per cent ground corn cobs.

THE ONE PER cent of alfalfa meal supplied at least the equivalent of 7,000 International Units of vitamin A. Ordinarily 6,800 units supply enough for beef cattle of their weight.

For the first 56 days of this test, daily gains averaged 2.56 pounds. All steers consumed an average of 2 pounds of feed daily.

Suddenly, however, about half of the steers went off feed. Examination showed most of the classical symptoms of vitamin A deficiency: lameness; accumulation of fluid in the brisket, knees, hocks and hoof-heads; and dull haircoats.

Some steers also suffered from night blindness and loose joints or muscles. When handlers moved the cattle, the steers had convulsive seizures, or fainting spells.

NO STEERS had inflamed and watery eyes, or diarrhea, which both indicate an A deficiency.

A check of blood plasma convinced Neumann and U. of I. nutritionists that a lack of vitamin A was causing the trouble. The plasma vitamin A content had dropped to an average of 20.3 micrograms per 100 milliliters of plasma. Nutritionists believe the normal content ranges between 30 and 40 micrograms.

Neumann emphasized that this deficiency had never before occurred on the rations that were being fed. At the same time he gave several possible reasons for it:

* * *

1. UNKNOWN substances in the corn silage or high-moisture corn may have interfered with the steers' internal mechanisms. This would have prevented them from converting vitamin A sources in the feed into vitamin A that they could utilize.

2. Stilbestrol implants given to the steers might have increased their vitamin A requirements.

3. Some component of the complete mixed ration may have caused vitamin A in the feed to oxidize. This would have destroyed it before the steers could utilize it.

In trying to remedy the situation, Neumann and his staff tried two sources of vitamin A, alfalfa meal and synthetic A, in a dry carrier. Results showed that the synthetic A had a more beneficial effect than the alfalfa meal.

Neumann pointed out that this problem is also occurring in other corn-belt states. If cattle feeders spot vitamin A deficiency symptoms in their cattle, he suggests that they contact a veterinarian, a nutritionist or their farm adviser.

Down On The Farm

CARL F. MEES

with Your Farm Adviser

Corn disappeared at a record rate during the October-December quarter. Total disappearance during the quarter is estimated at 1,067 million bushels. This was 8 per cent more than the five-year 1953-58 average. Even though farmers used record amounts of corn from October through December, stocks on farms and in elevators on January, totaled 526 million bushels about a year earlier.

Farmers who use less than 75 tons of feed a year will probably find it less expensive to use custom-mixing services than to mix their rations on the farm. But when feed use rises above 100 tons a year, an automatic electric mixer and grinder on the farm will often cut costs below those of custom mixing, according to R. J. Mutti, University of Illinois agricultural economist.

Soybeans continue their reputation of responding poorly to fertilizer even though that may not hold true on soils of extremely low fertility. On plots in Northeastern Illinois where the tests showed "very low" in phosphorus, the soybean yields were increased 6 bushels per acre by applying 165 pounds of 20 per cent superphosphate per acre. Five hundred pounds of super phosphate hiked the yield nearly 9 bushels per acre.

In 1969 the experiment was repeated in the same location. Where the super phosphate had been applied in 1958, there was generally little yield increase from additional applications in 1959.

If the soil tests "very low" in potash, applications of potash fertilizers many times increase yields of soybeans.

About 70 cents of every $1 that farmers take in during 1960 will be needed to cover production costs. The spread between income and costs has narrowed in recent years as prices have gone down and costs have gone up. Farmers are buying more supplies produced off the farm. Supplies of feeds will continue at record levels during 1960, discouraging price increases.

The Illinois Junior Calf Sale will be held at Urbana, Illinois Saturday, Feb. 27. There will be 100 head of purebred calves for 4-H anf FFA. All five of the dairy breeds will be represented. The sale starts at 11 a.m. in the University of Illinois livestock pavilion.

Weeds left growing in corn and soybean rows can rob a farmer of one-fourth of his entire crop. In three years of research at the University of Illinois, giant fox tail left undisturbed in corn rows cut yields by almost 23 bushels per acre.

If any one reading this column grows Jerusalem Artichokes on a commercial scale, I would appreciate hearing from you. I have inquiry for a carload of same.

I have a new publication available entitled "Your 1960 Hog Business." It is a well written publication prepared by our livestock extension specialists at the University of Illinois. If you would like a copy send your request to me at my office, 201 N. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights, Ill.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Lloyd Bach who parted this life February 29, 1956.
Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain.
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.
Loving Wife Martha and Family

IN MEMORIAM

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank friends, relatives and neighbors for the lovely flowers, food and donations. Your kindnesses have meant much to us in our time of bereavement.

Area Dogs Win Honors in Wheaton Show

ZORO OF ARLINGTON and his owner-handler, Lawrence Sebastian, who was one of top scoring dogs in recent AKC licensed trial obedience. Zoro and Sebastian train in classes sponsored by Northwest Obedience Club, Inc.

CONGRATULATIONS ARE being received by Dina-Mite, toy poodle, and her owner, Kay Blackwood, on completing AKC requirements for CD obedience degree in minimum of three shows. Dina was one of several area dogs entered in recent Wheaton show.

Arlington Heights was in the limelight Sunday, Feb. 14, when a Labrador Retriever bearing the village name, was one of the top scoring dogs in Wheaton Kennel club's annual obedience trials. Zoro of Arlington, 2-year-old dog owned and handled by Lawrence Sebastian, 412 W. Wing st., Arlington Heights, scored a 197 out of a possible 200 and was topped only by three 197½'s in the Novice A class. Only in training since last August, this was Zoro's first show.

Sebastian and his labrador have been training weekly with Northwest Obedience club in Palatine, of which Stanton Petry of Arlington Heights is president.

KAY's DINA-MITE a small miniature poodle owned and handled by an Arlington Heights teenage girl, Kay Blackwood, 620 E. White Oak, now has the distinction of earning a companion dog degree in only three shows. At the Wheaton show, Miss Blackwood took her 4-year-old female dog successfully through the novice exercises to earn her third "leg" completing American Kennel club requirements for the CD degree.

AKC requires passing scores in three shows to earn this degree and to complete the requirements in the minimum number of three shows, is an unique achievement for an amateur handler.

Another area poodle entered in novice obedience classes was Nadou, standard poodle owned and handled by Mrs. Alice Edwards, Quentin rd., Palatine. Nadou was seeking a third "leg" and received a score of 190; however, AKC regulations specify that each leg must be earned under different judges, and Mrs. Edwards learned too late that Nadou had already shown under the Wheaton show judge.

SEVERAL members of Northwest Obedience club also showed their dogs in conformation at the show. It was no surprise to Weimaraner lovers when Mrs. Erma E. Muster's Ch. Gourmet's Sardar took best of breed, for Sardar earned this same honor at the recent Westminster show in New York City. Mrs. Muster lives on Hawthorne ave., Bensenville; her husband, DeForest Muster, is immediate past president of the Northwest club.

A best of winners ribbon in open class was earned by Neptunus Rex, 2-year-old Labrador Retriever owned by James P. Frohnapfel, 6 E. Palatine rd., Prospect Heights. Neptunus Rex has 12 of the 15 points required by AKC toward his championship. First prize in open for bitches of any color was earned by Robert Fischer's 16-month-old black Great Dane, Lady Marie Von Fischer. Fischer lives at 11 Countryside, Prospect Heights.

STARGOLD's Tonka Flash, Golden Retriever puppy owned by Mrs. Starkeson, 515 S. Oak, Palatine, took a second place ribbon in the six to nine month-old puppy class.

Several club members living outside the Paddock area also won honors at the Wheaton show. Among them were Earl Davis of Elgin with an obedience score of 190, who went home with the third place trophy in Open A with his Bull Mastiff, Gem, and Mrs. Irene Kellman of Skokie, whose toy poodle, Kel-Mar Topper, took reserve winner in the toy group conformation. Judy Peavey of Barrington earned a 193 and completed requirements for her CD degree with her Shetland Sheep dog, Sharky.

THE OBEDIENCE club's bi-monthly meeting was held Friday in the Prohaska home on Illinois rd., Palatine. Announcement was made of committee chairman for the club's third annual licensed show, to be held August 21 in the field house of Prospect high school. David W. Terrill of Long Grove, who was named show chairman, called a meeting of the show committee for Sunday, in the Charles Berry home, N. Highland, Arlington Heights, to formulate plans for the August show. Among committee members is Mrs. Elaine Petry of Arlington Heights, who was named chief ring steward. (A13
